KNOX Plans To Transfer TV Station Here

Transmitter & Tower Would Be Located on Site East of T. R. Falls

Announcement of a request for transfer of the KNOX—TV transmitting station from Grand Forks to a site east of Thief River Falls was made Wednesday by Robert Lukkeson, general manager of Pembina Broadcasting corporation and Community Television Corporation of Grand Forks.

In a special telephone interview with the Times this morning, Lukkeson stated that the transfer would probably take place in the next 12 months, depending upon action by the Federal Communications Commission, weather and other factors. Location of the transmitter and a 220-foot tower here would give the city grade A television reception on ABC network programs.

Another transmitter would be constructed near Hillsboro, N. D., which would give Channel 11 signal reception to Grand Forks and Fargo. The station here would be a satellite of Channel 11 and would carry all programming but would not have a studio or originate programming here, Lukkeson said.

To finance the multi-million dollar project, which also involves station KXGO—TV in Fargo, the majority of stock in the companies would be sold to Ferris Traylor of Evansville, Ind., the owner of a television station there. The station to be established at Thief River Falls would provide grade A reception to about 12,500 persons, Lukkeson said.

Gene Sjoberg, who has previously announced plans for construction of a tower to bring better television reception into Thief River Falls home on a subscription basis, stated this morning that he does not contemplate a change in plans as a result of the announced station transfer. The Sjoberg tower would provide reception from the National Broadcasting company, British Broadcasting company and Columbia Broadcasting system in addition to the American Broadcasting company schedule carried by KNOX-TV.

Cleanup Week to Open Here May 14

In compliance with a proclamation issued by Governor Elmer L. Andersen, the observance in Thief River Falls of Cleanup during the week of May 14 to 19 was ordered this week by Mayor Orin Green and Dr. H. Paul Wendt, city health officer.

Examine stairways to see that they are in good repair, well lighted, and equipped with a handrail. Be sure that scatter rugs are tacked down, and that toys are kept off of stairways. Remove oily rags, gas cans, and stored papers from home and garage to reduce fire hazards. Chimney and furnace should be inspected and cleaned regularly. Check electric cords and outlets for overloading and fraying.

Under Minnesota's health laws, the health officer of each city and village must make a "thorough sanitary inspection" of his community in the month of May, present a written report with recommendations to the city council, and then send a copy to the Minnesota state board of health.

Elaine's CHATTER

She may not be one of the ten best dressed women . . .

She, no doubt, is never the life of the party . . .

Contrary to most male opinions, she is not the best cook in the world . . .

She isn't a great orator, making world-shaking speeches.

She is not the person you take all your troubles, failures and short-comings to; fact is, you try to keep them from her.

She has been known to embarass you by showing cute little pictures of you, taken in the nude when you were helpless to do anything about it.

She has a marvelous faculty for remembering things like . . . the time you dropped the cat in the well to see if he could swim ...unscrewed all the light bulbs . . . asked the preacher if he liked beer . . .

No, she isn't the perfect person by any means but she is the dearest one in the world to you, because she is your MOTHER.

May 13th has been set aside as a day to pay tribute to your MOTHER.

Let Sunday be her day, go to church with her, take her out to dinner, buy her flowers or a gift from ELAINE'S. Mothers want to please and be pleased. We have a wonderful selection of gifts for MOTHER, whether it be a dress, hat, hosiery, lingerie, we invite you to see them at ELAINE'S. We'll be happy to gift wrap them in the gayest of packages.

Mrs. Jaycees To Sponsor Charity Ball on May 26

Proceeds from Event To Help Establish Day Care Center for Retarded

To aid in the establishment of a day care center by the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children, the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees chapter will sponsor a charity ball to be held Saturday, May 26, at the Elks club rooms. Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

"South Pacific" is the theme for the event and decorations follow the Polynesian theme. Music for dancing will be provided by the Dixielanders orchestra and tickets at $2 per couple are available from members of the Mrs. Jaycees and at the Junior Shop.

All proceeds from the ball will be contributed to the Pennington-Red Lake association for use in securing and equiping a site for recreation to be used by mentally retarded youngsters in the two counties. Only the costs of producing the ball will be deducted by the Mrs. Jaycees chapter.

Tonight the chapter members will meet at the home of Mrs. Roger Tunberg to work on decorations and posters for the event. Mrs. Ralph Foster and Mrs. Maynard Troland are co-chairmen of the charity ball with other committee chairmen including Mrs. Larry Evenstad, decorations; Mrs. Marvin Lundin, publicity; Mrs. Roger Tunberg and Mrs. Bruce Hall, tickets; and Mrs. Glenn Peterson and Mrs. James Carlson, program.

The home-talent program will be presented at the dance intermission at about 10:30 p. m. A number of local acts have been secured to provide a variety of interesting entertainment for the evening's program, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Carlson said.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

We are now faced with another school election relating to the issuance of school bonds. The question is still the issuance and sale of $1,595,000 in bonds. The school board has not made any effort to economize, or to modify or revise the plan, or to find a middle way of building. The sky still seems to be the limit. Bond the district as much as the law allows is still the plan.

So far as we can find out there is no rush and no emergency about this building matter. Let us take some time and study the matter more carefully. Is there really any need for any such large and expensive building? If the school board had been satisfied with one half the amount asked for then possibly the voters might have approved the bond issue. With six or seven hundred thousand dollars there would have been sufficient money to make a good, substantial repair of the Washington school and also sufficient funds to build a good, new, smaller building, or an addition to one of the existing buildings so as to provide additional class rooms. That would have been a reasonable middle way to take care of the building needs of the district for several years to come. We would then have had time to pay up a large part of the school indebtedness, instead of plunging the district further into debt.

We just read in the Winnipeg Tribune for May 2nd that Prince Charles of Great Britain is attending school in a building two hundred years old, built in the seventeenth century, at Gordonstoun, in Scotland. If they can use their old school buildings and economize in Great Britain, and Scotland then we certainly should be willing to do likewise in Thief River Falls.

Our school district already owes $1,250,000 as near as we can find out, and we are paying about $40,000 in interest each year. Why should we now load the people down with excessive taxes? Look at the tax receipts for the last few years and see what is going on. Do we want more taxes? The City is also preparing to sell $285,000 in bonds for street improvements. These bonds of course must also be paid.

We hope all the voters of the district, including the farmers will take time to go and vote. Let no one stay at home. All voters should have their say again. Go to the polls and vote "NO" on this proposition to issue $1,595,000 in bonds. Let the school officials know just where you stand. May the vote be so strong that there can be no misunderstanding.

Yours very truly,
H. O. Berve

Buddy Poppy Sale To Be May 18-19

Sale Last Year Totaled $582 for 4,500 Poppies

Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19, have been designated as VFW Buddy Poppy Days in Thief River Falls, according to Mrs. R. W. Nelson and Mrs. L. W. Perkins, poppy chairmen for the VFW Auxiliary, and Roy Jorgenson, chairman of the poppy sale for the Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the business area will be canvassed by auxiliary members to sell poppy poster cards. Last year the local unit sold 4,500 poppies and 130 posters for a total of $582.51. Expenses for poppies and advertising totaled $291.96.

Based on the sale of poppies at 10 cents each, a poppy dollar is spent as follows: 43 cents to post and auxiliary relief funds; 20 cents to Minnesota Department rehabilitation fund; 10 cents to national orphans' home and hospital; 10 cents to national rehabilitation fund; nine cents to cost of materials; 3.5 cents to cost of advertising, shipping and handling; and 4.5 cents to disabled veterans for assembling poppies.

When more than 10 cents is paid by the public for each poppy, the local post and auxiliary receive that amount exclusively for direct assistance to needy veterans' families, the chairmen said. Cooperative support from the public is again asked by the VFW and auxiliary this year.

Robert Berg Is Featured in Story In Texas Paper

Reporter Interviews Former Resident About Low Budget Movie-Making

Bob Berg, former Thief River Falls resident, was featured recently in a personal column in the Austin American in Austin, Tex. The column unfolded Berg's attempts to produce a movie on a shorcut budget. He teaches life drawing and design at the University of Texas.

Berg's wife Pat also has a master's degree in art and they spent the first year of their marriage in Paris on her Fulbright Scholarship. They had met while doing graduate work at the University of Minnesota.

When returning home from Paris they met friends in London who knew Stanley Kulbrick (director of "Paths of Glory" and "Spartacus") Hoping this contact would help start his own movie production, Berg and his wife went to California. When they got there, Kulbrick was gone to London to film a picture.

Berg acquired a 16 mm camera and began producing the picture. Actors are non-professional and include Bob's twin brother Richard. So far the budget has been about $3,500. Another $3,000 will be needed to finish the print for commercial distribution in 35mm. "The Dwellers" will be aimed at art movie theaters to go along with regular length features.

C of C Reviews Program of Work Tuesday Evening

Business-Clergy Day Is Set for May 24; LaFave Reports on Park Project

Directors, committee chairmen and ex-officio members of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce took a comprehensive look at the 1962 program of work at a joint meeting held Tuesday evening in the fireside room at Noper's Motel.

J. B. Holter, president of the chamber, commended board members and committees for strong support in keeping the program of work on schedule and having good record of attendance at committee meetings. Financially the chamber coffers are about on a par with last year's successful operation.

May 24 was announced as the date for Business-Clergy Day when pastors of community churches and businessmen will discuss to what extent churches are businesses in the community.

William LaFave noted that the centennial park will be completely developed this year and expressed appreciation to the centennial committee which worked on the project in previous years. As president of Jobs, Inc., LaFave also expressed appreciation for cooperation received in securing the sunflower and millet processing plant here.

Stan Pladson, reporting on work done by the agriculture committee, noted that fertilizer dealers had cooperated in a test plot program being arranged through the local Future Farmers of America Chapter. About 20 FFA members will plant five-acre plots of grain, fertilizing half of each plot according to soil test and leaving the remainder unfertilized. Some of these plots will be visited on this year's farm tour.

It was also noted that a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce will attend Greenbush Sheep Days to hear Governor Elmer L. Andersen on June 6. Tickets to the June 6 banquet are available at the Chamber of Commerce office at $2 each.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert F. Smith of Miles City, Montna visited with Mrs. Christine Reek last Thursday. Mrs. Smith is a niece of Mrs. Reek.

"CLEMENTINE" rang out loud and clear as 6th grade students at Knox elementary school performed for parents Wednesday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The audience joined in four verses of the song and the class added a new fifth verse which noted "artificial respiration would have saved my "Clementine." Directors and coordinators for the Minnesota history program were students Darryl Zitzow who served as announcer and Alan Swenson who had charge of the scenery. Class members also brought histor*ical items for display and filled two tables in* the gymnasium.

PIONEERS came to Minnesota in quest of fertile farm land, a place to raise crops, feed their livestock and get a firm foothold on life. This group of Knox elementary school sixth graders portrayed pioneers in the "Early Minnesota" history program presented for parents Wednesday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The group included John Rambeck, Gary Tweten, Terry Stelmaschuk, Rebecca Ballingrud and Michele Quam. The yonngsters above portrayed a family on its way to the Red River Valley to take root.

Public Opinion

Editor Times:

The Voters of School District 564 who voted No on the recent school bond issue only because they didn't want an increase in taxes should realize that no matter what action is taken, it is going to cost money.

Either we follow the proposed program, which has been two years in planning in order to meet our needs at the least possible expense; or we use "The Hoel Plan", which according to architects and engineers will cost over $2,000,000; OR we do nothing—deteriorate into a sub-standard school possibly jeopardize our state and federal aids which amounted last year to over $746,000. (Local school taxes for the same period were $475,000).

No matter how we look at this issue, it is going to increase our taxes—let's get the most value for our money.

LHS Orchestra To Give Concert Tuesday Night

Under the direction of James Solsten, the Lincoln high school orchestra will be presented in concert Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. In addition to the concert orchestra which recently participated in the state area music festival, the junior high orchestra will present several selections as will a select string group.

Several other ensembles which participated in the music festival will be presented at the concert. Proceeds from the event will be used to start a uniform fund for the orchestra—a project which has recently been undertaken by the group. The uniform will consist mainly of a sports jacket or blazer with trousers and skirts to be provided by the individual students.

Further details on the concert and pictures in Monday's edition of the Times.

Incumbent Ervin Strandquist filed for re-election and Mrs. Raymond Tunheim filed for the other vacancy. Peter Tandberg, the other incumbent whose term expires on June 30, 1962, did not file for re-election after serving three terms on the board, the past several years as chairman.

The polls will be open from 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m.

TO THE RESIDENTS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 564

As a candidate for School Board Member I wish to make known clearly what my position is on the proposed bond issue.

We are now and will be confronted with problems of development that will affect each and every resident of the district, their children and those to come.

I do not agree with the Program now being presented by the Board of Education.

I do believe that the school needs can be effectively provided in a much more economical manner.

I respectfully solicit your vote and support in the coming election.

Delmar Hagen in Washington with Minnkota Group

Delegation Protests $36 Million Loan Made to Rival Power Co-op.

Delmar Hagen of Gatzke is one of three Minnkota Power Cooperative directors who, with Andrew L. Freeman, manager, are in Washington asking for a congressional investigation of the $36 million loan that had been authorized by the department of interior to Basin Electric Power Cooperative.

Minnkota and the other organizations it speaks for in the Lignite group have joined with representatives of the Elk River Power Cooperative Association of Elk River, and the Northern Minnesota Cooperative Association of Virginia Minnesota, in asking for the probe.

The three delegations were scheduled to meet Tuesday with Senators Humphrey and McCarthy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. The Basin group is made up largely of South Dakota, Iowa and southern Minnesota, and also serves parts of Wisconsin, Wyoming and Montana.

According to Mr. Freeman both the Elk River and Virginia associations had been promised inclusion in the Basin group but had been left out in the final proposal.

Firearm Casualty Figures Released

Firearm casualty statistics have been compiled for 1961 by the game and fish division of the Minnesota Department of Conservation and recently released by D. J. Murray, assistant chief warden in charge of the Youth Firearms Safety Training program. Reports were received from county sheriffs and a total of 190 were submitted.

The reports included 29 fatal shootings and 161 non-fatal with the shooter injured in 105 cases and another injured in 85 cases. Of the 126 shootings on which information was given, 37 were from intentional discharges and 89 from unintentional firing.

Two major causes of shooting injuries were the victim moving into the line of fire and the shooter stumbling and falling—each accounting for 18 mishaps. Fourteen injuries were attributed to each of the following: horse-play — didn't know the gun was loaded, and trigger caught on brush or some other object. In only one case was the victim mistaken for game. In three cases the weapon was defective and in four cases the shooting occurred while the victim was crossing a fence or other obstacle.

Greatest incidence of accidents was among shooters in the 16 thru 19 age group with the 20 through 29 age group second with 44 and 42 mishaps for the respective groups. Thirty accidents were charged to younsters 14 and 15 years of age, 10 were among those under age 12 and only three were among those 60 years of age and older.

The two most frequently used weapons, the smallbore rifle and shotgun, each caused 52 of the 180 accidents. Sixteen accidents resulted from bigbore rifles, 12 from shotgun slugs and 48 from handguns. In 122 cases the distance from the gun muzzle to the wound was under 10 yards.

Of 123 reports listing game being hunted, 26 accidents occurred while hunting deer, 23 while hunting pheasants, 10 while hunting squirrels, nine each while hunting rabbits and ruffed grouse and six each while hunting ducks and gophers. Non-hunting shooting mishaps included 33 on miscellaneous target shooting, three on supervised target shooting and one on skeet.

Of 21 hunting fatalities, six were while hunting deer, three while hunting ducks, two each while hunting rabbit, ruffed grouse and skunks and one each while hunting squirrel, pheasant, crow, blackbirds, pig and chipmunk. Other fatalities included one while trapping, four playing with guns, one target shooting, one when gun fell from insecure rest and one victim found in cabin apparently shot by deer shiners.

In nearly all cases the accidents could have been avoided if basic rules of firearms safety had been followed, Murray said. The youth training program is one phase which is expected to help in curbing accidents in future years. Each hunter or shooter is responsible for following safety rules to guard against shooting mishaps.

Prowler Nine to Play Fosston Here This Afternoon

Game Postponed from Wednesday Due to Rain; Two Tilts Set for Friday

Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers, carrying a four wins and one loss record, will attempt to get back into action this afternoon, Thursday, when, at 4:30 p. m., they meet the Fosston Greyhounds on the Fair Grounds diamond. This game was originally slated for yesterday afternoon, but the persistent rain forced postponement of the game.

The Prowlers had another of the week's games postponed, that being the district conference game scheduled to have been played against the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston on Monday afternoon. Rain and wet grounds necessitated the postponement of that game.

On Friday, May 11, the Prowlers will make a two-game road trip, playing the Bemidji Lumberjacks and the Bagley Flyers. The game against the Jacks will be played at Bemidji at 3:30 p. m.; while the contest against Bagley is slated for 7:30 p. m.

On Monday night, with game time at 8:00 p. m. on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Prowlers will meet coach Dick Werdahl's Falcons. And on Wednesday night, May 16, coach Bill Brady will bring his District 30 champions, the Ada Vikings, here for a game against the Prowlers. Game time is 8:00 p. m.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Warning

State highway engineer Erv Pearson has issued a warning to the fishermen who will be traveling to Washkisk for the opening this week-end of the pike-fishing season. Erv states that Highway 1 from the boundary of the Red Lake Indian reservation to its junction with Highway 89, is extremely hazardous. The possibilities of being "hung up" are great, and aid and assistance for motorists in that lonesome stretch is at a minimum.

The recommendation of engineer Pearson, for the local anglers who are Waskish-bound (and who isn't) is to take Highway 1 to the Grimley corner (recognized by an abandoned service station) turn north to Ditch 20, and then follow Ditch 20 to Highway 89, and go along Red Lake boundary, picking up Highway 1 on the ridge and moving along to Kelliher and on to Waskish.

The greatest concentration of anglers is expected for the walleyed pike opening at Waskish. And the reports of scouts who have made advance trips to the Tamarac river area is that the fishing should be "tops".

Ice on Lake of Woods

The Waskish area contingent will be augmented by a large number of fishermen who usually open the season on Lake of the Woods. The Lake of the Woods is carrying a huge floe of ice, with Long Point being ice-bound, and Morris Point, on the lake side, having an ice-jam. The Rainy river and Four Mile bay are open, and these waters will undoubtedly get a heavy play. A number of fishermen plan to angle the Rainy in the vicinity of Clementson.

The lakes in the Bemidji area, such as Andrusia, Wolf, Big Bemidji, Cass, Blackduck, and the others, have been ice-free for a week or ten days, and they will attract capacity crowds.

The Mississippi river, near the Knutson dam on the east side of Cass Lake, and the Willems Narrows bridge in the Outfoot Sioux area, will probably be the focal points for the fishermen angling in this area.

Chances are, though, that the pike fishing will be at its best in a couple of weeks, perhaps around June 1st.

Conference Meet Postponed

The five-team Northwest Conference track and field meet scheduled to have been held here on Tuesday afternoon was, because of the weather, which was cold and threatening, was postponed until Tuesday, May 15.

As the day progressed the weather mellowed considerably, and it would have been possible for the meet to have been held. But rather than hazard the risk of having athletes suffering pulled muscles and strained tendons, the tournament officials called for a postponement. It was a wise move for although the weather cleared considerable the temperature remained in the thirties. Cold weather is a particular hazard for track activities for it increases greatly the risk of having muscle and tendon injuries.

So the boys will try again on Tuesday, and it will be case of Roseau, Bemidji, Crookston, and East Grand Forks attempting to dethrone coach Rod Max's defending champion Prowlers.

The conference teams will get a strong work-out this weekend when, on Saturday on the Bemidji State College field, they participate in the Beaver Relays. The Beaver Relays, which has been a "must" for track squads in this area for a number of years, annually attracts some of the finest track talent in northern Minnesota. In addition to the top-flight athletes from region Eight, the Relays gained entries from the track-minded Region Seven. Tony Lynch the famed hurdler of the International Falls Broncos', and Larry Bronson of the Hibbing Bludejackets, one of the top-rated milers in state prep circles, are expected to compete in the Bemidji meet.

League Shooting Opens

The Thief River Trap Shoot League opens its 1962 schedule this evening, Thursday, at the trapshooting range north of town. In first round matches the Wilson Bros., last season's high-average squad, will meet the Northern Chevrolet; the Oen's Appliance will face the Ekeren Pharmacy; the Times will shoot against the Coast-to-Coast; and the defending league champion Ben Franklin will meet the Bjorkman's Clothing... Cliff Bjorkman has taken over the sponsorship of the youthful Starekow Clinic squad.

It had been rumored that Gene Gaer had intended to charge a modest admission fee to watch his champion Ben Franklin squad in action; but the league officials put a stop to Gene's idea. Fact is, the Ben Franklins are worth watching, and the squad will make a strong bid to retain the league championship that they won, after a shoot-off, last season.

Nordics Fourth in Marshall Co. Meet

Track Team Scores 20⅓ Points at Warren May 4

The Newfolden Nordic Thinclads came in fourth with a point total of 20 and one-third in the Marshall county track meet held at Warren on May 4. Stephen topped the meet with 70¾ points, followed by Warren with 61 and Middle River with 47 and two-thirds. Argyle garnered 10¾ points.

With mostly sophomores participating for the Nordics, they increased their total from last year when they only scored 2½ points as freshmen. Individual scoring for the Nordics was as follows: Ronald Shern, 3rd in broad jump; Warren Sagstuen, 5th in 100 yd. dash; Terry Strandquist, 2nd in 440 Yd. dash; Jerry Strandquist, 1st in high jump, 4th in 440 Yd. dash; Merlin Anderson, 5th in mile run. The 880 relay team, composed of Warren Sagstuen, Ronald Shern, Charles Olson, and Michael Johnson, placed fourth; while the mile relay team of Jerry Strandquist, Charles Olson, Michael Johnson, and Terry Strandquist placed 3rd; and the junior high relay team of Donald Hanson, David Mattson, Harley Lind, and Richard Albaugh placed fourth.

Coach Sheldon Elseth said that he was somewhat satisfied with the results considering the age of most of the boys. The next meet for the Nordics before the district meet at Roseau on May 19 will be the Beaver Relays at Bemidji on May 12.

Warn vs. Handling of Young Wildlife

State Conservation Dept. Warns of Practice

The conservation department has issued its annual warning against the picking up and handling of young wild birds and animals often observed in fields and forest and along roadsides in the spring of the year.

Many persons, especially children, can't resist the temptation to pet these attractive little wildlife "friends". Unfortunately, such handling often directly or indirectly is responsible for the death of the young bird or animal.

In many cases, the mother will refuse to care for her young if she detects the scent of man and will abandon them.

Many persons, seeing a young bird or animal apparently alone, think that it has been abandoned by its mother. In most cases the mother is actually close by, but is fearful of showing herself in the presence of humans.

Those who take these young wildlife specimens home with them with plans to raise them as pets are usually disappointed. The specimen usually dies when removed from the care of its mother and its natural environment.

In addition, the department warns that it is illegal to remove young wildlife from the field or to keep them as pets.

Greenbush Trims Newfolden 11 to 2

The Greenbush Tigers took the measure of the Nordic Nine, 11 to 2 in a game played at Greenbush on Tuesday, May 1. The Tigers outhit the Nordics 6 to 2 and the Nordics made 6 errors to 3 for Greenbush.

The score was 1-0 in favor of the Tigers going into the fourth inning, when four Nordic errors led to 5 Greenbush scores. Twice the Nordics loaded the bases and got only one run each time as the hitters failed to come through in the clutch.

The Monday, May 7th game with Middle River on the home diamond was postponed due to inclement weather and will be rescheduled later. The next outing for the Nordics will be a home game Thursday, May 10th against Badger.

Can Retain Bass Caught at Border

The Conservation Department reminded fishermen who plan on trying their luck in the Minnesota-Canada boundary waters on the May 12 opening that they won't have to throw back any bass they might catch while angling for walleyes or northern pike.

This year, for the first time, the bass season in these waters is being opened at the same time as the general fishing season.

Small Game Hunting Seasons Set for Fall

As an aid to those planning their vacations to coincide with the fall hunting seasons, the state conservation department today announced the opening dates for 1962 small game hunting.

In announcing the opening dates, James W. Kimball, game and fish director, explained, "By making this information available in the spring, hunters are able to arrange their vacations and schedule their trips to coincide with their favorite type of hunting".

He said the conservation department establishes the opening date on game species at this time but postpones setting season length and bag limits until shortly before the seasons open.

"This arrangement allows our game wardens, game managers and wildlife biologists to collect data on the annual reproduction later in the season. This in turn allows us to establish bag limits and season lengths on the basis of the very latest information," said Kimball.

"Of course," he added, "the department reserves the right to close any season even though the opening date has been established if it is later learned that a closing is necessary for the welfare of a game bird or animal."

Season opening dates are:

Ruffed grouse and sharptailed grouse, September 22; pheasant and Hungarian partridge, October 27.

Dear — firearms, November 10, deer — bow and arrow, September 29.

Squirrel, rabbit, hares and raccoon (hunting), September 29.

Woodcock, snipe and coot, rail, gallinule and waterfowl, established by federal regulations.

"It has been our aim over these past years to establish opening dates that are mutually satisfactory from the standpoint of management, law enforcement and sportsman satisfaction," Kimball concluded.

Preservation of food by dehydration dates back to prehistoric man, according to Collier's Encyclopedia. In the United States, early settlers depended on dehydrated buffalo meat for food.

ASC Explains Grower and Turkey Producers Eligible in Referendum

Proposed national marketing order for turkeys would not directly affect all turkey growers even if the order is approved in the upcoming grower referendum, according to Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee. The order is designed to provide the industry with a means of adjusting turkey marketings in order to assure fair returns to producers and reasonable prices to consumers.

Growers who do not produce enough turkeys to be directly affected by the order likewise will not be eligible to vote in the referendum, which will be conducted at ASCS county offices from June 18 through June 22. Ballots may be cast either in person or by mail. Producers should contact the ASCS county office to determine their eligibility to vote and to certify the quantity of turkeys they marketed in 1961. To become effective, the order must be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum — either by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum either by number or by volume of production.

In an effort to clarify just which producers and handlers would be directly affected by the national turkey marketing order, the chairman emphasized these points:

1. The proposed order will not apply to those persons who market of turkeys in a year. (In case of production on a family farm from which the total turkey marketings exceed 3,600 pounds in a year, the turkeys produced cannot be divided among members of the family so as to be exempt from the provisions of the order.)

2. The order also will not apply to "producer-handlers" who in their own facilities handle (slaughter) not more than 100,000 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys of their own production per year and who do not buy or sell from or to others more than 5,000 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys a year. (Such "producer-handlers," however would have to file reports under the order if it becomes effective.)

Unless all of the order's qualifications for a producer-handler are met, those engaged in producing and slaughtering their own turkeys are producer-growers and elibible to vote if they marketed more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys in 1961.

Under the order, Johnson explained, there are two classes of producers who would be directly affected — provided of course, that they produce enough turkeys (1) Producer-growers (farmers), who operate production facilities, and (2) contract-producers, who contract with producer-growers and who have a "proprietary interest" in the turkeys — that is, who assume or share in the risk of loss of the production. Both classes of producers would be subject to the order and therefore are eligible to vote in the referendum if they were producers in 1961.

Handlers (slaughterers) of turkeys who would be subject to provisions of the national turkey marketing order would be those who handled more than 7,000 lbs. (liveweight) of turkeys per year. Those who handled less than 7,000 pounds (liveweight) per year would be exempt from all order provisions except that of reporting the quantity of turkeys handled. Under the order, "handlers" are defined as those who slaughter turkeys, or receive turkeys for slaughtering, or dispose of processed turkeys they slaughter.

Top 4-H Citizens to Be Recognized

Top Boy and Girl in Each State to Receive Awards

During the coming months, over 2¼ million 4-H boys and girls will be establishing records which will earn two of them national recognition as the outstanding 4-H boy and girl citizens in America.

Also at stake are awards for the top boy and girl 4-H citizens in each state. The awards are based on the demonstration of praiseworthy prticipation in public affairs, civic welfare, community betterment and club responsibilities.

The national winners will receive an expense-paid trip to the 1962 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. The top-rated boy and girl in each state are given a certificate of honor, usually presented them during a special 4-H recognition event.

Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, the program is sponsored through the National 4-H Service Committee by a fund set aside for the purpose in memory of the late Thos. E. Wilson of Chicago, who, during his lifetime, gave both moral and financial support to the 4-H program.

Another Election

These school elections are coming pretty close together. Last week the voters, in a record number, decisively rejected a proposed bond issue. Next week the annual meeting of the school district will be held and the voters will have an opportunity to elect two members of the board to represent them in the management of the district's affairs for he next three years. And, the week after next, there will be another election to determine whether what the voters said so decisively last week is what they intended to say.

All of these elections are important and each of them deserves the interest which the first one received. A lack of interest in one can negate the wishes of the voters in the other two.

These school elections are not, and should not be personal. In strictly local matters the Times generally disqualifies itself as a judge of the quaifications of individual candidates. And in the coming school election, to be held next Tuesday, we have no preferance of a personal nature for the selection of board members.

Fortunately the issue is made easy by the fact that the candidates have identified themselves with the bond issue question. The incumbents favor the school expansion program as it has been proposed. The two candidates who oppose them are candidates soley because of their objection to this program in its present form.

The election of two school board members at the annual meeting Tuesday is therefore closely related to the bond issue question. A majority of the voters have indicated their objection to the bond issue proposal in its present form. As objectors they presently have no representation on the board. The decisive vote against the bond issue last week clearly indicates that the objectors should have representation on the board.

It is for this reason that we call to the attention of the voters the importance of the election at the annual meeting on Tuesday.

Spanking is O.K.

The psychologists have finally discovered what the parents of most of us knew many years ago, that a spanking is sometimes good for the child. Dr. Joseph J. Antonitis, University of Maine psychologist, told the members of the Eastern Psychological Association, meeting at Atlantic City recently, that simple nay-saying to a child may produce the opposit effect in behavior.

He explained that experiments indicate that something stronger in the form of disapproval "may be needed to reinforce desired behavior in the very young. Some parents call this spanking."

We are glad that the 2,500 psychologists who attended the session now have that matter straightened out.

Sabre Rattling

President Kennedy has ordered a cut by several thousand in the number of nuclear warheads to be ordered according to the New York Times. The reduced rate of acquisition will effect mostly the small battlefield-type weapons.

The president's action was taken presumably because the nation already has more than enough nuclear weapons of certain types, the report states. Well, if we already have more than enough it makes sense to curtail production.

But the order also coincides with growing concern in the administration over the spread of atomic weapons among United States troops down to battalion and company levels, as well as to units serving with allied forces. The fear is that the profusion of these weapons increases the chances of an accidental explosion or, in case of conflict, of their unauthorized use.

Most of us would agree, we believe, that we would be in less danger if all of the nuclear weapons were withdrawn from our combat troops and we relied solely on our rockets and planes for retaliatory action. It seems to us that we are doing entirely too much sabre rattling and by our foolish boasts of power are inviting trouble.

For instance the May issue of Harper's magazine gives detailed information about "Sixty Ivory Towers Forty Feet Underground" containing Minuteman missiles pointed directly at Moscow, Lenningrad or Kief.

The article does explain the elaborate control system that would make a mistake practically impossible, but the Communist propaganists would use only those parts of the report that would serve their purpose of spreading suspicion and fear of American Imperialism thruout the world.

The FBI warns us repeatedly about Russian spies and that we should be careful of what we say when there are strangers around. The Russian spies can get practically all of the information they need merely by subscribing to a few American magazines and newspapers.

Federal Power

The decision made by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall to approve the loan application of the Basin Electric Power Cooperative Association to build a steam generating plant in the Garrison Dam area, using lignite coal for fuel, is generally looked upon as a step in the direction of federal power. The application of another cooperative, the Lignite Electric Power Cooperative, Inc., a combination of twelve rural electric systems in North Dakota and Minnesota, of which Minnkota is one, was rejected.

Lignite Electric has favored a plan of coordination of the facilities of cooperative and private companies as a means of eliminating costly duplication of distributing systems and reducing the need for standby power. Basin Electric plans to transmit the power over a wider area including Wisconsin, Iowa, Montana and Wyoming.

Andrew L. Freeman, manager of Minnkota and recognized as the leader of the Lignite organization, was bitter in his criticism of the Udall decision. As quoted in the Grand Forks Herald he stated:

> "It is obvious political power play designed to advance a federal power system for this region. It constitutes a bold and highly questionable use of REA loan funds to assist the Department of Interior accomplish something they could never do if they went directly to Congress on their own.
> "In making this loan, the REA administrator has apparently bowed to the political pressures which he has been subjected to. He has apparently been willing to ignore important engineering and economic facts to accommodate these proponents of a federalized power system. His decision to make one loan instead of two such as we recommended demonstrates the extent to which he has been willing to go to assist these federal power proponents.
> "Lignite will never join Basin. If we were to do so the people of North Dakota and surrounding area would be the losers for all time to come. It will cost all of us millions of dollars. In addition it would, in my opinion, destroy whatever opportunity North Dakota has for becoming the home base of any large power consuming industries."

The Basin plan had the support of those officials who favor federal power, and the conclusion that the decision of Mr. Udall was influenced by such thinking seems to be justified. Privately operated power will not be able to coexist with such a development.

The Old and The New

James Reston, capable New York Times writer, thinks that maybe President Kennedy has "changed the mood and the tone of political expression in the capital and he has done it with an unusual combination of informality, dignity and wit." He states that:

> "Ever since the days of Emerson and Thoreau, Americans have been writing about the importance of developing a distinctive "American style" in literature and diplomacy. And after watching President Kennedy during the visit of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, there are a lot of people around here who think that maybe Kennedy is beginning to accomplish just this in the field of diplomacy."

Reston recalls that in the past a visit of a British Prime Minister to Washington was usually a solemn procession, "full of hands-across-the-sea cliches, formal meetings and dinners, and vapid communiques. Harold Macmillan's visit here this time, in contrast, was like a house-party and at times almost like a spree." Highlight of this jovial party in the new spirit, according to Reston, was the White House correspondents' dinner for the President and the Prime Minister. According to Reston, "It was the biggest, noisiest American blowout since the Inaugural Ball." He continues:

> "For once nobody made an English Speaking Union speech about common heritages or the threat of "atheistic communism." In fact nobody even mentioned Khrushchev, which is progress. The comics mimicked both Kennedy and Macmillan; the President and the Prime Minister laughed at themselves, and, while one more dinner like this would probably paralyze the whole alliance for a month, the informality and absence of pretense were almost worth the hangover."

We are willing to accept Mr. Reston's statement that he woke up the next morning with a hangover, but that does not mean that all who attended the party had hangovers and possibly the honor guest, Prime Minister Macmillan, used reasonable restraint and enjoyed good health the next day. We do not know of course, but probably neither does Mr. Reston.

The British press, we are quite sure, would not report a private party in the Reston style if the circumstances were reversed and the president of the United States were the honor guest.

And maybe the old way of doing things, although stuffy and often dull, nevertheless had considerable merit. Diplomacy, after all, should be serious business.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"To dispel the idea that AlcoholicsAnonymous is a secret society of limited membership, the organization has published an annual report for the first time since its founding in 1935. Membership is about 800,000 in 82 countries, a 7% gain over 1960. There are 8,615 AA groups. No fees or dues are charged; and the only membership requirement is a desire to stop drinking."

ADVENTURE IN SUSPENSE!
Ring of Fire in MetroCOLOR
starring David JANSSEN · Joyce TAYLOR · Frank GORSHIN

Climatic scenes of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Ring of Fire" are based on fact. The burning town encircled by a giant forest fire and the escape of the citizens by train actually happened in the great Hinckley, Minnesota, fire of 1894.

This was one of the most disastrous holocausts in the nations history. There were 418 lives lost and 160,000 acres burned.

If Your Farm Burned During A Windstorm, Who Would Pay?

Many windstorm policies don't cover losses from a fire which starts as the result of a windstorm. This is one example of some of the big differences between insurance policies that look alike. I sell coverage by St. Paul Mutual — the company that gives the farmer extra protection at regular rates. Let me show you how this coverage can mean a lot to you and your family.

DAKOTA WHEAT

By having his wheat aerial sprayed, Harvey Alm, Christine, N. D., made money last year. Wild oats were heavy in the "skip" area (right) which were not sprayed but control was good in Carbyne treated area (left).

MINNESOTA WHEAT

Last year, Norman Sorby, Moorhead, Minn., controlled wild oats in this wheat field by spraying with Carbyne. "Skip" at center shows heavy wild oat infestation in untreated area. Result: 12 extra bushels per acre.

If you raise Spring Wheat, Durum Wheat, Barley, Sugar Beets, Flax, Peas, or Safflower

Get Ready Now to Kill Wild Oats with CARBYNE!

Why let wild oats rob you of yields and profits again this year? Apply Carbyne—proven effective on 360,000 acres of crops, by men like you:

4 Steps To Successful Control Of Wild Oats With Carbyne

1. See your supplier for complete instructions on how to apply Carbyne properly. Then make sure your spray equipment is ready to go by making needed repairs, adjustments and calibration ahead of spraying time.
2. After you seed, check fields often for the first sign of wild oats.
3. Watch wild oat growth stages for the proper time to spray. Apply Carbyne when majority of plants are in the two-leaf stage (see chart below). The second leaf may appear four days after emergence, the third leaf within nine days. This gives you a full six-day period in which Carbyne will be most effective.
4. Dilute Carbyne according to instructions. Use no less Carbyne than is recommended on the label.

When To Spray With Carbyne For Effective Wild Oat Control
TOO EARLY
TOO LATE
plant is normally in this stage of growth for 6 days

Carbyne, the only post-emergence wild oat herbicide, has been proven by three years of experiment station field testing . . . three years of Spencer Research field testing . . . two years of farm use, on 360,000 acres of crops last year alone!

Surprisingly Low Cost
You can control wild oats with Carbyne in most close-seeded crops for as little as $3.00 per acre of weed-infested crop area when growing conditions are good.

Wild Oats Just Give Up
One spraying controls wild oats all season when you apply Carbyne according to instructions. Most plants eventually die; those that don't are so badly stunted, they produce only small seed heads. With wild oats stopped, you can get all these profitable advantages:
- Plant earlier and reduce risks of late maturity.
- End possibility of complete crop loss! No reseeding because of wild oat infestation.
- Get the most grow-power from fertility and soil moisture.
- Minimize amount of tillage required for weed control!
- Reduce dockage for wild oats!
- Cut down on future wild oat infestation; reduce number of wild oat seeds in your soil!

Don't Wait Too Long
Get ready now to stop wild oats this year! For detailed application instructions and the complete profit story, see your Carbyne supplier this week for FREE fact-packed Carbyne brochure!

State Traffic Deaths Below U. S. Average

Minnesota ended 1961 with a traffic fatality rate six per cent lower than the rate for the entire nation, according to figures compiled by the National Safety council and the Minnesota department of highways.

The Safety council has computed a rate for the United States as a whole of 5.2 persons killed for each 100 million vehicle miles of travel. During 1961, Minnesota reported the deaths of 719 persons in traffic accidents, and an estimated 14,588 million motor vehicle miles of travel. This resulted in a death rate per 100 million vehicle miles of 4.9 and a fatal accident rate of 4.3.

This, compared to a Minnesota rate of 5.2 fatalities per 100 million miles during 1960, shows a drop of six per cent in the rate. The difference between the one per cent drop in fatalities and the six per cent drop in the rate was attributed to an increase in the number of vehicle miles traveled in the state.

Traffic accidents cost money. The cost of motor vehicle traffic accidents in Minnesota during 1961 exceeds 120 million dollars based on a formula developed by the National Safety council. The annual summary of the highway department points out that "this amount of money would pay the current cost of educating more than 62,000 pupils in this state for the four years of high school. Or it would provide enough money to build 60 hospitals with a capacity of 100 beds each, complete with all auxiliary equipment."

Minnesota totaled 719 persons killed in 624 fatal accidents during the year. A total of 71,646 traffic accidents were reported for the 12 months involving 126,824 drivers, of which only 9,271 were from out of the state.

The annual summary is prepared from accident reports prepared for the commissioner of highways which are used for statistical purposes only. Copies are available from the Safety Division, Minnesota Highway Department, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

Trailers 12 Feet Wide Are Banned

Highway Department Warns Potential Buyers

With the summer vacation season almost here, the Minnesota highway department is again receiving requests to authorize the movement of house trailers wider than the 8-ft. legal limit.

Although special permits may be issued to allow trailers as wide as 10 feet to be moved on trunk highways, such permits definitely will not be issued for wider units which some dealers are now attempting to sell in this state.

The department has warned prospective purchasers of these illegal-width mobile homes that they may find themselves with a new 12-foot wide or wider trailer home and be unable to move it off the dealer's lot.

It has come to the department's attention that some unscrupulous dealers are telling prospective customers that permits can be secured to move these over-width trailers, and they point to the fact that their trailers have been transported to their display lots from either outside the state or from points of manufacture within Minnesota. No permits are issued, the department stated, which will permit moving a 12-foot wide trailer on a trunk highway.

In a letter to the secretary of the Minnesota Mobile Home Association this practice was termed "misleading, poor business, unfair to the customer and is not good business ethics."

Members of the association were asked to desist from this misleading practice and offer for sale only those mobile homes which can be moved safely and legally on the state's highways.

Baudette Donates to Great River Road Job

The Mississippi River Parkway commission of Minnesota is $1,550.32 richer—thanks to the people of Baudette.

Commission Chairman Theodore H. Rowell, a Baudette resident, presented a check for the amount to the group at its meeting Friday in St. Paul.

The gift swelled the commission treasury to over ten times its previous peak.

The money was raised two years ago for the dedication of a new bridge in Baudette but was never used. So the city, which will be on an alternate extension of the parkway, granted it to the commission. There are no strings attached, said Rowell.

Governor Elmer L. Andersen dropped in on the meeting and praised the commission for its role in the progress of the parkway program.

Members were told that the State Highway department planned to seek federal funds up to $50,000, which would permit purchase of strategic parcels of land along the proposed Great River Road. This would make Minnesota the first of ten states along the river to receive such funds.

In other action, the members voted to send Rowell to Washington as part of a national delegation seeking congressional action on the parkway and approved wording of proposed legislation which would enable counties along the river to appropriate $500 each to the commission.

Also considered were:

A protest against extension of the parkway into the Northwest Angle Wilderness.

Retention by the state commission of 20 per cent of membership fees.

Increased public relations efforts.

As a part of Cancer Progress Year, the American Cancer Society is stressing the fact that about 700,000 cancer patients, dinosed and treated in the last five years, will live to enter the ranks of those saved. This means that there are 1,800,000 Americans cured of cancer, but 700,000 will not be formally listed as saved until they have been free of symptoms five years after treatment.

Today one cancer patient in three is being saved. In 1937 25 years ago—only one in seven was saved. The gain in lives saved amounts to many thousands each year. This 25 years of saving lives has resulted in the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Instute designating 1962 as Cancer Progress Year. You, too, can help progress by having a health checkup immediately.

Today there are over 300,000 Americans under the age of 18 who have lost fathers to cancer; over 250,000 have lost mothers. The American Cancer Society says fathers and mothers owe it to their sons and daughters to have a health checkup this year.

Building a Patio

Patio living is relatively new in Minnesota. The patio is an economical way to expand the living space of the home. It has a versatility of space a room indoors can't provide: it's an outdoor living room, a recreation room, a place for sunning and a ready-made kitchen-dining room for outdoor picnics and barbecues.

The patio can be located anywhere within the private area of the landscape. However, it should have some shelter from wind and from sun during the hottest part of the day. Screen fences and shrub backgrounds help to provide shelter. It's best to have the patio near the house for the sake of convenience to kitchen, electric outlets and storage of equipment.

Materials for patio construction are grouped in two classifications: (1) soft surfaces such as turf, loose aggregate gravel, washed sand, granite chips and tanbark; (2) hard surfaces such as concrete (blocks and brushed surface), stone, wood block or wood decking, compacted clay-gravel aggregate. These materials are used in many patterns and textures. Combinations of materials are also popular.

Soft surfaces have the advantage of not requiring a sub-surface fill or base. A disadvantage is the maintenance required in keeping them smooth and level.

First step in patio construction is preparation of the subgrade. The drainage should be away from the house. There should be a slope of 1 inch for each 10 feet. For hard-surface construction 4 inches of sand should be used as a sub-base.

Since certain types of patio construction must meet building code standards, it's wise to get a copy of the building code for your locality before starting.

Spaces between the surface stones or blocks can be filled with white sand or mortar.

A wood preservative is recommended for wooden blocks or wood decking.

Next week's column will discuss patio plants.

According to the American Cancer Society, cancer costs American business and industry many millions of dollars through the loss of valuable executives at the peak of their efficiency and the loss of trained workers at the height of their productivity, and the general loss of efficiency that occurs when cancer strikes an employee's family. In an effort to reduce this loss, the American Cancer Society, as a part of Cancer Progress Year, is urging all adults to have a health checkup. This is the best protection against high costs from cancer.

Secure in LOVE

Kathy is secure in her mother's love. Trust and peace gleam in her eyes. Happiness and hope shine in her face.

But Kathy has her heartaches. She falls and skins her knee. Or she loses her favorite dolly. And then her eyes are flooded with tears.

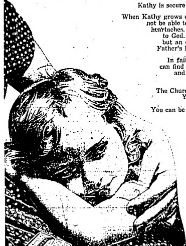
Mommy is always there to help. The knee is bandaged and kissed. The dolly is found. As Mommy's arm slips around Kathy, the tears are dried.

Kathy is secure in her mother's love.

When Kathy grows older her mother will not be able to love away the adult heartaches. But Kathy can turn to God. Her mother's love is but an echo of the Heavenly Father's love for His children.

In faith and prayer, Kathy can find His all-sufficient help and feel beneath her His Everlasting Arms.

The Church guides you to God. You can discover your destiny as His child. You can be secure in divine love.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WARNING!

Are you planning on getting a REAL DEAL on that graduation gift watch from one of the many "so-called" wholesale catalogs? Before you decide, please read what the FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION HAS TO SAY concerning only two of these popular "so-called" wholesale catalog brands.

The following is taken from the FTC News Summary of Dec. 6, 1961:

"Initial Decision (6914). A Federal trade commission hearing examiner has issued an order which would require the following watch company to stop overstating the number of jewels in their watches and misrepresenting that the watches are made entirely in the United States:

Waltham Watch Co., 231 So. Jefferson St., Chicago, Ill. (A Delaware Corporation which in 1957 was spun off the assets of the old Waltham Firm). 12-5-61.

Also taken from News Sdmmary of the FTC Jan. 10, 1962 is the following:

"Order (6807) The Federal Trade Commission today ordered Helbros Watch Co., Inc., 48th 6 W. St., New York to stop misrepresenting the price and quality of the watches it sells and the guarantee on them.

Taking final action on its complaint of May 21, 1957, the Commission adopted with minor modification an initial decision by hearing examiner John Lewis, who found that respondents (Helbros Watch Co.) have pre-ticketed their watches with ficticiously high retail prices. 1-10-62.

The Minnesota Retail Jewelers Assn. wish to protect you by disclosing such misrepresentation as pointed out above by the FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

Why take a chance on so-called "wholesale operators" that understand little about watches other than ficticious price tags?

When choosing a fine watch its only wise to rely on the knowledge, experience and integrity of your local qualified jeweler. You'll receive honest advice, free gift wrapping and budget terms when making your choice. He'll also provide prompt dependable service for years to come — AND there'll be no misrepresentation of quality or prices.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

The federal wetlands program has been approved by the Land Exchange Commission and all is peace and quiet again. Of course, peace and quiet is an ephemeral thing in the game and fish division but most enjoyable while it lasts.

Our appreciation goes out to the Land Exchange Commission, consisting of the governor, attorney general and state auditor, for standing firm in protecting the rights of sportsmen to have reasonable use of the federal wetlands acquired with their duck stamp money.

In spite of having a little hide peeled off, yours truly is well pleased with the final outcome. The new agreement provides for reasonable public use plus due consideration for public access & upland game management. Regional Director, Bob Burwell, did everything within his authority to satisfy the state request.

How many people are still upset about the whole thing: Very few, I think. Success is a great healer. All the sportsmen really wanted was good results and this they got. And how about current relations between the regional director of sport fisheries and wildlife and the state director of game and fish? Well, it seems we have learned the fine art of avoiding personality conflicts while fighting issues. If you happen to be at the right lake on May 12 you will see Bob and me fishing from the same boat as is our custom on the opening of the walleye season.

In 1937 the American Cancer Society launched its first nationwide education program stressing the importance of early diagnosis. It was also the year the National Cancer Institute was created. This year the ACS and NCI are together observing "Cancer Progress Year" to commemorate 25 years of progress in the fight against cancer in the research laboratory, the hospital, the doctor's office, and the public's attitude.

The American Cancer Society reports that more men than women died of cancer last year. This has been true since 1949. The ratio in 1962 will be about 54 men to 46 women. The best protection against cancer is early detection and prompt treatment.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA contact office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—Is it true that VA hospitals welcome volunteer workers and what do they do?

A—Volunteers are welcome. They serve the veteran-patients in many ways — reading to or writing letters for the bedridden; pushing wheelchair patients to and from libraries, chapel, etc., doing errands or just improving patient morale by chatting with lonely individuals. See the director of any VA hospital for further information.

Q—Is legal help necessary to obtain benefits from the VA?

A—It is not necessary to obtain legal help in seeking VA benefits. Any VA office will furnish the necessary forms and instruction and will explain what constitutes eligibility.

Q—Although I was only married to a veteran for two years, we had twins shortly before he died. Is it true that I cannot be considered his "widow" for VA benefit purposes unless I had been married to him for at least five years?

A—When one or more children result from a marriage, there is no time limit requirement in order for the wife of the deceased veteran to qualify as his "widow" for VA benefit purposes.

Supt. Brown Tells School Story To Goodridge Lions

Dr. David Brown, superintendent discussed the Goodridge schools with the Goodridge Lions club at the meeting held last Wednesday evening. The Goodridge schools consist of the elementary and the high school totaling 370 pupils in all with 22 teachers.

The school occupies several different buildings constructed at different times. Dr. Brown pointed out that no buildings in the state have been condemned by the State Department of Education in the last 30 years. Goodridge could use some more buildings but Department of Education personnel have recommended waiting until the educational problems of the area have been further studied by various county survey committees.

This does not mean Goodridge cannot go ahead with building as this has been done in other communities in our area of the state in spite of departmental disapproval, Dr. Brown stated.

At the present time, Congress has under consideration, aid of $2.50 a square foot for building shelters. There is a possibility that this can be incorporated in expanding the school facilities at Goodridge.

"There are no present plans for closing the Goodridge school nor any reasons why this could be considered. With a high school enrollment in a six year high school of 240 there could be a drop in enrollment of 90 pupils and still meet the minimum standard set by the state department of 150 pupils for existing six-year high schools," the superintendent said.

Effective July 1 this year, one common district will be joined to the Goodridge school district as a result of the action of the Pennington county commissioners. Another district will have its petition to join the Goodridge district acted upon next month. With the Goodridge mill rate remaining almost the same as contrasted with the rising mill rate in surrounding communities, there is no financial

Detailed Plans Made for TV Transfer Here

Editor's Note: The following is a news release received too late for the Thursday edition of the Times and contains more complete details on the KNOX-TV transfer to Thief River Falls from Grand Forks. It is being printed in its entirely in the public interest.

A far-reaching transaction involving television service and coverage to the entire Red River Valley is in the making. Announcement of the plans was made by Robert Lukkason, general manager of Pembina Broadcasting company of Pembina, N. D., and Community Television corporation of Grand Forks, N. D. The Pembina firm operates KCND-TV, Channel 12 at Pembina, and Community Television corporation owns KNOX-TV at Grand Forks.

Involved in the transaction is KXGO television, Channel 11 at Fargo, N. D. Lukkason outlined the plan today. It will, he said, mean construction of a transmitting tower near Hillsboro, N. D. A Channel 11 signal will provide "rabbit ear signal" reception for Grand Forks and Fargo.

As a companion move, Channel 10 will be moved from Grand Forks to Thief River Falls as a satellite of the Channel 11 operation. A satellite carries all programming of the home station, but does not originate programming.

Clifford Thomforde, consulting engineer for the Grand Forks and Pembina broadcasting operations, says the new set-up will give near-perfect-picture television to over 100,000 television sets in the Red River Valley.

To finance the multi-million dollar program, a major portion of the common stock of the Community and Pembina Bradcasting Firms is being sold to Ferris Traylor of Evansville, Ind. Traylor owns a station in Evansville. Lukkason said that management of the newly-formed North Dakota network will remain the same as it has been for KNOX and KCND.

The FCC was requested to authorize the acquisition of Channels 10 in Grand Forks, 11 in Fargo and 12 in Pembina by Ferris Traylor. Lukkason, in making the announcement today, said the new Channel 10 and 11 operation will carry programs from the ABC television network, plus, of course, an ever-expanding range of locally produced programs. He emphasized that there will be no decline in advertising service to the Grand Forks area.

KNOX Radio at Grand Forks will operate independently, and is not included in the transaction.

Rev. Swan Attends Pastors' Parley

Conference Conducted Recently Near Bemidji

Rev. Joseph Swan of Thief River Falls attended the recent Headwaters Pastors' conference held at Oak Hills near Bemidji. Sixty-one pastors were registered for the conference which continued four days, Monday to Thursday, April 23-26. Visitors were guests of the Oak Hills Bible Institute for lodging and meals.

Scheduled speakers included Professor Webster C. Muck, psychologist and counsellor, dean of students at Bethe College, St. Paul; and Dr. C. Douglas Young, dean of Trinity Theological Seminary, Chicago, a Bible teacher and an authority on developments in Israel. He conducts a Bible school in Jerusalem attended by American students with members of the Hebrew University among the instructors.

Will H. Wagner of Minneapolis, public relations consultant and training technician, discussed the planning of church and pastoral work. Robert Thompson of the Oak Hills faculty spoke to the pastors of preparing their hearts for their work.

ing the dairy industry and was "proud to represent the largest single industry in the state of Minnesota." Her concluding remarks included the wishing of continued success to the county winners in regional Dairy Day competition.

Brown Reviews Goodridge School for Lions Club

reason for the Goodridge school to close, Dr. Brown added.

He pointed out that by the use of existing buildings in the Goodridge high school area and a system of feeder routes, any building program would be at a minimum and still give all pupils a good education with good transportation. With the reactivation of the county survey committees in the area, the creation of an intermediate unit for education in the area consisting of Red Lake, Pennington and the eastern half of Marshall county could be considered.

This unit could provide services not now available in the area to the schools, such as junior college, nursing service, handicapped children instruction, audio-visual aids, medical dental service and centralized buying.

The Goodridge school follows essentially the same curriculum as provided by other schools of its szie in the state. This year German has been taught in the fourth grade for the first time. In physics a nationally recognized authority is brought to the class room by the use of the Encyclopedia Britannica physics films. An adult agriculture instructor has been added to the faculty this year.

First vice president of the club, Robert J. Towne, reported on the athletic banquet sponsored by the club on April 27. Plans were discussed for the dance on May 19 to raise money for the purchase of midget baseball uniforms under the chairmanship of Oliver McEnelly. Tree planting plans were postponed until further details could be obtained from a nursery in our area.

Chief Cummings, Sheriff Richards Speak at Bemidji

Elton Cummings, chief of the Thief River Falls police department, and Charles Richards, Pennington county sheriff, participated in a meeting of the Governor's Commission on Crime and Delinquency held Friday afternoon in the offices of Hon. Arnold C. Forbes, district judge, at Bemidji.

Chief Cummings spoke to the group on the selection and training of police personnel and Sheriff Richards discussed services of the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension. Warren A. Saetre, Marshall county attorney, spoke on coordination and cooperation among law enforcement agencies, judges and attorneys. Other sections of the program included reporting and statistics and sex crimes. Hon. James C. Otis, associate justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court and chairman of the commission, presided at the meeting.

Voters of Thief River Falls School District

I have debated for a long time whether or not to write this letter, but in all good conscience I cannot refrain any longer.

The school bond issue, recently defeated and to be presented again May 21st, has been so clouded that many voters are forming their final decisions on one or another statement or mistatement of facts.

To you, Mr. Editor, and those people who say "why can't the school board add a few rooms instead of the program as presented?" I hope that you really don't think the board is so thick-skulled and addlebrained that this wasn't the first possibility considered two years ago. Do you really think we propose to raise our own taxes to throw money out the window? Whether I am on the board or not, I'll make every effort possible to prevent any plan that will add 10 classrooms to Knox, the poorest and most populated elementary school in Thief River. The advantages that the rural and west side elementary children have compared to the Knox children is considerable and yet there are those who want to add 200 more students to the 500 already housed on one city block.

To those who propose adding to Lincoln and moving the Vocational School. This, according to architects' estimates, would cost more than the boards' proposal. If adding a few classrooms would solve the problem, I would be all for it. Right now we have to go to an eight hour day so all the students who desire can take shop, home economics, art, etc. In two more years high school enrollment will rise to 1400 students. Four out of the six grades are required by LAW to take physical education. Please tell us, if you can, how 900 students can be scheduled in one gymnasium. It is also contended, by an "expert" that Old Washington can be put in usable condition for $10,000 to $15,000. The school board has made two trips to Greenbush as the "experts" phone has been "out of order." To save money, we were very anxious to offer a contract, providing that, following the repairs, the building would pass state fire and safety regulations. As yet, we have been unable to contact him, but a continued effort is being made.

Finally, to you, Mr. Editor; you endorse the two new aspirants of the school board because "they are candidates soley because of their opposition and it is good to have the opposition on the board." Opposition to what? If their sole reason for filing is to oppose the five remaining members of the board and oppose the administration of education in Thief River, then I believe our district has reached a sad state of affairs. But, if they are truly interested in providing our children with the best possible education with the least possible waste of money and talent, then they will find no one to oppose.

I do not believe a candidates qualifications for the school board should be based on one issue, but be it as it may. I would debate the school boards' deliberate and informed judgement against snap second guessing at any time.

Sincerely,
RALPH M. HELM

Brooks Youth Is 100,000th in Gun Training Program

The 100,000th youngster in the Minnesota firearms safety training program has completed his training and will be awarded a certificate in a special salute. He is Ritchie L. Gagner, age 12 of Brooks.

Game Warden Don Murray, supervisor of the program for the department of conservation, said young Gagner is one of 100,000 youngsters from 12 to 16 years old who have completed training under 4,447 unpaid volunteer instructors since 1955.

Ritchie, accompanied by his instructor, Marc Parenteau, and area game warden Owen Josephson will be personally awarded his certificate by Governor Elmer L. Andersen at the state capitol.

Murray said he hoped to arrange a date when the Minnesota Twins are playing at home and the firearms trainee also would be a guest at the baseball game.

Warden Lloyd V. Lindvall, supervisor of the youth conservation education program, is urging firearms graduates to continue a study of overall conservation and hopes to tie the two programs together.

"This will give those already well grounded in gun safety a fuller meaning of the overall picture of conservation," Lindvall said. The education program also is staffed by unpaid volunteers.

A second piston-type mechanical respirator has been added to the facilities at Deaconess Hospital in Grand Forks, thanks to the generosity of the Scottish Rite unit in Grand Forks.

The gift is a highlight of National Hospital Week, being observed throughout the nation, and marks an important addition to this area, according to Leonard Egstrom, Deaconess Hospital administrator in Grand Forks.

The respirator is the contribution of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Grand Forks, and a check for $1500 to cover its cost was presented by Stanley A. Johnson, venerable master of the Lodge.

The respirator will be made available to other hospitals of this area, when requested by medical doctors in emergency cases.

They Died . . . Needlessly

Abraham Lincoln's boy died a malarial infection. William McKinley died of peritonitis produced by a bullet wound. Calvin Coolidge's son died of an infection that developed in a blistered foot. Prowlers Score 4 to 1 Win over Bagley Club

In a well-played game (only one error was committed and that a throwing error by the Bagley catcher) played at Bagley on Friday afternoon, coach Ralph Skay's Baseball Prowlers defeated the Bagley high school Flyers, 4-1.

Tonight, at 8:00 p. m., the Prowlers will meet the highly-regarded Fertile Falcons on the Fair Grounds diamond. And on Wednesday night, also on the Fair Grounds diamond here, coach Bill Brady's Ada Vikings will meet the Prowlers, with game time at 8:00 p.m.

The Prowlers moved into a 2-0 lead in the second inning of Friday afternoon's game at Bagley. Mike Aune opened the inning with a walk, and then stole second. Larry Poole struck out; Dave Ellingson drew the first of three walks he recived during the game; David Erickson singled to center field, scoring Mike Aune. The throw from the outfield came in to the plate, and when catcher Jim Theis made a low throw to second in an attempt to nab Erickson, Dave Ellingson came in with the second Prowler tally.

In the third, with two men away, John Aune laced a single to center, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored when Mike Aune drove a ground single past shortstop. And in the sixth the Prowlers picked up their final tally when Mike Aune opened with a single past third base, moved to second on Larry Poole's single to right field, and scored when pitcher Mike Berry doled out walks to Dave Ellingson and Rick Jensen. Jim Bjelland came in from first base to take over the Bagley hurling chores, and he escaped unscathed.

Tony Poole worked the first three innings for the Prowlers, giving up but one hit, and pitching shutout ball. Rick Jensen pitched the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, and in the sixth the Flyers picked up their lone run. Jensen walked Bjelland to open the inning. Berry lofted to Ellingson in left field. Jim Sorenson singled into right field, and when Marv Granroth followed with a ground single past second base, the bases were loaded. Theis grounded to second, forcing Granroth and scoring Bjelland. Jerry Duphorn ended the rally by grounding to Gerry Erickson and being retired, third to first.

Ducks by the Carload!

Hilmer Erickson Remembers Early Market Hunting Era

by Marv Lundin
City Editor

Hilmer Erickson of Holt was only a youngster when he picked himself up out of the marsh grass and began searching for the double-barrel muzzle loader which he had just fired. The place was the Mud Lake area northwest of Holt and the time was the late 1800's when hunting ducks for the market was at its highest peak.

Hilmer and another hunter had crept through the marsh grass and then stood up to fire at a heavy concentration of ducks. It was by accident that Hilmer pulled both triggers of the shotgun and was promptly separated from the weapon which flipped him neatly over on his back. For some reason the other hunter did not fire.

After a search for the gun was nearly abandoned in the heavy growth of tangled grass, a trace of smoke was noted curling upward from a spot nearby. There lay the gun, apparently undamaged by the heavy charge and double blast. Although a little damaging on the nerves, the blast had been fruitful for Hilmer and his hunting partner picked up 20 ducks which had been killed or crippled by the shots.

The feat of getting 20 ducks with a single discharge is perhaps the most vivid recollection in the mind of Hilmer, one of a family of nine children who currently lives in a small, two-room house at the south edge of Holt. He also recalls the wrath of his father each time he sneaked away from the homestad with a gun in quest of game. He didn't care much for farm work.

Knox Hires Hunters

One name associated prominently with early market hunting in the area is that of C. J. Knox, a real estate man active in Thief River Falls around the turn of the century. Erickson recalls that Knox hired eight men at wages of $50 per month, considered to be very high at that time, to shoot ducks and geese for the market.

Waterfowl killed by the shooters were stored in an ice house located near Mud Lake and hauled to Thief River Falls with horses three days a week. From here the ducks were shipped by the carload to the R. E. Cobb company in St. Paul. Most of the geese were sold locally at a going price of $1 each. Shooting generally ran from September 1 to freeze-up and in 1897 and 1898 a spring season was permitted.

Unbelievable But True

To those who are too young to remember those days, the stories are almost unbelievable. But the old-timers who lived in that era agree that they are true. Ole Ihle of Thief River Falls remembers duck shooting at Mud Lake when ducks rose off the water so thick in the morning that the sun was obscured. He also recalls when he and two other hunters spent a day and a case of shells at Mud Lake and returned in the evening with a wagon load of ducks.

But for Hilmer Erickson much of his shooting was done for the family table. He paid $2 for his first muzzle-loader, 40 cents a pound for black powder, 10 cents a pound for shot and 10 cents for 100 percussion caps. Snaring rabbits in the winter also helped to provide food through the lean years while the territory was being developed.

There were no roads, only oxen to drive and land to be cleared with an axe. Even pulling fish from the Thief river was hard work since they had to be carried several miles through the swamp before they could be used at home.

Market Hunting Banned

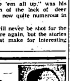
When market hunting was banned in the early 1900's, the era of ducks by the carload passed. Hilmer operated a well-drilling machine out of Middle River from 1911 to 1933 and operated a blacksmith shop in Holt from 1933 to 1952.

One species of game which was not abundant in the Mud Lake area in early years was deer, Hilmer said. "In 1897 we had seven feet of snow on the level and the wolves ate 'em all up," was his explanation of the lack of deer which are now quite numerous in the area.

Ducks will never be shot for the market here again, but the stories of the past make for interesting listening.

HUNTING for the market was a profitable enterprise in the late 1800's and Hilmer Erickson of Holt, now 77, has fond memories of the times when "the water was black with ducks" and the world's best waterfowl shooting was just a short walk from his father's homestead. He is shown with his 10 gauge Winchester shotgun which was a faithful companion on many hunting forays in the early Mud Lake area.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson



The Region's Best Catcher

With every passing game it becomes evident that the baseball Prowlers, in junior John Aune, have the best all-round catcher in Region Eight on their roster.

John, who is playing his second season as the regular catcher (he started his catching duties in his freshman year, being an understudy to Jim Wegge) and he is continuing to make progress.

On Friday afternoon he turned in a fine performance against the Bagley Flyers, throwing out a pair of runners attempting to steal second base, and picking off a runner at third base. The boys are learning to respect John's throwing arm. John's defensive play is reminiscent of that of Halstad's Dale Serum, who caught for the Pirates in 1954, the year that Halstad won the state high school baseball championship.

And not only is John a factor in the Prowlers' defensive tactics, but he is also a power on offense, batting in the clean-up position. He is perhaps the most authoritative batsmen in coach Ralph Skay's batting order. John strokes the ball very well, and his hits invariably have been line shots into left and left-center.

Why not make a trip out to the Fair Grounds tonight, Monday, or Wednesday night, when the Prowlers are slated to play Fertile and Ada?

Attention: Golfers!

The season's first stag night will be held at the golf club on Wednesday, May 16.

It is hoped, and requested, that a large number of club's playing members be present as some important details with regard to the golf league will be up for discussion. There has been some comment as to the advisability of playing the league matches on a match-play basis instead of medal play as in former years. This matter will be discussed on Wednesday, and a decision reached.

The Thieves' Opener

The senior baseball Thieves will begin play on their 1962 Norman-Polk league schedule on Sunday afternoon, May 20, when they meet the Ada Athletics on the Fair Grounds diamond. Game time will be 2:30 p. m.

Joey Poole, who will manage the local club this season, has had a small squad of players out for the practice sessions at the Fair Grounds, but the unfavorable weather conditions, and the wet grounds, have been a handicap.

And the Bums, too, will play their schedule-opener in the Pen-Ro-Shall league on Sunday afternoon, but manager Wally Grovum's team will open "on the road".

An 880-yard Relay Record

Prowler track coach Rod Max, realizing that the Prowlers will require an all out effort if they are to retain their Northwest conference title in the meet here Tuesday afternoon, took a small number of trackmen to Bemidji on Saturday for the Beaver Relays. The Prowlers were entered in the relay events.

And the blue-and-gold 880-yard team—Gary Klungness, Rick Wold, Don Nicholson, and Paul Klungness—won the Class A event with a record-making time of 1:34.3. This mark also bettered the Lincoln high school record of 1:35.5 set by the same quartet a week ago.

The sprint medley team gained second place in that event on Saturday, being edged out by the International Falls team.

Incidentally, the Broncos' famed hurdler, Tony Lynch, did not participate in the meet, and Bagley's Steve Hopke took over the hurdling honors, winning the high hurdles and the low hurdles. Lynch, it was reported, was visiting the Harvard University campus. A week ago, Lynch was a visitor at Kansas State, so you can see that the colleges of the country are interested in the Falls' athlete.

The First Reports

The first reports on the wind-blown and blustery opening weekend of the walleyed pike fishing season are trickling in, and these reports indicate that anglers had fair to good luck.

As is customary, the Tamarac river at Washkish proved to be the Mecca for the anglers, and limit catches were the rule. The fishing was very good from early morning until about ten in the morning, then there would be "recess" until about four-thirty in the afternoon, when the pike would again begin striking. It is estimated that 5,000 fishermen were working the Red Lake area near Washkish. It is a fact, though, that the river up there is just about being fished to capacity, and some rules and regulations will have to be instituted to control the traffic.

The lake side of the Lake of the Woods proved disappointing, what with ice floes and the brisk winds that caused rough water. But there were good reports from anglers who fished the Rainy river. Dr. Orlon Belch and his party filled their limits off Wheeler's Point; and so did the boys from Camp Friendly—Maynard Troland, Jack Junker, Bob Gaarder, Ralph Skay, George Schlieff, and the others—. It is reported that a number of large walleyes were taken out of the Rainy at Clementson.

There is agreement, though, that the pike fishing will improve in a week or ten days with the advent of warm weather. The walleyes have not completed spawning, and in fact some of the females taken were still carrying roe.

"Life may begin at 40, but so does arthritis, lumbago and the habit of telling a story three times to the same group."—A. W. Balzer, Iron River (Wis.) Pioneer.

SIXTH GRADE students at Goodridge public schools returned Friday afternoon to complete a three-day tour of points of interest in Minnesota. The group left at 6 a.m. Wednesday and made several stops enroute to the Twin Cities. One of the stops was unscheduled — when the school bus shown in the background ran out of gas near Staples on the way to Minneapolis. Twenty-nine students made the trip which had been in the planning stages since the group was in fifth grade a year ago. They have been studying Minnesota history and were told by their guide at the state capitol in St. Paul that they answered questions on the state very well.

On a Whirlwind Trip . . .

Goodridge 6th Grade Tours Points of Minn. Interest

After a year of planning which began during the 1960-1961 school term, the current sixth grade class of Goodridge public schools made a three-day tour of Minnesota points of interest last week. Using a school bus, the class of 29 youngsters left at 6 a. m. Wednesday morning and returned to Goodridge at 3:45 p. m. Friday.

In reports written about the trip by the students, Como Park in the Twin Cities seemed to be the most popular place visited by the youngsters. Accompanying the students were Edna Omlid, teacher; Mr. Millar, elementary principal; Yvonne Wells and Richard Parnow, chaperones; and Justen Dahlen, bus driver. Dahlen will remember one point of the trip—when the bus ran out of gas near Staples on the way to Minneapolis.

First stop for the youngsters was Itasca State Park where each was given the opportunity to step across the Mississippi river. At camp Ripley the group viewed barracks, tent forms, mess halls, ammunition houses, rifle ranges and rows of tanks. The Charles Lindbergh home was visited in Little Falls.

Among points of interest in the Twin Cities were the new terminal at Wold-Chamberlain airport and watching planes come and go, Minnehaha falls, Fort Snelling, the state capitol, state historical museum, science museum, post office, Como Park, shopping in large stores, swimming at the YMCA, University of Minnesota, Metropolitan stadium, Williams Arena, St. Anthony Falls and the new library in Minneapolis.

After asking a number of questions about Minnesota history to the group, the guide at the state capitol said the class was one of the best groups to know the answers about Minnesota.

Several comments made by class members, extracted from reports written about the trip, are as follows:

Alan Swanson—I thought Como Park was real interesting and a lot of fun. The glass house with all the trees and tropical flowers in was real interesting. The zoo was a interesting and a fun place. But I liked the rides best of all.

Cheryl Sevre—We went to Wold Chamberlain and saw big planes take off. Then we went to see many other places. The next day we went to the capitol. In the capitol we saw the horse and chariot and the big glass star.

Lana Ellingson—I enjoyed the post office the most. (Our guide) was a lot different than I thought he would be. He was jolly and made quite a few jokes. We saw what happens to dead letters.

Wayne Tieman—On our trip we saw many places. The state buildings are most interesting. The capitol is very interesting. So is the historical building and the science museum. The airport also is interesting. The YMCA where we stayed is a nice place.

Rita Wells—The most interesting thing I liked was the Foshay Tower. There were 30 floors which we went on an elevator. When I got to the top my ears popped so I couldn't hear anything. I think it was real interesting and I'm sure you would enjoy it too.

Vickie Wiseth—Como Park is a beautiful place and you have a lot of fun. I like the animals the most, they had lions, tigers, seals, monkeys, raccoons, squirrels, buffaloes and many more. There were rides too. If you went to Como Park you would enjoy yourself very much.

Susan Geving—When we got to Minneapolis we went to Wold Chamberlain. Then we went to see many more things. I thought it was a very nice place to see. Thursday we went to the capitol and saw a gold chariot and the man and two ladies. There we met the secretary of the state.

Barbara Nornes—The one place I liked best was the capitol. It was very interesting because of the many interesting sights. One of the most interesting sights was the chariot and the horses with the two women leading the horses and the man was holding the horn of plenty and in the other hand he had a sign saying Minnesota.

Linda Hardecopf—One of my favorites was Como Park. There was everything from a baby bunny to zebra. Of the animals the monkeys were my favorite. I enjoyed it very much and hope that all the sixth grades to come can go.

Chest X-rays for Newfolden Pupils Set for May 17th

Arrangements have been made with the sanatorium at Crookston to give chest x-rays to the previously known positive reactors to the Mantoux test in the Newfolden school Thursday, May 17. A bus will leave the school about 9:00 a. m. and will return in time for students to get home again on the bus that day. Parents are reminded to have their children in school to make this trip on that day, if the children are positive reactors. To effectively combat tuberculosis, these persons should definitely have chest x-rays every year.

Ducks Unlimited Report Indicates Better Conditions

North Canada Prairies Benefit from Snowfall And Slow Spring Runoff

Habitat conditions for wildfowl in 1962 are improved on the northern prairies and in the parklands of western Canada but across the southern prairies the situation is not as favorable. Succinctly, the north is improved but southern areas are still critical.

In a factual analysis from the May issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological", general manager Angus Gavin reveals that, while winter snowfall was at least normal on the northern prairies and parklands, the runoff potential was not achieved. A prolonged late spring permitted maximum seepage into the powder-dry soil, hence a runoff reduction.

The report stresses that conditions are particularly good in the Peace River area of west-central Alberta. On the southern prairies, the situation could be serious. There are more sloughs and potholes containing water than last year but this water is extremely temporary and water areas which will last through the brood season may be scarce.

"Key to waterfowl production", states Gavin, "from the southern prairies in 1962, will be a cool summer and abundant rain." Ducks Unlimited projects, he points out, are in generally good condition—except for a few in very dry areas.

Gavin strikes a hopeful note in concluding . . . "Despite the hazards, and given anything like a normal summer, duck production from the northern prairies and parklands should be improved over last year."

Our World Leaders

From Washington James Marlow calls attention to the advanced age of most of our prominent world leaders. Our President Kennedy, 44, is the only one under 68. West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, 86, is the oldest.

The others listed are Premier Khruschev, 68; Prime Minister Macmillan, 68; President de Gaulle, 71; India's Prime Minister Nehr, 72; Communist China's boss, Mao Tse-tung, 68; Nationalist China's President Chiang Kaichek, 74; Yugoslavia's President Tito, almost 70; and Spain's Generalissimo Franco, 69.

A constitutional limitation will end President Kennedy's term of office in less than seven years, and Prime Minister Macmillan is not likely to retain his position much longer than that. It is reasonable to assume therefor that there are going to be important changes in the governments of these nations during the years immediately ahead of us.

Most of the present leaders are survivors of two world wars. All but three are now dictators. They have directed a great transition from colonialism to self-government thruout vast areas of the world — creating a new set of problems, some of them very explosive. Ours has been an interesting perior of history.

The Machine is Good

In the opinion of 300 executives polled by Dun's Review, a business magazine, neither the economy nor the fabric of our society is going to change radically as a resut of automation. Automation may represent the key to national prosperity in the face of world competition, some corporate leaders said.

That would be our guess too. The past generally is the safest guide to the future, and we have made great strides because of the machine since the horse and buggy days. There is no reason to believe that we cannot continue to go forward with more automation.

We know from experience that machines have created problems, and that for some individuals and groups of individuals they have resulted in hardship. But the people as a whole have been benefited by the introduction of machines that have increased the productive capacity of workers and lowered the cost of goods.

A hundred years ago most of our people were engaged in the production of food, and most of the food producers had to work thirty days in order to live thirty days. Today, because of the machine and automation, a small percentage of our population provides food in abundance for the rest of us, enabling the rest of us to devote our time to producing other goods or providing other services. And it doesn't take many hours of labor for the average worker to earn enough to buy a week's supply of food.

Automation is good and should be encouraged. Consideration should be given however to the problems of those who may be adversely affected by it. It is not likely that they would be a numerous group at any one time, and helping them to make necessary adjustments should not present great difficulties.

Let's Face the Facts

A few years ago our government's gold reserve was worth approximately $24 billion. This reserve is gradually being reduced and at present is worth about $16 billion. Approximately $8 billion has left the country, and the drain is continuing.

Our dollar's value is based on gold. American citizens do not have the right to demand a dollar's worth of gold instead of the dollar bill, but in international exchange Uncle Sam's foreign creditors still have that privilege. That is how we have lost the $8 billion worth of gold. And that is how we will keep on losing gold until we restore confidence in the dollar and in the financial responsibility of our government.

On this question columnist Lawrence Fertig recently made the following interesting observations:

> "What is the basic reason for confidence or lack of confidence in the dollar? This is the heart of the problem. How do people judge whether the dollar should be converted into gold or not?
> "Their judgement is made on the basis of two facts which are closely related to each other:
> (1) How sound are the basic monetary, tax, labor, spending and other policies within the United States? Are they inflationary and are they undermining the strength of the dollar? If we are over-spending, and our policies are inflationary, many people will demand gold for their dollars.
> (2) What is the trend of our balance of international payments? Our balance-of-payments may be described as the net figure resulting from balancing all the dollars we send abroad against all the dollars received over here from foreign sources in any one year. This figure is closely watched throughout the world and has an important bearing on the strength or weakness of the dollar. If our balance-of-payments threatens to be negative and fairly large (that is, if we are sending more dollars out than we are taking in) it will shake confidence in the dollar."

Congress raised our national debt limit last year and a heftier increase is predicted for next year. Some observers are predicting a deficit of $10 billion next year and if President Kennedy were to get all the appropriations he is asking for it probably would be greater than that. If all of the appropriations Senator Humphrey is proposing were approved it would be twice that big.

This is a situation that very properly should be a cause for real concern, and the time to cope with the problem is not tomorrow but right now. Tomorrow could be too late. So far the loss of gold has been by a gradual drain. There has been no panic, but we have no assurance that there will not be a panic. Like a run on a bank when depositors lose faith in its soundness, so could there be a run on the U. S. treasury for gold. It is known that the treasury does not now have enough gold to redeem its foreign obligations if gold is insisted on.

And there is good reason to question the ability of our government in Washington to manage our affairs wisely and keep our nation solvent. It is high time that we face the facts.

Clean-up Time

Clean-up time is here again. Clean-up time is all the time of course, but the coming of spring brings with it a special need to clean up the mess that accumulated under the snow of a long winter and get things spic and span and ready for summer. Your neighbors will appreciate your cooperation.

And this is a good time to put in the annual appeal to swat all litterbugs, those thoughtless people who drop their litter on our city streets and country roads. The penaty for committing such a nuisance should be more severe. In some cities dropping a cigarette butt is a serious enough offense to justify arrest.

Cities that enforse their litterbug regulations must of course provide convenient receptacles into which the throw-away material can be placed. Until we get suitable receptacles for this purpose, and enough of them, we cannot expect public cooperation here in Thief River Falls.

Continued Elections

(Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Proponents of a new school addition in Thief River Falls seem determined to get one approved. The first bond issue failed by 400 votes and another election is slated this month.

This procedure we have never liked. What is the purpose of holding an election if not to abide by the results. What do the winners of an election get? Very little apparently. They have to prove their case again and again while the losers regardless of their cause can keep it up indefinitely.

There should be a definite waiting period set by statute before subsequent bond issues can be voted on. Something like one or two years at least.

At any rate such proceedings should go under another name than elections. The winners just lose once and then everyone is saddled with the losers desires and tax boosts.

Setback for the Bomb Happy

(Financial Post, Ontario)

A single bullet, the one that killed Archduke Ferdinand of Sarajevo, started the train of events leading to the 1914-18 war and, in course of time, the 1939-45 war. Could one atomic bomb, exploded on impulse or by accident, bring on World War III?

The idea may seem far-fetched. Perhaps the human race now knows too much about war, and about the potency of nuclear fission, to let it happen. But the danger must exist since it has just been recognized by President Kennedy.

There was a spine-chilling quality in the story of his instruction to U.S. armed forces to "cut by several thousand the number of nuclear warheads they order." Have generals been "ordering" a couple of dozen, or hundred, A-bombs as casually as their predecessors ordered bayonets and haversacks? So it seems.

Stockpiles on hand, Washington reports say, are now regarded as adequate; but this is not the only reason for Mr. Kennedy's action. He is alarmed by the wide distribution of the weapons, down to company level in the army, and fears the consequences if one of them is used irresponsibly.

His apprehensions seem justified; but surely they ought to affect international as well as domestic policy. If it is dangerous to spread nuclear weapons among army units, there is a parallel and at least equal danger in spreading them among nations.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"Although Iv'e never discussed dreams with a blind persons, I think I know about them. Blind people see in dreams what they cannot see when their eyes are open. And when they awake, the reality of their darknss is heartbreaking."

Actively Enjoy Your Retirement Years, Is Advice of Physicians

What will your later years be liked? It's a good question to think about, because ever-increasing numbers of us are living to reach the "older age bracket". Already there are 17 million Americans aged 65 and older. . .and by 1975 they are expected to number over 21 million.

Americans today, according to the Minnesota State Medical association, are proving that the advanced years can be the time of life's greatest achievements. Senior citizens can be found in almost every business and profession, and there are hundreds of thousands more who are giving new meaning to the word "retirement". To them, the years beyond 65 are not years to be idly spent—they are years to be actively enjoyed.

If you want your later years to be healthy, happy and active ones, the Association suggests that you:

Adopt the right outlook on aging. Don't worry about old age. Worry won't delay it—more likely it will hasten it. Instead, face up to the problems of aging—and plan your life so you can meet future challenges.

2. Broaden your horizons as you grow older. "Mental adventure", whether it be absorbing hobbies or activities devoted to helping oet eswll stand you in good stead durin your leisure years. "To learn what is new is to remain young". (And when you get to feeling old and "washed out", you might remember that at 83 Thomas Edison pioneered studies on synthetic rubber, at 79 Pederewski was a concert master of the piano, at 83 Alfred Tennyson was writing some of his most outstanding poetry, and at 78 Benjamin Franklin went to France in our country's service, and wrote his autobiography when he was well past 80.)

3. Take stock of your health. Complete medical checkups annually after you are 35 or 40 can help assure you a healthier life in your later years. It is during this middle period of life that your doctor can do most to help you avoid or lessen the effects of many diseases. Not the least of the benefits which you will get from regular visits to your doctor is advice on what you should or shouldn't do as you grow older. You may have slipped into some bad health habits unknowingly—like not getting enough exercise and sleep. These may seem like small matters to you—but good living habits pay off, and you cannot start them too early.

Warren Hospital and Lutheran Home Show Loss in 1961

Most of Loss Was Due to Early Operation of Home at Less Than Capacity

Warren Hospital and Emmaus Lutheran Home operated during the past year at a $24,734 loss, with much of the deficit attributed to the fact that the Emmaus Home was put into use in March and operated much of the year far from capacity.

At present, however, there are 38 guests with room for a total of 44. Rates are set at the home so that the institution must be at capacity to break even financially, the Warren Sheaf reports.

The two institutions operated with an income for the year ended January 31 of $293,031.01 while operating expenses were $317,732.90 according to the board of charities of the Red River Valley Conference of the Augustana Lutheran Church, owners and operators of the two institutions of mercy.

During the year there were 1,633 patients served at the Warren Hospital for a total of 10,678 patient days resulting in a 78.3 per cent occupancy based on the licensed 37-bed capacity or 67.5 per cent of the 44 beds available. At the Emmaus Home during the 11 months of the fiscal year it was in operation a total of 8,812 patient days of service were rendered.

In the two institutions there are 87 full time persons employed and 15 part-time employees.

During the year the institutions have given free service in the amount of $16,850 which resulted from a bad debt allowance of $9,581 plus $7,269 withdrawn from reserves to provide these services as the church carried out its obligation to render service regardless of class, creed, color or financial ability.

THE ANDERSEN LETTER

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

Wadena Area Technical Institute.

Last week I was the speaker at the dedication of the Wadena Area Technical Institute and would like to tell you about it.

This is the first area vocational school in the state to have a new and separate facility. It is the 12th to be established in the state. It provides courses in four areas of study—electronics, business practice, cosmetology and auto mechanics. The school is for high school graduates or minimum 18 year old non high school graduates. The instruction is college level and exceedingly practical—using the most modern equipment and methods to equip students for employment in this time of rapid change.

The area vocational school law is administered by the State Department of Education, where applications are sent, but the local administration of the school is under the local board of education. The Wadena Technical Institute is an extension of the local public school system to give this opportunity to the young people of the entire area.

Here's why it is significant: Even though employment is up substantially in Minnesota this year compared with last year, we have 28,000 young people under 25 unemployed. At the same time we have many jobs looking for applicants—jobs which require special skills. Many of these are in the electronics field and others mentioned as covered by the new Wadena facility. The plain fact is that untrained people of any age will have an increasingly difficult time to find jobs—and young people without jobs are "social dynamite" as Dr. Conant said. The answer is a vocational school—geared to give training that is practical and up-to-date—locally available at low cost. Incidentally, I like the Wadena name "Wadena Area Technical Institute"—it's geared to modern terms.

In this column I cannot give you the total story of vocational or technical education. I can say, Wadena has moved on the problem of youth unemployment in a very positive and constructive way. Not only is the school a benefit to the young people—but a pool of trained young people is a most important asset to talk about in establishing new industry. I would guess that it won't take long for a new burgeoning electronics company to see the advantage of locating at Wadena. What's going on in your community or area? If you have this unmet need—discuss it with your local school board—and if there is further interest write the State Department of Education, St. Paul 1.

Seven Cases Are Tried in TRF Municipal Court

Failure To Yield Right Of Way Noted In Two Cases Brought to Trial

Only seven cases were tried in municipal court in Thief River Falls before Judge Stanley N. Mortenson last Monday. Two of the cases were results of traffic accidents in which failure to yield the right of way had been charged.

In the only case brought by the county sheriff's department, Theodore Lolland of Trail forfeited bond of $25 on a charge of having an open bottle of liquor in his car.

Police cases included Marlene Bakken, city, drinking by a minor, fined $15; Lloyd Halvorson, rt. 2, failure to yield right-of-way, accident involved, forfeited $30 bond; Frank Strang, city, failure to yield right-of-way, accident involved, fined $25 with $10 suspended;

Also Laurence Sletten, city, careless driving, fined $35; Ronald Scholin, rt. 5, possession of beer by a minor, fined $15; and Roger Dyrdal, city, possession of beer by a minor, fined $25 with $10 suspended.

Polk Historical Group Plans Several Events

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday three separate events will be sponsored by the Polk County Historical Society and Junior Historical Society in Crookston. They include the Pioneer Museum spring opening, a spring art and hobby show and the first annual Polk County Heritage Day.

Hours for the museum opening and art and hobby show (the Art and Hobby Show will be held in the Pioneer Museum gallery) will be from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Friday and Saturday and from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. Sunday. The Heritage Day projects show will be held in the McKinley elementary school gymnasium in Crookston from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday, May 19.

First showing in Pioneer Museum of the newly acquired $5,000 Drecksler railroad model and relic collection will be the main feature of the museum opening. Twenty-three years in construction, the collection containing 8 engines, over 30 cars, tunnels, depots, a suspension bridge, bridges, a church and hundreds of other items, many handmade by Dick Drecksler and all operational, is displayed on a 16 x 16 ft. display table.

Also in the Drecksler Room a colorful 6 foot high hand-made merry-go-round, lighted and operational, constructed by Drecksler, will be displayed.

Another feature of the Pioneer museum spring opening will be the newly constructed life-size Victorian bedroom containing the Remshardt family Lincoln bed and dresser. These pieces are duplicates of the Lincoln bed set recently shown on nationwide television on Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's tour of the White House.

Displayed on the Remshardt bed will be a pioneer red, white and blue patchwork quilt hand-made by Mrs. Effie Graham's great grandmother in 1876. Also on display in the bedroom is the Remshardt family bookcase and desk, family letter-wax seal, etc.

Over 5000 relics, antiques, etc. from all over Polk County and the Valley will be on display in the Museum. Also featured will be seven life-size historic rooms and 21 shadow box displays.

With Sister Veronica, OSB, art instructor at the Mount St. Benedict Academy, in charge, the art and hobby show will feature an exhibition of paintings by local and area artists. Also featured will be a display of hobbies and collections including a 6-foot wing-span B-29 model constructed by Les Rock, Crookston, L. J. Whitty and Merton Anderson's rock collections and a number of other collections.

Over 200 hand-made historical projects constructed by Polk County Junior Historians including log cabins, Indian villages, etc., will be featured at the first annual Polk County Heritage Days project display. Purpose of Heritage Day is to tell the story of Polk county and the Valley's heritage and to display projects constructed throughout the year by Polk County Junior Historical Society chapter members.

Special guided tours of the museum and the art and hobby show will be provided during the three days. Refreshments will be served and there will be registration for free prizes.

Public Opinion

Editor Times;

We were very much surprised to read the news article in last week's issue of the Times that there is going to be a new school bond election. We always thought that when there had been an election and the people had voted the bonds down the matter should be settled for a while.

The undersigned residents and voters of the district would like to express our objections to the bond issue. The proposed bond issue is much larger than should be necessary. There should be a limit to bond issues and taxes in this city.

If necessary let us repair the Washington School and build a small new school building or an addition to the present buildings so as to get a few new class rooms. Pretty soon the high tax spenders will get our taxes so high that no one can pay their taxes. The proposed new bond issue of $1,595,000, will mean a large tax increase.

We want to urge all voters of the district to turn out and vote on election day. Let no one stay home. Let us all go and vote "NO". Let us all make it plain to the school board that we want an end to reckless spending.

Yours very truly,

Editor Times;

I was hoping for an opportunity to write my opinion concerning the school board election tomorrow.

The main thing I wanted to point out has already been done so by the editors of the Times in last Thursday's edition in the editorial section under the heading "Another Election." I quote this portion of it referring to the two new contenders for the school board also the school bond issue: "The two candidates who oppose them are candidates soley because of their objection to this program in it's present form."

If they are, or are not, successful in this, how much interest and good judgement are these two contenders going to show for the hundred and one other problems, large and small, that are going to arise in the normal course of events, while they are members of the school board, if their only interest is to "kill" this proposed school expansion program and jeopardize Thief River Fall's capabilities of keeping it's "A" rated school system, which I believe is something to be proud of.

In the 1955 school bond election we voted over-whelmingly to purchase 35 acres of land for a new school on the East side of town where the greatest concentration of children are. This is an ideal spot. We thought so then, and the majority of voters who have studied the facts and attended meetings on the school expansion program think so now! Why change!

What's going to happen if we repair the old Washington school, which has been partially condemned, add on class rooms in only the limited way it's possible to do, and, in a few years to come find that this is still inadequate. Are we going to build a new school on our 35 acres on the East side then? Think of the total cost! Let's do it the right way now and have something we can all be proud of.

These two new schools will cost the average income family only $1 to $2 per month in additional taxes. That's a real bargain!
Bill Holmes

Editor Times and Attention Chamber of Commerce;

The school bond issue is still the highlight of discussion among the citizens of the community. Education, we realize, is indeed a must for the betterment of the individual and to the nation.

But first, I believe we should encourage and engage new prospects in business to the city in order to occupy the nine or ten empty business places. In so doing, there wouldn't be a listing of thirty-five to forty homes for sale and the drifting of families to other places of employment, seeking jobs and relief from the load of high taxes. And now we are asked for an additional tax to be shouldered by the remaining businesses and individuals.

In repairing the Washington building at a nominal price and renting an additional building, it should be ample until some of our other obligations have been paid off.

Also more thought and consideration would be given to the site and type of school building that would meet the approval of the majority.

Furthermore, let's seek to provide a livelihood from which we would be happy and financially able to pay taxes and improve our city and its facilities.
D. D. Dowacter

Editor Times;

I would like to give my opinion relative to the coming school bood election.

It is true that there is a need for more class rooms. But to spend almost $1,600,000 to get these needed class rooms is not necessary. The additional tax burden that will result from these bonds for this amount of money will be a definite hardship for a great number of our citizens. It is very likely that before these two schools that are being asked for are finished there will be another two or three hundred thousand dollars needed to complete extras. This we have seen happen before.

But we can get these needed additional class rooms for less than one third of the amount recommended. After looking about the four school properties here in Thief River Falls I can see no reason why at least twelve additional class rooms cannot be added to the present schools.

The Northrup could take at least another five class rooms. The heating plant will easily take care of same.

The new Washington School could easily take another three class rooms. Again the heating plant is adequate.

The Knox School could take another three or four additional class rooms. Here also the heating plant is adequate.

The Lincoln School with a little maneuvering could take another three class rooms. There is plenty of heating plant here.

The old Washington can be easily remodeled or repaired to last for many more years. There are no wall bulges. I refer to the outside brick walls. A steel beam is all it needs to hold any student load on the second floor. The floors and stairs can be relaid. And possibly a few other minor repairs. Yes even re-wired. This building is no more of a fire trap than the present Lincoln, Northrup, or Knox Buildings. Twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars could place this building in very good shape.

Also we will not need the additional maintainance and administrative personel that will be necessary if we build the new schools, and we will not have to build another gymnasium and cafeteria.

So, let us slow down and take another look.

If we do not begin to slow up now there will be many that will be taxed out of their homes and businesses. To keep up with the Joneses does not always pay. Let us develop what we have.

Camping Grows on World's Fair Route

Many Are Planning Trips to Seattle, AAA Reports

Camping while traveling will be very popular along all routes leading to the Seattle's World Fair this year, according to Janet Shattuck, travel director of the Minnesota State Automobile Association (AAA).

Mrs. Shattuck said today there have been an increasing number of requests received by the motoring organization for information about campsites enroute to Seattle, in connection with World's Fair travel routings.

In an earlier survey by the organization, the Seattle "Century 21" exposition was listed as the Number One travel target for 1962. All tourist attractions along the way in northwestern United States are expected to benefit by the Fair.

"There has been a vast improvement of campsites in the past decade," Mrs. Shattuck said, "to go along with the heavy surge in camping interest in America." A campground directory issued by AAA now lists 6,000 camping areas in the United States and Canada for outdoor lovers.

Safety Rules for Fishermen Cited

'U' M. Specialist Offers Advice as Season Opens

The fable of the foolish fisherman is too sad to recall at the opening of fishing season. Better instead to review these rules for safe fishing from Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

When casting, keep your line away from the heads of fellow fishermen.

If you fish from a boat use a seaworthy boat—one that is inspected and numbered.

Avoid rocks, logs and other obstructions. And keep clear of swimming beach areas.

Remain seated in the boat. If you must change position keep low, and place both hands on the gunwales while making the change.

Match boat and motor for safe boating; don't overpower the boat.

Watch the weather; keep off water when wind and waves are high. The fish will wait, and probably wouldn't bite anyway.

Wear a life vest. It's a big help if you forget the other rules.

Don't risk your life for a fish.

Slow Down and Live!

TO THE CITIZENS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT 564

I filed as a candidate for election to the School Board because I believe that a large number of citizens who voted NO in the School Bond Election think much as I do.

I recognize that there is a classroom shortage both in elementary and secondary schools. This shortage must be relieved quickly but in the best possible way.

I believe that the plan proposed creates or fails to correct as many problems as it solves. I think it is far too costly for the advantages it offers. Even the proponents admit that it is not "ideal." The sooner we give up the plan that the majority of a record number of voters obviously didn't want . . . the sooner we can get to work finding a plan on which we can agree.

This need not take long. The architects were hired after Dec. 11, 1961, because on that date the Board interviewed several firms. They had produced the proposed sketches before March 26, 1962 when they were presented at a High School PTA meeting. I think we can well afford to spend the necessary time to get sketches and realistic cost estimates on other plans.

I would also like to have the School Board reconsider the changes proposed to relieve the classroom shortages next year. Some are definitely regressive and I question whether they will help the space problem.

K. Russell Anderson is unusually well qualified for working on a building plan and I think he is very generous in volunteering his services. I hope you will elect him.

I will serve to the best of my ability if I am elected, and I hope you will vote for me.

Sincerely,
H. M. HOEL, JR.

Mother's Day found many folks paying tribute to the person most dear to them and a wonderful thing it is. Most of us probably owe what we are to the dear gal that we call Mother.

Fishing season too, captured the hearts of many a soul last weekend. Seems as if people all over this state look forward to the opening of fishing season as if it meant a new way of life for them. In many instances, I've heard that it is too.

At this time of year too, we like to see folks participating in another activity that has captured the fancy of many. Years ago the game of golf became the main summer interest of some people here. As a result the Thief River Falls Country club was formed and the beautiful golf course was constructed. The course has progressively improved as have the games of many avid golfers. It is enjoyable to see the boys and girls, men and women, come into the clubhouse after a tough round and compare scores, tell about their good and bad holes and explain how they're to hack off a few strokes the next time they're going to play.

This summer will find the greens and fairways in good shape and we expect to see many local and area golfers out challenging the course to see if they can break par or at least get down close to it.

At the clubhouse itself a driving range has been established, practice greens have been built for polishing up drives, putts, and short iron shots. In the clubhouse the usual lounge, TV, dining hall, locker room, showers, etc. have been put into working order. A new addition has been made in the form of a new and improved pro-shop. The pro at the country club this year is selling top line equipment and will be giving golf lessons for those who care to improve their game in that manner. Club storage is also provided for those members who wish to store their equipment. All in all, it appears that the organization now offers a complete program for those interested in a fine sport.

As a subsidiary of the golf club, the local Trap Club has also built an addition to its club house and now do their trap shooting each Wednesday and Thursday evening. This is a sport that has really caught on for those who enjoy their upland and waterfowl hunting in the fall. The competition has been keen and should be even stiffer this coming season.

These things I have mentioned are hobbies, sports, recreation or what have you but they definitely are outlets which every person needs during a busy and hectic season. I suggest that you try any of them sometime. You'll be glad that you did.

You'll be glad too if you Shop and Trade Where Bargains Are Made Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

IRON-HANDED Victor Gunderson of Virginia, Minn., who is the Minnesota FFA's Star Dairy Farmer of 1962, tugged his way to victory over Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Diane Kramer of Worthington, May 8 in the annual cow milking duel between the state dairy princess and the Star Farmer. Gunderson, 18, a member of the Embarrass, Minn., high school FFA chapter, coaxed 6.6 pounds of milk from his cow while Princess Kay managed to squeeze out only 2.2 pounds. The FFA victory pulled the boys' organization ahead for the first time in the seven-year history of the contest. The overall score now stands at 3-2 for the FFA. The contest was held on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus as a feature of the 1962 FFA State convention.

"I plan to plant more trees on some rather steep land along a lakeshore this spring, instead of cutting down my present trees and bulldozing the stumps as some are doing," So says Wayne Breneman, cooperator with the Martin County Soil and Water Conservation District. "Trees serve many useful purposes. They provide a valuable product, help control erosion, reduce runoff, furnish shelter and a nesting place for songbirds and other forms of wildlife. And if they are near the farmstead they provide protection during the winter for livestock and buildings," Breneman added.

Pollution Problems — Today there is about six times as much pollution in our rivers and lakes as there was 60 years ago, according to a University of Minnesota agricultural engineer. P. W. Manson says that this is due to inadequate treatment of waste from an expanding population and a growing industry.

"Contour strips are the thing for a rough farm," says Albert Sherry of Houston. When Sherry moved onto his farm in 1946 he laid out contour strips right away with the help of SCS technicians at Caledonia. At that time his corn yields ran about 30 to 35 bushels per acre. Since then his yields have constantly increased; he averaged 100 bushels per acre last year.

The first national grassland field day and conference ever to be held on the North American continent is set for August 15-17 at Hershey, Pennsylvania. The three-day affair will feature the most modern grassland farming practices and machines available to farmers today. According to Roger Harris, extension soil conservation specialist at the University of Minnesota, there'll be field demonstrations of machines, farm equipment and supply exhibits, exhibits on all phases of grassland farming, and bus tours of nearby industries and farms.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Last Tuesday was the annual Homemakers Achievement Day. I wish to thank everyone who helped make the day such a successful event. The exhibits that were brought were outstanding and I do hope many of you that were there got some good ideas.

Now that spring is here we may begin to have a problem of mold in bread which is more common during the hot humid months. Here is a tip you as a homemaker may be interested in. Store wrapped bread in refrigerator. However, bread stales more rapidly in refrigerator than in bread box. Freezing is the only insurance against mold and for complete freshness. Freezing will not freshen stale bread.

Do you have an African violet that just never seems to bloom? This being one of the most popular house plants is especially well adapted to the average well heated home. A night temperature of 68 to 70 degrees and day temperature up to 75 degrees is preferred. The night temperature should never drop below 60 degrees F. since chilling may prevent flowering, cause the leaves to curve downward around edges and turn a pale green color.

Good light is very important to this plant. Excessive light will produce sunken sunscald spots on the leaves and flowers. Poor light may result in wonderful foliage but no blooms.

Keep the soil moist, using water of room temperature. Do not let cold water touch the leaves and keep the plant out of the sun when the foliage is wet or the upper leaf surface will become spotted.

Use of Detergents

Today's housewife finds that long-established washing methods have to be changed, because of the many new developments in home laundering. She must learn how to use new types of equipment and fabrics. Old-time soap methods are giving way to use of new soaps, compounds and water softeners. Knowing how to select and use the new equipment and detergents means easier wash days and fewer gray washes.

The right choice and use of detergents under your laundry conditions will save money and time and will mean easier wash days for you.

Effective cleansing depends on: heat, water, motion and the correct amount and use of the detergent.

Soap and some of the compounds produce suds. This factor may be preferred by you who use a wringer-type washer and like to see active suds. Detergents work best in very hot water (140 degrees). The use of soft water is used to keep down scum. Soften the first rinse at least, for it is in the first rinse the scum causes most trouble.

Although high sudsing detergents are suitable for wringer-type washers, low sudsing compounds are recommended for use in automatic washers.

How much needed? A two-inch suds indicates correct amount of sudsing detergents. You will have to experiment with the non-sudsing because of differences in response to soil condition of water and washer action.

What about Tattle Tale gray? Hard water causes soap scum that settles in clothes and makes clothes gray. You can use commercial water softeners to "condition" the grayed articles first if the compound is to produce a bright wash. Amount needed will depend on hardness of water. Allow about 15 minutes for running time to loosen and suspend the scum, that causes graying. Then wash the clothes with the compound.

U. S. INSECTS DESTROY MORE TREES THAN FIRE

More timber is destroyed annually by insects and other forest pests than fire, reveals the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In 1962 many of America's 450 million acres of commercial and recreational forest land — federal, state and private — are facing insect breakouts of unusually severe dimensions, the Department says. Most active tree killers in 1961 were the bark beetles. The government is launching a control plan in forests of Utah and western Wyoming aimed specifically at these pests. Infested trees will be logged and bark-penetrating insecticides sprayed on felled and standing trees.

Teaching machines doubled the efficiency of a class of medical students at Dartmouth College, reports the school's psychiatry department. Learning efficiency was measured by comparing tests scores with time spent studying. On material covered by the machine, average efficiency was 1.85-times as great as the score on material presented in the traditional way.

Paralytic polio cases dropped to 864 in 1961, a rate of less than five cases per one million population, reports the National Foundation. This compares with a rate of 162 cases per million population in the period (1949-1954) just before the advent of Salk vaccine.

Natural atomic radiation in underground formations enables oil well technicians to pinpoint the level at which a deep shaft should be perforated for oil. Each formation, such as shale, sandstone and limestone contains a certain amount of radioactivity, according to experts at PGAC in Houston, Tex. By taking radiation counts at various points in the shaft, they can detect formations most likely to yield oil.

Fifty-year-old bacteria have been imported into the U. S. from Antarctica by University of Texas microbiologist Geroge H. Meyer. The bacteria have survived a half-century of polar conditions after being left on the icy subcontinent by explorers Robert Scott and Ernest H. Schackelton. Meyer is trying to figure out why they've lived so long.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

REACH FOR THE BRASS RING! Sooner or later this merry-go-round ride of controversy on the current school bond issue will come to an end. When it does, and the horses cease their seemingly endless jumping up and down, there may be the shocking realization that there isn't going to be a free ride for anybody--brass ring or not. There are needs which, sooner or later, must be met.

There are many people on both sides of the issue, who, by reason of either defeat or victory in the first election last month, now feel that they are being backed against a substantial brick wall. And finding themselves in this hypothetical situation, they are relying on their animal instinct to simply dig in and fight back. For most of them the adversary is not a very clear image. But the May 21 vote makes for active shadow boxing.

And from conversations engaged in from time to time, it is apparent that the situation is a little sickening. The fact that the voting public pot is boiling is not the sad part. What is revolting is the fact that many of the persons verbally expressing their thoughts are narrow-minded and ill-informed. This is evident on both sides of the ballot box fence, although, being in favor of the proposal, I see it more frequently in arguments of the opponents of the issue.

There are two things of lasting impact at stake in the current school situation—perpetuation of education at a high level and unity or community for a bright future. It would be desirable that both be obtained. It is highly unlikely that both or either will at the present rate.

Even the most avid supporters of the plan see little hope for passage of the bond issue on May 21. There are many, including myself, who feel that the immediate petition for another election was ill-timed. This may be a factor influencing the result of the coming election.

And now, as a result of the petition and impending election, members of the board of education are somewhat more than basking in the heat created. Their position is one to be viewed more with sympathy than antagonism. Picture a seaman with his hands tied behind his back walking a plank over the railing at the point of a sword and you get a fair idea of the board's predicament in ordering the second election. It was law that required the second election to be held—not the school board.

A statement made by one Edmund Burke in the late 1700's may be a bit lofty in wording but is quite appropriate in meaning. He said, "Economy is a distributive virtue, and consists not in saving but in selection. Parsimony requires no providence, no sagacity, no powers of combination, no comparison, no judgement."

Spite is not absent in the minds of youth. The story is told of a dental nurse who gave an extracted tooth to a young patient, expecting he would make a financial deal with the good fairy who watches over such things. "What are you going to do with it?" she asked. The little boy frowned with a gleam of vengeance in his eye, "I'm gonna take it home an' sprinkle sugar on it an' watch it hurt!"

Advocates of centralized social welfare note that more than half of all Americans over 65 have annual incomes under $1,000. This is true, acording to a recent publication to cross my desk. But it is also true that 55 per cent of Americans over 65 are women, many of whom are married and not expected to have any income. Just another example of the statement that figures don't lie but liars figure.

It's getting so that a person can't even be non-committal anymore. Two men met on the street. "How's your wife?" the first inquired. "Compared to what?" the second countered.

V. F. W. Buddy Poppy Days will be Friday and Saturday in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Howard Comstock, senior vice president of the local VFW auxiliary, does not profess to be a poet laureate, but her poem holds a word of truth that is worthy of mention:

"In Flanders field the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row. . ."

The time of year has come again
When poppy sales are on again;
So when we ask you for a dime
To buy a poppy at this time,
Give it gladly because you're so
Much luckier than some you know
Who lie disabled day by day
In veteran's hospitals far away . . .
Men who'd beam if they could just Walk the streets and sell with us,
So I for one will proudly say,
"I bought my poppy on poppy day."

Mr. Editor:

Here's another plan!

Now that the school board has come up with a more economical plan — that is putting the school on a shift and a half, taking out the grouping systems, taking out the kindergartens, and the possibility of taking out the cafeteria, the band, cut some of the sports, and they may also be forced to take out the cosmetology and nursing departments — it's about time another plan is introduced: "The think for yourself and find out the facts plan."

In devising their proposal the school board worked with architects and I understand there were 42 on the staff of the firm they worked with. Check this for yourself!!! Members of this firm worked with the school board for close to two years to come up with the best proposal. There were architects in this city working for one month to come up with a plan whereby we can get the most for our money now and in the future. There was also a study of our needs!!!

It is not the school board or Mr. Hankerson who forced this second election. It is because of the conditions that exist and the 306 informed citizens who signed a petition and presented it to the school board.

It is obvious many writing are uninformed when it comes to school issues, the need for schools and what the state requires to keep our state aid and grade A rating.

1. After a study of the school census, I'm sure you will find that close to 70% of the T.R.F. school children and the pre-schoolers live on the East side of the river now, and that is where the city is growing. It is also customary for children living over one mile from school to be bused to school.

2. The price of the schools, Junior High and Grade School, as proposed, is about average in price and certainly not "A Memorial" to the goddess of education." Keep in mind that "Education isn't cheap, but the lack of it is quite a price to pay."

3. Why build a Junior High School where it can't be added to without moving out the grain elevators, a portion of the G.N. Railroad or maybe the woodworking shops across the street or the Hartz warehouse??? Imagine the noise and distraction of the trains switching boxcars back and forth and trucks of grain coming and going. This would create a problem for the school rooms on this side of the school.

4. Did you know that the price of the new schools includes sewers, roads, gutters and curbing? The 35 acres this new school will be on is already paid for, being voted on by the citizens of Thief River in the Nov. 28, 1955, election FOR THIS PURPOSE. There is plenty of room for expansion, and this is the area where most of the young child-producing families live. This is where the city is growing!!!

5. Over 85% of all schools now being built are constructed as one story buildings. Why?? It's cheaper! It's safer! There's less congestion! And they are easier to add to. The schools of today are being built where the need is. That is away from the railroads, the elevators, the warehouse districts and to the residential areas.

6. It is obvious the need for the Junior High school is not at it's present location as Washington Grade school is in this vicinity and has 60% rural and only 30% of the town children who live in this area.

7. Have you checked out the facts that certain private individuals are benefiting financially by the defeat of this special bond election?

8. As a former downtown employee I became very much aware of the shoplifting problem over the noon hour when the stores are short of help because of the lunch period. Let's help remove this temptation by getting these children away from the downtown area.

9. Let's face it: 7th, 8th and 9th graders are too young for lipstick, high-heels, and dates. The desire for these things wouldn't be so great if these children were away from the atmosphere of the high school and vocational students.

10. It is five years before my oldest boy will be in need of a Junior High school and I know as a mother I would be extremely reluctant to send him to a school that is inadequate, a constant firetrap and that has possibility of the roof caving in under a heavy snow load.

11. If a fire started in this historic monument, it would burn like paper, remodeled or not. Of course the school is of no value, but the lives in it, and the property around it, are of the greatest value.

12. After close figuring, before my one-year-old starts school, there will be a need for approximately nineteen more class rooms, and I don't like the idea of her sitting all day in a drafty armory, damp church basement or some other make-shift class room. Where will they ever find that many class rooms? Maybe they will have classes in the school halls.

13. We are now paying out $19,000 a year for additional class rooms! Why add to this cost! This undoubtedly benefits the landlords, but not the taxpayers. In the Fall six more rooms will be needed! What if this had been disclosed earlier? Some would have thought the school was forcing a YES vote!

14. It is obvious the school board has done everything in it's power to come up with the most economical and the most desirable solution for this problem for the years to come. They have looked into the facts and studied them and came up with this outstanding proposed elementary and junior high school.

15. We can afford this plan. $529,133 was spent at the Municipal Liquor Store last year alone. For these new schools the average person woud have to pay only five, ten, or fifteen dollars a year more.

16. Have you ever checked into what the state and Federal Government requires in buildings, classrooms, gyms in square feet per student? This is important in order for us to keep our state aid. It is worth looking into.

17. We have a Grade A rating, we have conscientious teachers and as long as the law requires our children to be in school until they are sixteen they should get the most they can out of it. You can bet many of our best teachers will be leaving if we subject ourselves to a substandard school. These teachers are taxpayers too and deserve a good school to which they can send their children.

18. If we start "cutting corners" to make room, something is lost, an we will soon have a sub-standard school. It is possible if we let this get out of hand we could loose our state aid which is close to one-third of the school income.

19. The school board and Mr. Hankerson are only doing what is necessary to make room . . . Those of you who were not at a meeting at which Mr. Hankerson told of the NEEDS of the schools should stop guessing and find out the facts. Only then will everyone realize the measures the school board are taking are necessary and not something cooked up to force "yes" votes at the coming election.

20. Read "A Wide Screen View" written by the Bureau of Field Studies and Surveys of the College of Education at the University of Minnesota, on the needs of the Thief River Falls school system. (Those who think Washington School a luxury, read page 23 under Washington School.) This book was mailed out in October of 1961. If some did not get a copy, it may be Mr. Hankerson has some of these left in his office.

21. Inform yourselves and don't accept the word of the bar-stool foreman or the rocking chair misers about the needs of the school system. Ask a school board member, your concern is their concern, and it takes a parent to understand a parent's problem.

22. Did you know Bemidji had five school bond elections before the people were informed enough to vote yes? Waseca had seven school bond elections before it's citizens realized what the need was. Of course these may be only rumors but check out these rumors that we are hearing to see if they are true?

23. I would like to ask a question to the people who think the Junior High school should be in the center of town and retaining the present site and moving the vocational. Also those who would like to see the old Washington school remodeled and, add on to the over-crowded grade schools?

24. Don't you feel many are presumptious to assume they know more than the University of Minnesota Bureau of Field Studies, The Minnesota Department of Education, the Architects and engineers, the administrative staff, the present school board and the citizens committee who have delved into these facts?

Record 1,700 Ballots Cast in School Vote

K. Russell Anderson, Howard Hoel Defeat Incumbents on Board

In a record turnout which saw 1,700 ballots cast Tuesday, residents of School District 564 elected two new members to the board of education for three-year terms. Howard Hoel, president of Northern Woodwork, and K. Russell Anderson, architect, defeated incumbents Dr. Ralph Helm, chiropractor, and Dr. James Disse, optometrist, in an election steeped in controversy over a proposed school bond issue.

Of the 1,700 ballots cast, Hoel proved to be the top vote-getter by polling 990 votes while Anderson received 892, Helm received 747 and Disse received 743. Eight spoiled ballots were discounted in the voting which saw voters standing in line when the polls opened at 6 p. m. in Lincoln high school.

Previous record vote in a school district election was 1,182 in 1959 when Helm and Disse defeated incumbents Dr. M. D. Starekow and William Thompson in what was described as "a citizen's revolt against high taxes as a result of school construction programs." Results of that voting included Disse 780, Helm 756, Thompson 411 and Starekow 387. The supply of 1,000 printed ballots, usually more than ample, was exhausted in the 1959 vote and emergency ballots were mimeographed to meet the demand.

Difference of opinion in the proposal to issue $1,595,000 in bonds for new school construction is generally agreed to be the primary factor in the record voting Tuesday. The assumption is substantiated by the number of ballots cast in previous years which included 507 in 1961, slightly over 100 in 1960, 1,182 in 1959, 495 in 1958 and 533 in 1957.

Statements of Candidates

Howard Hoel—I want to thank the voters who elected me to the school board. I will do my best to live up to the confidence they expressed in me. There will be many problems to solve, and I hope I can help in finding satisfactory solutions.

K. Russell Anderson—Thank you for the vote of confidence tendered me in the school board election. I shall do my utmost to warrant that confidence.

Dr. Ralph Helm—I would like to express my very sincere appreciation to all who supported me in the school election. To Mr. Hoel and Mr. Anderson — congratulations, and my hopes they and the other board members will be successful in coping with, not only the classroom shortage, but with all the complex problems that arise in providing our children with the education that is so essential in today's world. May the new board enjoy the harmony that has prevailed the past several years.

Dr. James Disse—Thank you to the voters who supported me in the last election.

Associates Join in Memorial Tribute to Late Judge Lundgren

The district court room Monday morning was well filled with friends and former associates of the late Chief Judge Paul A. Lundgren who had assembled for a memorial session in his honor. The present chief judge, Arnold C. Forbes of Bemidji, presided over the impressive program, and read the obituary of Mr. Lundgren, who died December 21, 1961.

Brief tributes were offered by Judge Lyman Brink of Hallock, who succeeded Judge Lundgren; and by members of the local bar, including H. O. Chommie, L. W. Rullen, Robert A. Wurst, Curtis Charlson and H. O. Berve, a retired member. They praised the late jurist for his devotion to duty, his constructive citizenship and his driving force and leadership qualities. Other attorneys speaking were Charles Boughton and J. A. Harren, both of Red Lake Falls.

Others playing tribute were Stanton R. Dahlen, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan assn., who stated that Judge Lundgren was the first president and a co-founder of the institution; the Rev. Marvin Carlson, pastor of the First Lutheran church, who told of his active membership and service on the church board.

Alf Borry, master of the local Masonic lodge, cited Mr. Lundgren's service to Masonry, and said he had served as master in 1931. L. B. Hartz praised him for his work in behalf of the Thief River Falls Foundation, which to date has made loans to more than 40 college students.

Speaking in behalf of the Northwest Shrine club, Lloyd N. Bennes said Mr. Lundgren was an organizer of the club as well as of the Shrine Oriental band. Herman A. Kjos, probate judge, spoke of Judge Lundgren's service as one of the founders of the Pennington County Historical society.

Judge Forbes closed the program by reading letters of tribute from Judges J. H. Sylvestre of Crookston and James Murphy of Grand Rapids, as well as other bar groups.

2ND VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS SET FOR MAY 21

Polls open from 8 a.m. to p.m. Monday, May 21, at Lincoln high school to permit voters of School District 564 to express their opinion on the issuance of $1,595,000 in bonds for construction of a new junior high school and elementary school.

The same question will be on the ballot as that rejected by the voters by a vote of 1,750 to 1,354 in April. The board of education had been petitioned to order another election before the end of the school term and was required by law to honor the petition. Residents of the state for six months and of the district for 30 days may vote in the election.

Council Votes Merger of Four Departments

City Clerk Fired Following Report of Auditing Firm

L. H. Thorstenson, city clerk, was ordered relieved of his duties effective at 8 a. m. Wednesday when the Thief River Falls city council met Tuesday evening. The resolution carried by unanimous vote of the council following a paragraph by paragraph review of a printed report submitted by the auditing firm of Boyd Holcomb, C. P. A., which has charge of auditing the city's records for 1961.

The resolution, offered by Arthur B. Christianson, second ward alderman, called for relieving the clerk of his duties effective the following morning with 30 days severance pay and all accumulated benefits. Gordon Reierson, assistant city clerk, was appointed as acting clerk until such time as a regular city clerk is appointed.

The preliminary audit report for 1961 stated that "by May 6, 1962, the office of the city clerk had not completed all the accounting operations for the year 1961. There are several variances in bank reconciliations and other accounting matters not yet completed satisfactorily." The report added that "in our opinion the remaining variances are not of sufficient scope to be of material consequence."

Exerpts from the report are as follows:

"The various bank accounts and fund accounts of the city had not been reconciled during the entire year 1961. There are still some variances in bank and fund reconciliations, not of sufficient amount to distort the reported financial position or operating results of the city for the year. . .

"A check issued by Consumer's Cooperative Association, dated March 7, 1961, in the amount of $56.63, was endorsed by the city deposit stamp and cleared the payer's bank on May 9, 1961. However, our search of the city records disclosed no evidence of this remittance having been receipted for, credited to income or otherwise accounted for."

"The cost of this merchandise purchased (for arena concession) is in excess of revenues recorded as having been received. In our opinion, cash receipts from this source should have been at least $300 more than has been accounted for. Responsible accounting procedures during the year would have disclosed this condition at a time when steps could have been taken to correct it and prevent its recurrence."

SUPT. of the newly-created Department of Utilities formed by the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening is Morris Owen, chief engineer at the municipal power plant.

Action Taken on Gas Franchise, Community Planning, Bond Bids

Several items of major interest were acted upon by the Thief River Falls city council at the regular meeting held Tuesday evening in the municipal court chambers. Among these were the unanimous decision of the council to relieve the city clerk of his duties effective the following morning; establishment of a new Department of Utilities which would combine current departments of electric generation, electric transmission, water and sewage into one unit with Morris Owen as superintendent; final reading of an ordinance establishing a city planning commission; holding of the 1st reading of an ordinance granting a franchise to a natural gas company; appointment of Donovan Liden as police sergeant to replace Sgt. Donald Myers who was killed in the line of duty on February 17; and awarding of contracts on bids for $285,000 in bonds to complete the street projects begun last summer. It was perhaps the most productive session of the council from the standpoint of major action taken in recent years. A number of other items of business were also transacted at the meeting.

Consolidate Departments

Dr. A. E. Jacobson, fourth ward alderman, introduced the resolution calling for consolidation of departments. The department was created effective May 16 with Morris Owen, chief engineer at the municipal power plant, elevated to the post of superintendent of the new department. In addition to the generating plant, the consolidation includes the distribution department headed by Harry Hendrickson, water department headed by Harold Anderson since the death of Harold M. Johnson, and the sewage department headed by Ole Ness.

In connection with the consolidation of departments, letters were ordered sent to members of the park and recreation boards to meet with the council at the June 4 meeting and express their views on merging of these two bodies. The new utilities department would also include the purchasing department.

Natural Gas Franchise

Following informal discussion Monday evening with Vern Madsen, representative of American Gas company, Omaha, Neb., the council Tuesday evening held the first reading of an ordinance granting the firm permission to construct a natural gas distribution system in the city. Two more readings are necessary before passage of the ordinance.

The nonexclusive grant would give the company the "right and privilege to erect, construct, operate and maintain a gas plant, gas system, or both, and to import, transport, sell and distribute gas, whether natural, manufactured or mixed, within the city of Thief River Falls and for these purposes to establish the necessary facilities and equipment to lay and maintain gas mains, service pipes and any other appurtenances necessary or requisite to the sale and distribution of gas in and along the streets, alleys and other public ways and places. . ."

Also included in the franchise is the statement that "the right to use and occupy said streets, alleys, public ways and places for the purposes herein set forth shall not be exclusive, and the city of Thief River Falls reserves the right to grant similar uses of said streets, alley, public ways and places, to any person or corporation at any time during the period of this franchise."

American Gas Company proposes to serve a number of communities in several states with supplies of natural gas purchased from Midwestern Gas Transmission company of Houston, Texas, from the line constructed several years ago and running from the Canadian border into Wisconsin. The line at present passes about a mile west of Warren.

Planning Commission

Final reading of the ordinance to establish a city planning commission was also held and upon publication will become law. The commission as established would permit long-range planning for all levels of work which would have a bearing on the future of the city.

Low bidder on the issue of $285,000 in bonds for street improvement was the Allison-Williams company of Minneapolis with a bid of 3.4517 per cent interest. High bid was for an interest rate of 3.465. Bids on equipment rental

Valley Home Gets O.K. for Building

Officers of the Valley Home society, at a conference Monday in Grand Forks, were given authority to proceed with construction of the new rest home to be built on a site abutting on Highway 32 near the Armory in the southwest area of Thief River Falls.

Attending the meeting were Waldie Christensen and Martin Gulbranson, respectively president and vice president of the society; Noel W. Jones of Minneapolis, filed engineer for the Housing and Home Finance agency; contractors who were low bidders on the project; and representatives of Wells & Denbrook, Grand Forks architects.

Jones gave the go-ahead signal after ascertaining that the sponsoring group had fulfilled all requirements, and Nasvick Construction Co., low bidder on the general contract, informed the local men that the firm would be ready to start preliminary work in a week or ten days, and hoped to have the building enclosed before the coming winter.

Other contractors include Naylor Electric Co., Bemidji; Lee Plumbing & Heating Co., Thief River Falls; and Asleson's, Inc., of Fargo, which is equipping the kitchen. The contracts aggregate $319,762, to which is to be added the architects' and other fees and the cost of the furnishings.

Education Board Accepts Contracts for New Teachers

Acceptance of three contracts for school instructors, approval of a budget for the athletic department and decision to advertise for bids on several items were accomplished by the Thief River Falls board of education in session Tuesday evening. Canvassing of ballots in the school election was also conducted by the board.

Teacher contracts included Miss Dorothy Prosser, Middle River, graduate of the University of North Dakota and instructor the past two years at Park River, N. D., high school commercial subjects; transfer of Gerald Wigness from the high school to vocational school commercial department; and Edward Sisler, Grand Rapids native and University of Minnesota graduate, who has spent a number of years on the Greenbush school faculty, added to the adult agriculture program of the area vocational school.

Approval was given to a contract with the Minnesota State High School League and principals, elementary director and Ralph Skay, athletic director, met with the board to discuss plans for the athletic program. The elementary athletic program was separated from the high school department and approval was given to a high school athletic department's recommended cuts to operate entirely on a self-sustaining basis.

The board also voted to call for bids on coal, fuel oil, gasoline and bakery products.

Elaine's CHATTER

Girls, if you have been dieting yourself silly, trying to take inches off the waist, hips, etc. . . . just ease up a bit.

According to a survey, women are supposed to be larger than our fore-bears. It is a good, healthy, American development which has been encouraged by a large number of things. Included are . . . improved nutrition, better care of the young, advances in public health, etc.

It always seemed so inhuman when we thought of the Chinese women binding their feet to keep them small, but no doubt our great-grandmothers practically did the same thing to their waists. The wasp-waists were not accomplished by diet, it took corsets made of iron bands and more than one person to get them into the contraption. Smelling salts were kept handy when the daughters of the gay nineties were getting dressed for a party, many were known to drop over in a dead faint while the 'lacing' took place.

Yet, we are bigger and healthier and we should be proud of it. Nevertheless, you women still want that gentle, moulded look, with hips smoothed to where the skirt fullness begins. This can be accomplished today in a most comfortable way.

The Formfit company, people who make a girdle that fits as smoothly as your best swim suit, have a new long leg SPANDEX FIBER garment. This Lycara Spandex fiber is stronger, more durable than conventional elastic and has an inner-strength which gives moulding, holding power. Lycara yarn is soft to the touch, will stand up to every day wear and every night washing. Just try one on!

Then take a look at the complete line of Formfit Cotton Bras. Better yet, be fitted by one of our factory trained fitters. There is a difference in just buying a girdle and bra and being fitted properly by one who knows how to fit you in the right garment for you.

And while you are here at ELAINE'S, of course we want to show you the loveliest summer dresses ever . . .

Leon Elseth, Newfolden, Diane Brattell, Grygla, Presented with Trophies

Leon Elseth, eight grade student at Newfolden, and Diane Brattell, eighth grader at Grygla, won first places in the Modern Woodmen of America speech contests held recently in their respective communities. Both received wall plaques suitably engraved and had their names inscribed on trophies presented to the school.

Topic for the 15th annual speech contest was "Education, the Hope of America." Lyle Olson, seventh grade, won second place and Linda Langlie, Mary Ann Waterworth and Ilene Hiaasen tied for third place in the Newfolden contest. Lois Byklum, eighth grade, won second place at Grygla.

Presentation of awards at Newfolden was made to the winners by Morgan Ellingson, M. W. A. representative, and Mrs. Hazel Nelson, junior director. Mrs. Pearl Gray included the theme writing as additional culmination of the year's work in the school's English department.

Mrs. Norman Newton made the award presentation at Grygla with Manford Stennes coordinating activities at the school. Other high-ranking students at Grygla were Laurel Magneson, Linda Dyrseth, Bradley and Marilyn Byklum and Barbara Magneson.

Judging was done on the basis of content, expression, correct sentence structure, punctuation, paragraphing, neatness, spelling and general ideas.

Geraldine Roppe was presented a trophy from the Modern Woodmen of America at Newfolden as the "Outstanding Junior" of the year when the Modern Woodmen Juniors 3401 met recently at the Newfolden council room for their meeting and convention rally. Gerald Nelson presided at the meeting.

Presentation of an axe pin and pledge card was made to Geraldine and Saturday, June, was selected as the date for the next meeting. The meeting was adjourned by reciting the Woodmen's creed and Barry Nelson won the door prize. Games were played and treats given to all attending.

Civil Defense Here Selected for Pilot Study

organizations locally which are affiliated with state groups will be asked to cooperate in the program, Dr. Martin said.

Kits to Train 1,000

Sufficient kits have been provided to permit instuction to 1,000 persons in the county, Gustafson reports. Classes will be restricted to 25 persons each. Initial training will be for organization representatives who will in turn provide training in other classes.

The training course has been reviewed by the Minnesota State Medical association, Minnesota Academy of General Practice, Minnesota Department of Civil Defense and Minnesota Department of health and approved by these organizations. Field evaluation will be conducted under the administrative supervision of the Minnesota Civil Defense organization, and under the professional supervision of the state medical association and state academy of general practice through the medical coordinating committee.

Other communities undertaking the pilot program include Rochester, Silver Bay, Two Harbors, Alexandria, St. Peter, St. Paul, Golden Valley, Bloomington, Duluth and Minneapolis. Each training kit contains reuseable items and handout supplies sufficient for four classes of 25 students each.

"Prepare to Survive"

"Every family in the United States is a potential survivor of such a (nuclear) attack and must be prepared to exist for an extended period of time isolated from outside assistance," Gustafson said. "During this time the services of a physician may not be available and the family must be prepared to meet its own health needs. To do this, preferably every member but at least one member of each family group must be trained in medical self-help.

"The requirements for professional services and other health resources by the casualty and non-casualty survivors may exceed many times the capacity for providing these services and resources. Such circumstances will require setting up priorities of treatment and shunting large groups of patients, who normally would be given professional care, to self or family care."

The medical self-help training course consists of 12 lessons which can be given in 16 hours of instruction. Lessons include radioactive fallout and shelter; hygiene, sanitation and vermin control; water and food; shock; bleeding and bandaging; artificial respiration; fractures and splinting; transportation of the injured; burns; nursing care of the sick and injured; infant and child care; and emergency childbirth.

Organizations are being requested to select members to participate in the course and cooperate with the local civil defense group and its medical service division.

City Clerk Is Fired Tuesday By City Council

"In our opinion, after repeated requests and more than adequate time to correct deficiencies, the city clerk has not performed either timely or correctly substantial duties of his office for which he is primarily and personally responsible."

About nine months ago the council asked for the clerk's resignation which was not submitted and the group at a later date, in a split vote, approved retaining his services. At that time Thorstenson was charged with dereliction of duty resulting from a cash box containing $29,488 being kept in the office and funds not deposited.

James Kvikstad Wins Twin City Speech Contest

James Kvikstad, Lincoln high school graduate and son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kvikstad of Thief River Falls, recently won the annual speech contest sponsored by the King Borens Senior Toastmasters Club of St. Paul. A chemical engineering senior student at the University of Minnesota, Kvikstad gave a six-minute speech on the goals of American and Russian educational systems.

In his speech, "What's Wrong with Johnny's Education?", Kvikstad concluded that the American and Russian systems cannot be compared because they are so different. It would be like trying to compare "elephants and blueberries", he said. Kvikstad competed with three other students from the St. Paul campus, Hamline University and Macalester college and was the first main campus speaker to win the trophy.

Sorenson Tells Rotary Story of Farm Management

Director of Farm Course Says Feeder Pig Program Holds Great Potential

Fred Sorensen, agricultural coordinator for the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, discussed farm record analysis and reviewed statistics for 1961 when the Thief River Falls Rotary club met for its noon dinner meeting Monday at the Elks club rooms.

Sorensen compared 1961 farming returns with 1960 figures, contrasting prices received for turkeys and drought conditions which resulted in a crop far below the average. Average farm returns in 1961 were below 1960 with the brightest spot and that showing the most potential being feeder pig operations.

"We don't tell the farmer how to farm," the agriculturist said. "We do make suggestions as to how we believe an operation can be improved and let the farmer carry on from there. Some farmers make changes which we suggest immediately. Others take a little longer." Sorensen also noted that farmers in the farm management group had investments in farming from $6,000 to $80,000 last year.

With the advent of the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative making regular pickup of feeder pigs at Thief River Falls, the prospects for making a profit in that enterprise increased immediately, Sorensen said. Farmers with feeder pigs last year showed a good profit on their operations.

What is especially attractive about the feeder pig market is the unlimited potential without creating a surplus, Sorensen noted. For each sow farrowed in this area, feeders in southern Minnesota and Iowa will be glad to remove one from their herds in favor of purchasing feeder pigs in lots to fit their feeder operations.

Spacecraft to Be Exhibited June 3 at Detroit Lakes

On February 20, 1962 Colonel John Glenn orbited the earth three times in a Mercury 7 Spacecraft, making a brilliant chapter in history. Now Minnesota residents will have a first hand opportunity to personally view the type of spacecraft used by America's astronauts.

State Savings Bonds Chairman Rollin O. Bishop stated, "It is appropriate that this spacecraft be exhibited in connection with the Freedom Bond Drive as a reminder to everyone that our nation's space age defense costs are tremendous and that substantial sums will be required to help keep America abreast in such development."

Lois Lund Again Honored by 'U' M. Home Economics

Daughter of R. J. Lunds Crowned 'Miss Betty' for Second Time Wednesday

Lois Lund, instructor in the University of Minnesota school of home economics, was honored with the title of "Miss Betty" Wednesday preceding Minnesota Royal activities on the St. Paul campus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Lund of Thief River Falls.

Marilyn Myster, Kenyon, president of the University Home Economics Association, presented the award during initiation ceremonies of the campus Home Economics Association. Miss Lund received a replica of the Betty lamp, a lamp used by pioneer women and now the official symbol of the American Home Economics Association. The lamp inspired the title "Miss Betty".

Miss Lund has received the Miss Betty award twice. In 1958 she was selected for the award on the basis of her classroom teaching, interest in students and enthisiasm for her field of work. This is the 12th year members of the Home Economics association, University student organization, have selected, by vote, a staff member they wish to honor with the name "Miss Betty".

Miss Lund joined the University school of home economics staff in 1955 after teaching at the State University of Iowa for four years. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Minnesota. She was awarded a General Foods Fund fellowship for study toward a doctor's degree in 1959-60. Her major fields are foods and foods research.

Seeking Funds for Dr. Salk Institute

National Foundation to Seek $15,000,000 Total

Roy W. Moore, New York, chairman of the board of Canada Dry Corp., will be chairman of the national founders board of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies, it was announced today by Elmer F. Hillner, Minneapolis, state chairman of the Salk campaign.

Moore will organize support among leaders of business and industry for the campaign to build and equip the Institute now under construction at San Diego, Calif.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes has undertaken a $15 million building fund campaign from June 1 through 15 to give the general public an opportunity to contribute to the undertaking. Moreover, the National Foundation has committed $1 million a year for operation of the Institute as well as an additional $1 million a year for 10 years to create an endowment fund.

The Institute will be directed by Dr. Jonas Salk who developed the polio vaccine bearing his name.

Hillner, who has served as Minnesota state March of Dimes chairman for the past two years, said that Minnesota's campaign quota for the Institute will be about $250,000.

"World-renowned scientists will work and study at the Salk Institute, and we feel confident they will produce new knowledge in the life sciences that will benefit all mankind," Hillner said.

Hillner added that since Dr. Salk's contribution to the world of the Salk vaccine was the result of financial support given by the public, the American people will want the opportunity to participate in this advance in the health field.

7th Dist. DFL Will Reconvene After State Meet

A. O. Relerson, Fosston To Call Convention In Detroit Lakes Again

Recessed on April 29 at Detroit Lakes when delegates failed to reach an agreement on endorsing a candidate for Congress, the Seventh District DFL convention will not be reconvened until after the state DFL convention in Duluth, according to A. O. Relerson, Fosston, district party chairman.

"After checking with county DFL chairmen I find on account of the delayed spring farm work it will be impossible for the farmer delegates to attend the convention until later," the chairman said.

"I will reconvene the Seventh District DFL convention at Detroit Lakes shortly after the state DFL convention for the purpose of endorsement and other unfinished business outlined in the resolution adopted in recessing at our frist meeting," he added.

Delegates at the district convention, after 22 ballots, failed to endorse either Rep. Ben Wichterman or Harding Noblitt, political science instructor at Moorhead State college for the Congressional post held by Odin Langen of Kennedy. The vote favored Wichterman 76-73 at the first and 22nd ballot and the recess was called.

B. Myers Attends Feeder Pig Co-op Meeting May 10

Bernard Myers, representing Pennington county on the advisory board of the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative, attended a meeting held at Little Falls May 10 to hear a progress report of the cooperative's activities for the first four months of 1962.

Advisory board members were informed that the Minnesota Division which has been a part of the Cooperative for a little more than a year has marketed 12,500 feeder pigs for patrons since January 1.

To improve the quality of feeder pigs produced, outstanding breeding stock was made available to patrons at popular prices. Since January 1, 475 head of breeding stock have been delivered, valued at $30,500.

Also announced at the meeting was the construction of a 52 by 56 foot addition to the Little Falls assembly barn for housing breeding stock. The facilities will permit the isolation of different groups of breeding stock to maintain a high degree of animal health.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Editor:

The previous bond election was April 23rd, not last week as stated in your May 10th column. This statement then was inaccurate. It is unfortunate the Editor is not as well informed on the Bond Issue as our Senior citizen, Dr. Jacobson, who pointed out several of the Editor's erroneous statements in his excellent Public Opinion letter.

Nor has the Editor disqualified himself on the Bond Issue. (Note—title of April 19 column, "Yes We Will Vote No.!) Is this then considered public service?

The Editor also stated that in his opinion a construction man, whom the School Board has been unable to locate, could renovate Old Washington for about $10,000. The structural engineers (not the architects man) say $80,000. Anyone building should look into this man's qualifications. At this rate they should be able to get a $40,000 home for about $5,000, minus a sprinkler system, that is.

As for our need for classrooms only, these are facts — Knox school with 551 children has 4 small washbowls, which are used in shifts; gym and hot lunch program likewise; no library for 8 years; and children bused to the Armory and Trinity church for 5 years. We've even had classrooms on the stage and in the gym, and contrary to your opinion, none of these things are desirable or should be continued according to the "Wide Screen View".

The East Side supported New Washington, our best elementary school, which is 60 per cent rural. Let us hope the Rural and West side will help us now. It is well that rural children now have the same advantages for education as city children. As a former rural school teacher, I realize the inadequacies full well.

The Jr. High situation is deplorable. There has been no Jr. High building since Old Central was torn down. It is evident by the population explosion that a Jr. High School is long since due. It has been left to us to correct this situation at once.

The Editor also said we must think of the added expense of administration. Even he must realize we've never needed more faculty than we have children. The additional development of the area and the school furnishings are included in the bond issue, so how can he assume it will cost more?

I, too, believe as Mr. Christiansn that our need is a maximum Educational program at a minimum cost. That's why I favor the present proposal. Why should the School Board after all this research propose less than we need? Remember, they are serving us, and our needs will not disappear, not even if we vote this down twice or three times.

As to location, over 70 per cent of the pre-school population is on the East side, and the Administration has worked out a practical system to bus the West side Jr. High students, which is a great deal more than we have at present.

How much more time and money shall we spend to study this matter? What we do for our children we must do today, regrets later are futile!

And just who is going to pay for this? Note the J. C.'s endorsement—"We as young men of the community realize that a major portion of the cost of such construction will fall on our shoulders." And to quote Benjamin Franklin, "If a man emptys his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him."

Lowell Swenson brought to our attention that several industries have placed faith in the progress of the community, and I hope their faith is justified. How much further can our educational facilities regress before we lose our Class A Rating, and our State Aid? Should we jeopardize our membership in the North Central Association?

Our State and Federal Aid last year amounted to $746,772.72. To lose this will cost us a great deal more than a tax increase of 8 per cent. Local taxes for schools last year were $475,292.56. And Mr. Editor, as to living beyond our means, the fact is we spent $529,133.00 at the Liquor Store alone last year, so certainly the money is here, but where are our values?

Why can't we all unite, old and young, rural and city, east side and west side and get something we can be proud of for our community, for our leaders of tomorrow, and for our tax dollar—by voting YES May 21st!

Mrs. Loren Adolphson

Editor Times:

We would like to urge all the voters of the Thief River Falls School District to go and vote at the School Election at the issue and sale of school bonds. This election is on May 21 and the polls will close at 8:00 o'clock.

Just a few weeks ago the voters of this district voted down the issue of $1,595,000 in bonds with a good majority. This is America and you would think that when the voters had spoken so plainly the school board would have left the matter alone for a few years. The majority should rule. Instead of that the board is keeping the district stirred up, and putting us to the trouble and expense of a new election.

There are a few people in the district who own no property here and pay no taxes who are keeping the issue stirred up. This little group seeks to dictate to the people as to what should be done. The school board brings in outside engineers, and an outside architect to prepare plans and tell us what we must have.

Right now the school board has sent out a large expensive two page circular trying to scare the people into voting for the bond issue. All these things cost the district money.

This building program can wait a few years until we see what we really need and want. There is no reason why we should keep on continually raising taxes. Let the school board try to economize and cut down on expenses. There must be a limit to the taxes imposed on the people. We should not allow ourselves to be ruled and governed by a small group of dictators who want to dominate the people.

Yours very truly,

Dear Mr. Editor:

Here is one of the many letters I recieved from parents who are concerned with the opposition shown the school expansion program and I know many will enjoy reading it.—Mrs. Wm. L. Holmes

Dear Velma,

Thanks for writing in favor of the school bond issue.

I realize we are facing a serious problem—I'm afraid those who oppose the new school in a new area are the ones who are thinking of their pocketbooks and not the welfare of our future citizens and our own community. Surely we don't want another tax increase,—how can we afford it? Except to sacrifice somewhere and thus to appreciate the more what we receive for our money.

I am a lifelong resident of Thief River Falls and a student of all the grades and high school starting with the first class to use the new Northrop building and I had the privilege of attending a junior high, or the 7th and 8th grades, in a separate school, old Central, now a monument to education that has "bit the dust", except that it lives in precious memories as a time of intense learning, transition from child to young adult and even a special meaningful graduation from 8th grade. Here we made our new friends of the community and these contacts were many times lasting and binding. I have many times felt the present system of combining the Jr. and Sr. high students is a great disadvantage.

Since I live near the Northrop school, I have many times been thankful for its facilities,- a large expansive playground in an ideal neighborhood area, with rooms that let in sunshine and a view of the great outdoors. I shudder to think that more rooms would be added to that building and close in the needed expanse area.

I get a big lump in my throat and shiver with wonder whenever I see the many students as they sometimes file by on their way to attend some special school activity away from this area—the long line of students amazes me. I realize that they are only a part of our grade students at that. A parade of students surely would visually demonstrate our great need for their welfare.

As to needing more personnel for a new school area—isn't that a very good thing? We would give employment to some families who would make T. R. F. their home instead of seeing more and more people leave our town.

Why be cutting all corners and rate as a "cheap" system when we have had the reputation of being a clean, progressive and up-and-coming town?

Maybe I'm especially concerned as I have 4 children, one has finished high school here and 3 are now students.

Sincerely,
Mrs. K. Lindberg

Out-of-state Lot Salesmen Hit by Attorney General

Atty. Gen. Walter Mondale said Thursday many older citizens have been among those taken in by real estate promoters peddling worthless sub-divided lots in other states.

Addressing the National Association of License Law Officials in Minneapolis, Monday said he will urge the next legislature to make it illegal to sell such land in Minnesota unless salesmen are licensed by the state securities commissioner.

He said the promoters often direct their sales pitch at persons nearing retirement age who don't find out until after their purchase is made that the land described in glowing terms is really worthless.

Reproducing Pike By Natural Means Held Most Effective Way

Most of the fish present in Minnesota's best walleye lakes are there as a result of natural reproduction, not through the artificial stocking efforts of man.

This was pointed out by Hjalmar Swenson, conservation department fisheries supervisor, relative to the opening of the general fishing season on Saturday, May 12.

Swenson said that in the typical large windswept walleye lakes like Mille Lacs, Leech, Lake of the Woods, the Red lakes, Vermillion and others of that type, natural reproduction in a good year produces such a vast number of fish that the relatively few fish that could be added to the lake by stocking could be expected to have little or no impact on fishing success.

Furthermore, said Swenson, it does no good to add additional fish to a lake unless there is also available a sufficient amount of forage fishes and other food not being utilized by the original fish population. It is also useless to stock fish in waters unsuited to them and where they could not be expected to survive.

Stocking is best reserved for those lakes having favorable conditions but where natural reproduction has failed because of some unusual biological or climatic situation. Here the stocked fish can survive and will shorten the time necessary to bring the lake back into full production.

Within a short time, said Swenson, Department fisheries personnel will be checking to estimate the success of this year's spring spawning in lakes and streams. With a device similar to a vacuum cleaner, they will be bringing up fish eggs from the bottom in selected test areas to get an idea of the nuber of eggs deposited and the percentage that reach the "eyed" egg stage. Having attained the "eyed" stage, the chances of the egg hatching are excellent.

The information obtained will be used in determining stocking requirements.

Swenson said, "It should be a source of satisfaction and reassurance to know that many of our lakes will require no stocking at all."

Prowlers Get No Hits as Fertile Wins 7 to 0

Coach Chuck Johnson's Fertile Falcons turned in an impressive brand of baseball here on Monday night as they defeated the Prowlers, 7-0, on the Fair Ground. And the most impressive performance was the no-hit and no-run game pitched by the Falcons' stocky righthander, Rod Olson. Olson, who struck out fourteen Prowler batsmen, doled out four walks during the game, and in five of the seven innings he faced only three batters an inning.

The Prowlers will have a busy week-end schedule, playing the Crookston Central Pirates here on Friday night; travelling to Goodridge on Saturday afternoon for a 1:30 p. m. game against the Huskies; and playing the highly-rated Climax Vikings at Climax on Monday afternoon at 4:30 p. m.

In Monday night's tilt here, Fertile threatened to score in the opening inning when Gary Gullikson led off with a double, and Norm Jacobson followed with a single to right. Rod Olson struck out. Gullikson was thrown out at the plate on an attempted steal, and Paul Sannes grounded, short to first and end the inning.

Fertile put three runs on the score-board in the third inning, enough to win game as Olson spun his no-hit and no-run game. Ron Mosher opened the inning with a double to right field; Dale Erickson was out, second to first, with Mosher moving to third; Gary Gullikson sent a ground single into left field, scoring Mosher. A stolen base and passed ball moved Gullikson to third base. Jacobson sent a ground ball to third base, with Gerry Erickson making the play at the plate, and when youthful Wayne Smith dropped the ball, Fertile had another score. Sannes single to center score Jacobson with the Falcons' third tally.

Fertile, off righthander Tony Poole, who replaced Prowler starter John Aune in the 4th, added a run in the 4th, a pair in the fifth, and another single in the sixth. Rick Jensen finished off the hurling duties for the Prowlers.

The Prowlers, meanwhile, were kept in check by the assortment of pitches served up by Olson. The locals had only two opportunities to break into the scoring column. In the first, Gerry Erickson led off with a walk, advanced to second when Olson made a low throw to first in a pick-off attempt, and gained third on a passed ball. But Olson struck out Gary Klungness, Paul Klungness, and John Aune.

In the fourth, Gary Klungness drew a walk, moved to second on a wild pitch, went on to third when Paul Klungness grounded out, second-to-first. John Aune drew a walk. Aune was thrown out attempting to steal, and Mike Aune was called out on strikes.

An indication of Olson's mastery over the Prowlers is evident by the fact that only one ball was hit to the outfield, that being a fly ball to right by Gerry Erickson in the sixth.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Was He the Best?

Following the no-hit and no-run game that Fertile's stocky righthander, Rod Olson, pitched against the Prowlers here on Monday night with the Falcons winning by 7-0 score, there was a great deal of comment by the sideline experts on Olson's performance.

Dennis Wegge, who was a star with the Ringbo Redcaps in the early 1900's, maintained that Olson was a better hurler than such pitchers as Jim Turner, the former Crookston star, and Corky Johnson, who hurled Bemidji to a regional title some years ago. Well, there is some merit to Wegge's statement, but to say that the Fertile hurler is better than Turner and Johnson is quite a statement.

Umpire Gene Sack stated that Olson showed as much "stuff" as any high school hurler he has seen up here. And it is a fact that the Fertile pitcher did have an assortment. The Prowler batsmen, the few in the lineup who had batted against Crookston's Turner, were agreed that the Pirate pitcher had a better fast ball. Of course, Rod Olson is only a junior, and he will have another year of high school ball.

Other Fine Pitchers

In the years that I have watched school-age baseball, the best pitcher in my opinion was Fergus Falls' Barry Johnson. Johnson, a six-foot two-inch right-hander, is a tremendous prospect, and it is probable that he will be signed to some major league club when he graduates from high school this spring.

The next best high-school age hurler, again in my opinion, was Drayton's smooth-throwing southpaw, Tommy Knoff. Fans who witnessed his no-hit and no-run effort, in eight innings, against the local Legion club some years ago, will be in agreement.

And, of course, Bemidji's Corky Johnson is right up there when it comes to pitching. He was primarily a fast-ball pitcher, and he could throw the ball past most batters.

But Fertile's Rod Olson is a good one.

That was an impressive squad that Fertile coach Chuck Johnson brought over here on Monday. Not only was the team physically impressive, having good size and giving evidence of power, but they were also an alert and well-drilled team. The competition for District 30 honors, between the defending champion Ada Vikings and Fertile, should be exciting and entertaining. Ada this season has scored a pair of wins over the Falcons, but in the last game the Vikings had to go two extra innings to post a 3-2 win.

A Tough Loser

Dennis (Cotton) Langevin is the week's nominee for the toughest loser in opening week-end of fishing. Here's an instance: early Sunday morning, Cotton and Stan Cockrell were out on Rainy river, near Wheeler's Point, and the two had a modest wager, twenty-five cents, on the first fish to be caught. Stan, who is an experienced angler, and consequently had an advantage over Langevin, caught th first fish, a walleyed pike. But the sharp-eyed Cotton noticed that Stan had threaded a pair of minnows on his spinner, and made a vigorous protest. Cotton's objections could be heard echoing up and down the river, and the upshot that he, Cotton, paid only half of the bet, 12½ cents. And he even cut a penny in half, making it 12½ cents exactly.

And to add to Cotton's discomfort his past weekend was his loss of the big-fish pool. Until an hour before the party quit fishing, Cotton's three-pound walleye was the pool winner, worth about nine dollars. But then Bud Schuster brought in a three and a half pound walleye to win the pool. To have Bud win the big-fish pool was, for Cotton, most humiliating. He is still pouting.

Held a Meeting

Roy Jorgenson, coach and captain of the Northern Chevrolet trapshooting squad, held a one-man meeting this week. In last Thursday's opening round of trapshooting, the Chevvies dropped a 115 to 111 decision to the Wilson Bros., and this loss was the reason for Roy's meeting.

Four of the boys on the Chevvy squad posted scores of over twenty, with Erling Torgerson and Ted LaCoursiere having 25's. But two of his shooters came in with low totals, and these two scores cost the victory.

Roy has considered sending these two fellows to a "farm" team, someplace northeast of Fourtown. This should be a note of warning to Milt and George.

Bemidji High Wins N.W. Conference Golf Title May 15

The Bemidji Lumberjacks won the Northwest conference golf title in the four-team tournament played over the Birchmont course in Bemidji on Tuesday afternoon. The winning Jacks had a four-man total of 325. Coach Bob Gaarder's Prowlers earned second place with a total of 338 strokes. The Crookston Pirates had a score of 354 for third place; and the Roseau Rams posted a 356-stroke total for fourth place.

Crippled Children Society Honors 42 FFA Chapters

Forty-two Future Farmer chapters were cited for outstanding service to crippled children by conducting a "Corn Drive for Camp Courage" by Dave Wick, president of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

Presenting the awards at the 1962 Future Farmer convention Tuesday, May 8, on the University of Minnesota farm campus, Wick said, "In behalf of crippled children who find new horizons at Camp Courage, we are deeply grateful and moved by the interest and effort of these young men who make possible two weeks of recreation and adventure for so many handicapped children."

Future Farmers of Albert Lea were presented with a bronze plaque for the most successful corn drive in Minnesota. Future Farmers of Freeborn, Kimball, Gaylord, Cottonwood, and Sioux Valley were given special citations for the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth highest proceeds-per-member respectively. Proceeds of $8,898.90 were donated by Future Farmer chapters. These gifts are used to send crippled children to Camp Courage, Minnesota's only camp for crippled children.

Local Track Men Win Bemidji Meet

Favored by ideal wather and track conditions, Northwest conference athletes re-wrote the record book in the annual track and field meet held at the Bemidji State College field on Tuesday afternoon. The meet had originally been scheduled for the Thief River Falls high school field, but the heavy rains of Monday night made the local track very heavy and a transfer of the meet to Bemidji was made.

Eight conference records were broken and one was tied during the afternoon, and leading the assault on the old records was the Prowlers' Paul Klungness, who, in leading coach Rod Max's squad to a successful defense of their conference title, set four new marks. The Prowler speedster set new marks in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump.

Other record-breakers were Roseau's Jerry Swenson in the shot put; the Prowlers' Brian Lofberg in the discus throw; Bemidji's Gary Lockner in the 880-yard run; and the Prowlers' 880-yard relay team of Don Nicholson, Arvid Lee, Orrin Joppru, and Gary Klungness, who sped the half-mile in 1:37.1. Norm Bolstad of East Grand Forks tied the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 16.6.

Rolf Wangberg won the mile run easily, posting a time of 4:47.1, just two seconds off the record set by Roseau's Vic Lundemo last year.

In the team totals, the Prowlers racked up a total of 64 and one-sixth points; Crookston Central earned runner-up honors with 41 and one-third points; the Roseau Rams had 38 and one-sixth points for third place; East Grand Forks scored 34 points for fourth place; and the Bemidji Lumberjacks totaled 31 and one-half points.

Grygla School Serves As Community Center

Dennis McCullough, Organizes Activities; 252 Students Enrolled

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

Nestled comfortably in the rural community of Grygla, a Marshall county village with a population of just under 200 people, is a modern elementary school with enrollment of 252 students. The facility serves as a hub for community activities as well as providing educational facilities to students in the district which includes 640 square miles.

Coordinating activities for the district is Dennis McCullough, principal of the school, whose duties are many and varied. At 22 years of age, McCullough is single, resides in a trailer house near the school, and is devoted to his responsibilities as principal. A 1957 graduate of Newfolden high school, he attended the teacher's training course in Thief River Falls for a year and has been employed by the Grygla district for four years.

At the tender age of 18, McCullough began teaching a combination fifth and sixth grade class in one of the rural buildings which had been moved to the school grounds as a result of district consolidation in 1949. At that time there were five of the rural buildings located on the school site as well as a brick building which was used for several classes. The district also operated the "East Site", a grouping of three rural buildings housing about 70 students about 17 miles east of the village.

Taught Seventh Grade

Until February of this year, McCullough taught seventh grade in addition to his duties as principal. At that time the district became involved in research and planning in an attempt to create a high school district. The increased work load resulted in his being relieved of teaching duties in favor of full-time administrative work.

Since graduation from teacher's training in Thief River Falls, McCullough has accumulated two years of college education at Bemidji State college. This has been accomplished by night classes, Saturday sessions, correspondence courses, summer school and other short-term study at the college. He hopes to complete his education in the army and return to Grygla after fulfilling his military obligation. He is majoring in elementary education with concentrations in social studies and physical education.

Has Varied Duties

Among his many activities as principal, McCullough supervises the hot lunch program, makes annual reports, supervises classrooms, handles scheduling, plans bus routes, cares for purchasing and selection of study materials, handles other purchasing for the district, does much of the district bookkeeping, drives a school bus on a regular route, coordinates activities using school facilities and coaches basketball and baseball teams.

Dennis became principal of the school after a new structure was erected in 1960. He succeeded Mrs. Clara Boyum who currently teaches fourth grade at the school. The modern building, which includes remodeling of the brick building formerly located on the site, now has nine classrooms, dining room, kitchen and a regulation high school size gymnasium. The district employs a principal, nine teachers, secretary, two cooks, janitor and seven bus drivers.

In addition to one teacher for each grade, the district employs a full-time vocal music teacher. Vocal music is taught for half-hour periods four days each week by Mrs. Olga Engevik. On Tuesdays piano lessons are provided by the teacher free of charge to any students who wish to take them. This year there were 56 youngsters taking piano lessons and 45 were presented in recital Tuesday evening.

During the basketball season the school competes in the "Four G" conference with teams from Gatzke, Goodridge and Gully. Tournaments are held in the new Grygla gymnasium and this year drew about 700 fans as Gatzke swept the conference tourney championship.

Operate Seven Buses

Students pour into the school on seven buses which operate routes totaling 275 miles morning and night. About 230 pupils of the 252 enrolled are bus students. Most students beyond the elementary level attend Goodridge high school with some boarding buses as early as 6:20 a. m. Longest distance which a student has to travel to attend the Grygla school is about 33 miles.

Assessed valuation of real estate in the district is $377,000 with a mill rate of 124.94 mills for school purposes. In the 1960-1961 school term the total disbursements for district operation were $130,937, with $80,000 being for maintenance and transportation and $9,390 for debt service.

When the new buildings were erected in 1960 at a cost of about $200,000, the district had a building fund of $120,000. The district currently has a debt of about $77,000.

School dismisses on Friday for the summer vacation period with award and report day being held that day. In addition to athletic events, extra-curricular activities at the school include a talent contest, speech contest, piano recital, spelling contest and annual Christmas program. Students also publish a school newspaper each seven weeks during the school year with class reports and comments by the school board and faculty.

In addition to teachers pictured with this story, the school staff includes Carol Tiegland, secretary; Mrs. Albert Berg and Mrs. Elmer Strom, cooks; Orville Askeland, janitor; Harry Byklum, Vernon Neuschwander, Barnett Benson, Bob Sundberg, Stewart Sistad, Vernon Wikstrom and Lloyd Clausen, bus drivers.

PRINCIPAL of the Grygla elementary school is 22-year-old Dennis McCullough, a 1957 graduate of Newfolden high school and four-year veteran of the Grygla school system. McCullough attended teacher's training in Thief River Falls and has since accumulated two year's credit at Bemidji State college through summer school, night classes, correspondence courses and Saturday sessions. He hopes to complete his education in the army following his induction this summer. He has been granted a two-year leave of absence by the board of education.

Construction and maintenance are improving travel on the Alaska Highway every year. Recently John Jobson, Sports Afield's camping editor drove the 900-mile, mostly gravel stretch between Dawson Creek and Whitehorse — the roughest portion at that time — in less than two days, averaging 45 MPH.

Khrushchev a Doubter

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has declared that no United States rocket has hit the moon and that's that. Just what prompted him to make such a statement is not known but there is the possibility that he is attempting to compensate for the fact that some authorities are skeptical about the adventures in space by Russia's Gherman Titov.

Titov did little to convince the doubters during his recent visit to our country, and his opportunities to discuss his flight with American astronaut John Glenn. He revealed no details of his flight and how he had returned to earth.

There is no doubt about Glenn's achievement and it probably is just as well that we accept as true the Titov story. Better that we overestimate the prowess of the Russians than to underestimate what undoubtedly is an impressive record. And it isn't important whether or not Khrushchev believes we hit the moon.

To the Polls Again

On Monday we go to the polls again to vote on the same proposal that was rejected on April 23 in a record vote by a big margin. The voters of the Thief River Falls school district are being asked to express themselves again on the question of authorizing bonds for additional schools at an estimated cost of $1,595,000.

We opposed the proposal at that time and we can see no good reason why we should not oppose it again. The proposal is the same and our objections are the same.

Our objections are based primarily on our conclusion that the school officials are asking for more facilities than are needed. The few additional rooms that could be justified as necessary can be provided at a fraction of the sum that is being requested.

We have checked the record of enrollment growth and on this point we are in substantial agreement with the school officials. There has been an enrollment increase of about 700 during the past ten years. Of this total about 300 are in the vocational school and 400 in the elementary and secondary divisions. During that ten year period we expanded our facilities several times and have more than kept pace with the growth needs for the elementary and secondary grades.

During that ten year period we have provided twenty additional classrooms for the elementary grades alone. We built a new building for the vocational school which now is inadequate in part because some vocational classes have been moved into rented quarters to make more room available for the senior high school.

The main reason for any classroom shortage that may exist is not increased enrollment but reduced class size. By the standards of ten years ago our schools are operating under ideal conditions. In general, to whatever extent our schools are now substandard is due to the fact that the standards have been changed. There are reasonable differences of opinion as to whether or not the changes that have been made in the standards can be justified. There can be no question about the so-called "higher" standards having resulted in higher costs.

We hope that following Monday's election this problem can be re-examined thoroughly, the first objective of which should be to bring about agreement as to what are the facts. Substantial agreement as to the facts would make possible a more calm approach in a search for solutions.

Few of the people who are opposing the bond issue proposal in its present form are opposed to good schools. As we see it, we are divided on the question mainly as two groups, one group seeking what is ideal and the other group seeking what is practical. The conditions of our finances, we believe, justifies the practical approach.

India and China

China and India are having hot arguments again about their border and there always is the possibility in such a situation that a border incident might explode into serious warfare. The eight-year-old treaty of friendship and peace between the two countries expires June 2.

Writing from London, Joseph C. Harsch, Christian Science Monitor correspondent, reports on India's military build-up and an agreement whereby the Soviets will send two squadrons of latest-type jet fighters to India, build a MIG factory in India and train Indian technicians and pilots in the Soviet Union.

On this possibility Harsch makes the following observations:

"Soviet jets and training are far less important to India in terms of actual military strength than they are in terms of an indication of Moscow's position between India and China. Moscow is not known to be putting modern military equipment in Chinese hands. In effect, Moscow appears to be saying that its sympathies lie more with India than with Communist China.

"It is plausible to assume that the signs of Moscow's sympathy for India are intended more to caution and restrain China than as evidence that in the event of actual Chinese-Indian war Moscow would openly aid India against China. In all reason it is to be doubted that major fighting will break out between the two largest Asian countries or that Moscow would openly support non-Communist India against Communist China.

"Nevertheless the fact remains that the most acute possible source of war in the world today is not Berlin but the Chinese-Indian frontier and that in the maneuvering of the powers around this issue something new in the postwar world is appearing."

We can get some confort out of this additional evidence that the Russians are not on friendly terms with the Chinese. It is a little disturbing however to learn that India is turning to Russia for military aid and a probably military alliance. Just what have we accomplished by spending many million of your dollars in India? That is a good question, one that congress should consider carefully before tossing more millions around to backward countries.

The Production Process

President Kennedy has warned labor to keep wage demands within productivity gains. The weakness in all this talk about wage scales being tied to productivity gains is that it encourages the thought that productivity gains should be used exclusively to increase wages. What the president should be asking for is a hold-the-line on all wages and salaries and the passing along to consumers a big share of the benefits of increased productivity in the form of lower prices.

Lower prices would serve as wage increases for all citizens, increasing their buying power. The demand for more goods at lower prices is the solution for the unemployment problem.

Increased productivity, meaning greater production per man hour of work, is due mainly to providing the worker with more efficient machinery. For this reason the interests of capital must not be overlooked in the distribution of the benefits of productivity gains. Investment is an essential ingredient in the production processes and investors should be encouraged to make new capital available.

A Question of Objective

(The Morris Tribune)

Last January 15, the Secretary of Agriculture, at the National Conference on Land and People in Washington, D.C., stated that: "Some recent studies estimate that by 1980 when we expect our population to have grown to around 250 million people we will be able to produce the food and fiber for all domestic and international needs on about 50 million fewer acres than we have in production today."

About two weeks later the Assistant Secretary of Interior told a Pueblo, Colorado, audience: "Realization of the 1980 needs will require crop yields 41 per cent greater and a net addition of 20 million acres of cropland. Year 2000 needs will require crop yields 75 per cent greater and the addition of 63 million acres of cropland."

From these statements at least two conclusions can be drawn. In the first place, one of the gentlemen must be wrong. And in the second place, we would do well to peek behind the window dressing of so-called "public need" for more cropland, and see whether such conclusions are merely a build-up for more government dams, ostensibly for irrigation, but in reality primarily for tax-exempt government power projects.

Productivity

(Wall Street Journal)

The real trouble with productivity formulas for wage increases, it seems to us, is the prevalent notion that the individual worker's output is the chief element in productivity. Actually, as Leslie Worthington, president of U.S. Steel, recently said, "true productivity is a reflection of the efficiency with which all resources are used in producing and distributing goods and services."

One of the major resources in question takes the form of technological improvements which permit a worker to increase his output. And technological improvements are possible only as a result of capital investment in new and better equipment. That investment and management contribution is exactly the point which is obscured in so much of the discussion of productivity.

As long as this fog persists, "productivity" will continue to be a handy word for those whose idea of a wage formula is one that, regardless of any other consideration, pushes wages perpetually up.

Remember the polls close at 8:00 o'clock at Monday's school bond election.

"My weekly treat is a visit to a small local cinema. The manager there knows almost every customer. I have a seat booked at the end of the back row and as I suffer from bad feet, the manager allows me the luxury of bathing my feet in hot water during the show. I fill up the bowl in his office. You do not get service like this in the big posh cinemas."

Use your head when you shop for a "new-size" car

The air is filled with claims about the so-called "new-size" cars—the ones that have finally caught up with Rambler Classic's size, but with little else.

Just use your head and you'll discover sizeable differences. Slide into the front seat and you'll find much more headroom in the Rambler Classic (actually more than Cadillac!). Full and ample room for six big and well-padded 6-footers.

You get better performance because Rambler is ahead in both horsepower and passing power. And any Rambler owner will tell you how much he saves on gasoline.

Care about quality? Every Rambler has Double-Safety Brakes—of all U. S. cars, only Cadillac has a similar system. Only Rambler gives you Deep-Dip rustproofing up to the roof. Only Rambler spares you the expense of replacing rusted-out mufflers and tailpipes—Rambler's are Ceramic-Armored.

Kickoff Luncheon in St. Paul Next Tuesday to Open Dairy Month

Minnesota's 1962 round of June Dairy Month activities, announced May 16 will get underway with the annual kickoff luncheon in St. Paul, Tuesday, May 22.

Announced simultaneously by manager Lew Conlon of the Minnesota dairy industry committee, was selection of a purebred Jersey cow, "Bindle Countess Eileen," as Minnesota's official June Dairy month mascot.

Conlon said the identity of Minnesota's second annual June Dairy Month farm family would be revealed the day before the kickoff luncheon, at which the family will be honored guests. The farm family will serve throughout June as a "living symbol of the kind of people who have built Minnesota's dairy industry," according to Conlon.

Some 400 guests will attend the kickoff luncheon which will get the 26th edition of June Dairy Month underway in Minnesota. The mascot cow will be present, in person, and preside from the ballroom stage as "hostess" of the event.

The kickoff luncheon annually signals the start of hundreds of local dairy days, festivals, parades, picnics, pageants and dairy shows across the state. Food stores, dairies, banks and other business places of all kinds again will add their weight to the month-long salute to the dairy industry with special sales, displays and merchandising events.

Dairy princess contests, which will include some 1,300 to 1,600 dairy farm girls, will be held in hundreds of communities and in 80 of Minnesota's 87 counties again this year. One of the girls will be crowned Princess Kay of the Milky Way IX on opening night of the 1962 Minnesota State Fair.

Eleven finalists for the state contest will be selected at the 11 regional dairy days which cap Minnesota's June Dairy Month activities. Nine of the 11 regional dairy day events will include dairy cattle shows for 4-H and FFA competitors.

A new innovation this year will be a cattle showmanship demonstration, with Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Diane Kramer, at the halter, at those dairy days which have cattle shows. All except regions 9 and 10 will hold cattle shows.

Dates and sites of the regional dairy days include Region I Dairy Day Tuesday, June 12, in Thief River Falls.

Non-farm Workers at New Peak During Apr.

Minnesota non-agricultural employment rose to a new high for the month of April, with 961,100 workers on jobs in the state last month, Frank T. Starkey, Commissioner of Employment Security said in a report released today.

The April job level was 23,000 workers above last year and 12,000 above the previous high, reached in April 1960. At the present rate of increase, Starkey said the state would surely see the one million job mark by September, or possibly even in August.

The largest increases reported between March and April occurred in the construction (6,800), trade (5,00) and service (4,400) industries. All categories of construction showed substantial gains in the one-month period, but highway and special trade employment lagged behind last year's levels, due in part to the inclement winter and spring weather, Starkey said.

Within trade the largest gains resulted from the opening of outdoor eating and drinking places, and from the effects of Easter buying on department and apparel stores.

Among the service industries, the spring opening of outdoor recreation facilities, and nurseries and hatcheries provided the major impetus for the boost in employment.

The over-the-year employment gain is shared almost equally by the manufacturing and nonmanufacturing halves of the nonfarm economy, Starkey said. 1962 employment should continue to show this amount of relative improvement throughout the remainder of the year.

Production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $102.63 per week in April. This was a gain of one-half dollar over March and up $5.45 from a year ago.

Average weekly hours, at 40.7 in April were up .5 of an hour from the previous month and .8 of an hour above a year ago.

Unemployment in Minnesota declined by 10,800 persons to an April level of 101,400. This is a decrease of 23,000 from April 1961. Although unemployment is substantially below the 1958 and 1961 recession year levels it is slightly above the 1959 and 1960 levels.

The rate of unemployment was 6.9 per cent in April compared to 7.9 per cent the previous month and 8.7 per cent a year ago.

135 Drownings in State on Average

Water Safety Chairman Issues Annual Warning

Eighty-five per cent of the persons who drown each year are non-swimmers, Carl W. Moen, chairman of water safety for the Minnesota Safety Council said today.

With the start of water sports and fishing, Moen warned that an average of 135 persons have drowned annually in Minnesota over the last decade.

While the immediate causes — falling from boats, swimming or children playing unattended vary — panic in the non-swimmer remains the greatest danger.

"I well recall one incident in the immediate St. Paul vicinity in which four of five persons in a sinking boat drowned," Moen said.

"The fifth man, in his struggle, finally touched bottom and stood up. The other four had drowned in water that was only chest deep.

"If a person had the confidence gained through the ability to swim only a few yards, it would help dispel the fatal panic that so often leads to drowning."

Moen, who also is president of the National Water Safety Congress said about 7,000 persons drown in the United States each year.

"In Minnesota particularly, it is just plain foolhardy not to learn to swim, if only a few yards," Moen said.

Teenage idol Troy Donahue, portraying a young American architect studying in Rome, is caught between old flame Angie Dickinson and new arrival Suzanne Pleshette in this scene from "Rome Adventure," the Warner Bros. romantic drama opening Sunday at the Falls Theatre. Rossano Brazzi is also starred in the Technicolor production.

Centennial History of Polk Co. Published

The recently published, new, "Centennial History of Polk County" by Tom McCall will be placed officially on sale for the first time during the spring opening of Pioneer Museum in Crookston, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 18, 19 and 20, and the books will be available for purchase permanently at the museum.

Publication of the book was made possible through an appropriation made by the board of commissioners of Polk county as a part of the budget of funds set aside for the observance of the Polk County Centennial in 1958 and the gratuitous contributions of individuals of historical material.

Valuable assistance in the compiling of this history was received from the present county officers, librarians in Minneapolis, University of North Dakota, Crookston, Northwest School and the Polk County Historical Society.

Much of the compilation of statistical material on agricultural production in Polk County was made possible through direct assistance and loan of certain statistical material from Roy Brodin, chief statistician, State Federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, St. Paul and other census material.

Credit is also due to the newspapers of the county for their publication of historical materials during the centennial year.

Data from anniversary historical booklets published by Fosston, McIntosh, Winger and Crookston was also used in the book.

The complete files of "Old Crossing Treaty" and "Old Crossing Memorial" records on file at the Polk County Historical Society's Pioneer Museum were used as a source of materials for sections of the book. The "Old Crossing Treaty" file was compiled by the late Congressman C. G. Selvig and John Saugstad of Crookston.

Contributors to the book include Philip Anderson, Polk county probate judge and chairman, Polk county Centennial committee, Judge J. E. Montague, Emil J. Bagley, executive secretary of the Polk county welfare board, Lyle Currie, secretary, Red River Valley Potato Growers association.

Among the book's chapters are The Shrinking Land Area, Organizations in 1872, County Offices, Glacial Lake Agassiz, Early Explorers and Early Explorations, Signing of the Old Crossing Treaty, Settlement and Early Settlers, Population, Schools, Weather, Drainage, Highway, Welfare, Fairs, Agricultural Empire and a number on agriculture.

T. M. McCall, book author, long time superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, and board member of the Polk County Historical Society, was born on a farm near McCallsburg, Iowa, December 25, 1887. He was graduated from Iowa State University with a degree in horticulture in 1910. He became superintendent of the Northwest School in 1937 and held this post for 20 years. He was on the staff of the school for 45 years.

Remove Old Park Stickers, Is Plea

State Conservation Dept. Appeals to Car Owners

The Minnesota conservation department's division of state parks suggested today that old state park vehicle stickers be removed from the windshield before the current sticker is affixed.

State park personnel claim that it is getting difficult to tell at a glance on some cars whether the proper sticker is on the windshield because of the accumulation of old stickers.

Special legislation was required to permit the affixing of the state park sticker on the windshiled of the car. It is the only seal or sticker of any kind legally authorized to be placed on the windshield.

Cluttering of the windshield is frowned on by highway safety officials because of the obstruction to the driver's vision. This is another good reason for removing stickers from previous years, park officials pointed out.

Faribault Youth Named President of the State FFA

Ron Gernandt, 18, Faribault, is the 1962-63 state Future Farmers of America president. He was elected Tuesday during the state FFA convention on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota. Ron is president of the Faribault FFA chapter.

The new Minnesota FFA president owns seven dairy cows and has six acres of crops.

Other new state FFA officers are: Allen Thompson, Jackson, first vice president; Dale Christianson, Owatonna, secretary; Jack Cole, Delavan, treasurer; Dan Von Bank, Jordan, reporter; Glenn Darst, Greenbush, sentinel.

Re-elected were G. R. Cochran, St. Paul, state adviser; W. J. Kortesmaki, St. Paul, state executive secretary; and Joe Malinski, New Prauge, state executive treasurer.

Plans Announced for the 1962 Aquatennial

Minneapolis Aquatennial officials have announced July 13-22 as dates of the 1962 celebration.

One new departure this year will be the coronation of the 1962 Aquatennial Queen of the Lakes amid the aquatic surroundings of Theodore Wirth pool. For the first time Queen Coronation ceremonies will be combined with the diving, water ballet and variety acts of the now world-famous Aqua Follies. The Aqua Follies has been selected as the only aquatic show at the Seattle World's Fair this summer.

Bringing nation-wide coverage to Aquatennial this year will be Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club" show, which will originate at Apache Plaza shopping center each weekday during Aquatennial. Visitors will be invited to attend the ABC network radio program each morning to meet and talk with McNeill, comedienne Fran Allison, singer Mary Anne Luckett and other members of the cast.

The shores of Lake Calhoun will become a center of Aquatennial activities. While tens of thousands of persons gather along the shoreline, participants in the Aquatennial Water Ski Tournament will perform water-skimming antics during the opening two days of the festival. Following the water skiers, will be hydroplane racers and sailors taking part in the colorful sailboat regatta later in the week.

On Aquatennial's first Sunday night, July 15, the Aquatennial Queen's review will also be held at Lake Calhoun. Starting at 7 o'clock in the evening, visitors will be introduced to visiting Queens and Queen Candidates from all parts of the nation. The evening's festivities will be capped by a dazzling fireworks display at 10 p. m.

Not new, but fresh, sparkling and different with an "American Folklore" theme, are the two Aquatennial parades: the Grande Day Parade, held on Aquatennial's opening Saturday afternoon, July 14, followed on Wednesday night by the Torchlight Parade with gaily decorated and lighted floats, bands and marching units.

All these, plus the Coronation Ball, special neighborhood activities for children and adults, the Canoe Derby, noontime activites downtown and dozens of contests will make Aquatennial time gayer and brighter than ever in Minneapolis this summer.

CONTROL TOWER

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Clearance, weather information, assigned altitudes and airways, landing instructions . . . we take these for granted. We simply fly from point to point, our progress and safety undergirded by an intricate web of scientific communication.

Perhaps that's why, today, so many assume that some celestial system ought to assure everyone comfort, success and happiness.

But the control tower can operate only because every pilot respects its purpose and has faith in its instructions.

Our moral progress and our spiritual security are the constant concern of the Church. Its worship and guidance undergird the lives of all who respect its Purpose, and have faith in the truths of God which it teaches.

Total enrollment in the school is 252 students with one teacher for each grade and a full-time music teacher also employed by the district. Hetteen Journey In Alaska Nears Climax

CHAPTER ELEVEN

March 22, 1960

This morning we set out on the storied Fairbanks trail for Tolovana. This is the old Gold Miners' Trail that played an important part in Alaska's early development.

We left the rivers and tried a cross-country trail that proved a lot smoother than what we have been accustomed to although we had to cross many hills, considerable areas of brush growth and quite a few small streams that lace the hill country.

Arriving at Tolovana, we found a vacant cabin and took the liberty of moving in for the night. It was not fancy, but we knew it would be much more comfortable than the tents.

March 23, 1960

The temperature was zero at 8 o'clock this morning when we left the cabin at Tolovana and headed for Minto. It warmed up to 30 degrees as the day progressed, but we encountered high winds once again.

When our route took us down on the river we had some slow trail making in the deeper snow but in the wooded country that we traversed today the going was much better.

All of us had a lot of exercise during the day, and I am thankful that I did considerable pre-trip training, even to doing push-ups in the top berth of a Pullman car.

We reached Minto at 12:30 o'clock and pushed on for Tortilla Lodge, the inn at Nenana, which is 30 miles from Minto.

For part of this leg of the journey we took advantage of a good dog team trail. But further along, a heavy construction bulldozer had torn up so much of the trail that we had to travel some difficult miles going into Minto.

When we arrived at the river crossing near Nenana it was dark and, although we were hindered by a bare road, we made it to the inn by 8 p. m. with the help of automobile headlights which lighted up the shoulder strip beside the roadway.

The people at the inn knew we were to arrive and the restaurant had been kept open to provide supper for us.

A restaurant employee gave up her bed for Bessie and Rudy Billberg. Erling Falk and I slept in a quonset house near the inn.

As we turned in this evening all of us were excited at the prospect of arriving at Fairbanks, probably within the next 24 hours, to terminate this strangely-exciting motor journey from the seacoast into central Alaska.

We are looking forward to the welcome that we have been told has been planned for us upon our arrival in Fairbanks.

Two or three planes flew low over us during today's run, and we assumed that their purpose was to see what progress we were making so they could estimate our arrival time at Fairbanks.

Wherever we stop people are very inquisitive about our machines and the distances we have come.' We feel certain that these motor sleds will change the travel habits of this country.

The Sno-Traveler is about the most practical type of vehicle for winter transportation in this north country. Its track is narrow enough to travel dog team trails, and it is light enough for trans-shipment by airplane. In addition, it requires very little gasoline, no maintenance to speak of, and it is very simple of operate, with only the steering apparatus and throttle control.

Social Security Tax Payment Due on Farm Workers

Employer and Worker Both Required to Pay, Says Grand Forks Office

Farmers must keep a record of their farm workers and of crew leaders, advises Walter D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks district social security office.

Kistler points out that farmers must report and pay taxes if a worker earns $150 or more in cash wages in a year, or if a worker works on 20 days or more during the year for any amount of cash paid on a time basis (hour, day, week). The employer tax and the employee tax are each 3 and one-eighth per cent, for a total of 6¼ per cent of wages. These earnings are reported on Internal Revenue Form 943.

Mr. Kistler adds that farmers must also report the name, permanent address, and employer's identification number on Page 2 of Form 943 of any crew leader working for them.

To obtain the proper forms, and an employer's number, farmers must complete a Form SS-4. These can be obtained from the nearest District Director of Internal Revenue, or the social security office.

If you desire more information, you should contact your social security office at Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Fewer Forest and Grass Fires Listed

Only 203 Reported This Spring; Average Is 654

The number of forest and grass fires in Minnesota reached a 10-year low this spring.

Don Wilson, state forest fire chief for the Minnesota conservation department, said spring fires to May 1 totaled 203 against an average of 654 to that date.

Contrary to popular belief, more fires occur in the spring than in the fall, Wilson said, but fall fires usually are more destructive to timber.

A heavy cover of snow over most of the state, after six winters of below average snowfall, left grasslands in particularly good condition to resist fire, he said.

Minnesota has roughly a million and a half acres of swampy grassland and 20 million acres of forest. It is in the grassland area most of the spring fires occur after a dry winter. The toal acreage of spring fires exceeds fall fires.

Wilson said an increase of residents in marginal forest land, both summer cottage dwellers and residents working in nearby cities has increased the fire threat.

Of 1,491 fires in 1961, 131 were started by household rubbish burners. About 50 per cent of the fires in borderline forest areas were started by residents in sub-marginal farm areas.

The period of green growth between mid-May and mid-June is the time of least fire threat, Wilson said.

Sunflower, Millet Report Favorable

Quota Is Reached on Sunflowers; No More Millet Being Taken

Recent reports on the production locally of sunflowers and millet for the processing plant to be located in this city are very encouraging, according to the local Chamber of Commerce office which has been handling the completion of signups in the program. More than 500 acres of sunflowers and 1,000 acres of millet have been contracted for by the Valley Feed and Supply company of Spring Valley, N. Y.

Details are being worked out for the processing plant which will be located just south of Lincoln high school in the feed plant sold to the New York firm by Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed association. The local concern is also completing plans for a new expanded and improved plant at their property on Dewey av. N.

Seed for farmers planting sunflowers will be available from Olaf Ness at Holt and Johnson warehouse at Erskine. Seed furnished by the company, which may be paid for out of returns from the crop this fall, is of the Mennonite variety and will sell for 15 cents per pound or $15 per hundredweight.

Millet seed, of red and white Proso varieties, will be available soon. No more millet contracts are being signed. In addition to the contract acres, several trial plots of milo, canary seed and maple peas will be planted in the area to determine their productivity. If they perform satisfactorily, it is highly probable that they will in some degree be added to the crops offered area farmers next year.

With initial signup for sunflower production being considerably below original expectations, local persons working on the facility were heartened by a number of farmers who came in to sign contracts although "we don't particularly want to work with sunflowers but we want to help make sure the project is successful." This cooperation has made the venture successful at this stage, reports Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

George Piitt, president of the company, in a letter to the Ness Seed company at Holt, outlined how to plant and what yield to expect from sunflowers. "They should seed six to seven pounds of sunflower per acre," he said, "and seed it in rows 38 to 42 inches apart. They can plant it with a corn planter or a drill and it does need some row cultivation. It should produce an average of 1,500 pounds per acre, although may produce up to 2,500 pounds. The seed would cost about $1.05 per acre to seed and we pay 4¾ cents per pound for the crop."

Jaycees Again Stage Vehicle Safety Check

In cooperation with the Thief River Falls Automobile Dealer's association, the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce will conduct its annual vehicle safety check Friday from 10 a. m. to 6 p.m., according to Jerry Lydeen, committee chairman. The voluntary safety check will be held at the corner of First street and Main avenue.

"This voluntary vehicle safety check gives every motorist a chance to do his part in making our community a safer place to live," Lydeen said. "Even our best drivers are poor risks if they are driving cars with bad brakes, worn tires or other neglected items.

"Equally important in our safety check is the challenge to all drivers to check their conduct behind the wheel. Both safe cars and safe drivers are needed to check accidents."

Voluntary check lanes will be set up to give motorists an opportunity to take advantage of the free and voluntary 10-point check. One out of every six vehicles checked in the 1960 nation-wide safety check needed immediate attention to one or more of the 10 items affecting safe driving conditions. The 10 items include, brakes, front and rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

"A safety-checked windshield sticker reassures owner their vehicles were checked and found in safe operating condition," the committee chairman added. "Vehicles found unsafe permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident. Many motorists don't know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families and their community. A safety check is the best way to find out."

In 1960 nearly 3,000 communities in states not requiring periodic motor vehicle inspection conducted voluntary checks. Over three million motorists had their vehicles checked and thousands had unsafe items repaired.

Unique Accident Reported Early Thursday Morning

Unusual circumstances surrounded an accident reported to the Thief River Falls police department early Thursday morning following a severe thunder storm earlier in the morning.

Richard A. Underdahl, who operates Dick's Corner Texaco service, reported that he had received a wrecker call about 2 a. m. and had gone to his station to get the tow truck and answer the call. He stated he was traveling east on Sixth street and had just crossed Horace avenue when there was a "terrific flash of lightning".

The wrecker continued on Sixth street across Atlantic avenue and crashed into the Soo Line depot. Underdahl stated that he could remember nothing from the time of the lightning flash until being helped from the cab of his damaged truck. He was taken to Northwestern Hospital for treatment of cuts and abrasions and was reported to be in a dazed condition. The accident was reported to police at 3:45 a. m.

An estimated $200 damage was done to the depot and the wrecker was damaged to the extent of $1,200. Police said there were no skid marks to indicate that the driver had attempted to stop the truck and no citations were issued.

At 4:55 p. m. on Friday, a pickup truck driven by Walter Skreland of Goodridge was traveling west on Third street and attempting a left turn on State avenue when it struck a car driven by Eileen Hinden of route 5 which was attempting to pass the Skreland vehicle. About $25 damage was done to the pickup and $75 to the Hinden car. No tags were issued as a result of the crash.

Role of Men in Girl Scout Work To Be Reviewed

Businessmen's Breakfast Wednesday To Feature Miss Margaret Keeley

Role of men in the Girl Scout movement will be discussed by Miss Margaret Keeley of the national Girl Scout organization at a businessmen's breakfast to be held Wednesday at 7:30 a. m. in the Rex Cafe. All persons interested in the scouting movement in Thief River Falls are encouraged to attend.

As a result of action taken by a majority of councils in the six-council area proposed for merger in 1963, the consolidation of the Girl Scout movement in western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota will be accomplished. At a meeting held early this month in Kennedy, the Northwestern Minnesota Girl Scout council voted 27 to 21 against the merger.

In a poll held in Thief River Falls recently, 195 ballots were returned by parents of girls in the scouting program. Of the total vote, 162 ballots were opposed to the merger, 31 favored consolidation of councils and only two parents said they were not informed. The local organization has about 350 girls in 32 scout troops.

Meeting last Monday at a meeting which was sparsely attended, local scout leaders reviewed the situation existing. Current officers resigned effective July 1 of this year and a nominating committee for new officers was appointed by Mrs. R. J. Drylen, current president of the local organization. Named to the committee were Mrs. Gunder Legvold, Mrs. Melville Simon and Mrs. Sig Quam.

It is expected that new officers will be elected to assume operation of the local unit before present officers terms expire on July 1. The new district, including six present Girl Scout councils, has a proposed annual budget of $42,000 with an estimated $30,000 for salary of professional workers and mileage.

June 1 Deadline for Girl Scout Camp Registration

Mrs. Stanley Ranum Is Camping Chairman for Northwestern Council

June 1 has been set as the registration deadline for Girl Scout troops who will be participating in the established camp to be held for two one-week sessions at Camp Wabaunaquat on White Earth Lake this summer, according to Mrs. Stanley Ranum, camping chairman. Camp sessions will be August 5 to 11 and 12 to 18.

A fee of $18 per session will be charged to each Girl Scout from the Northwestern Minnesota Girl Scout council attending the camp and $20 per session for girls from outside the council area. Registration free is $5 with the balance to be paid by July 15. Insurance for each participant is included in the camping fee.

Camp sessions are for girls who will be 10 years of age by January of 1963 through eighth grade, Mrs. Ranum said. Camp is organized in troop-sized groups and are arranged on the site in such a way as to afford privacy for each unit. Camping objectives are to stimulate enjoyment and appreciation of the out-of-doors, training in citizenship and to contribute to the physical, mental and spiritual well-being of each camper.

Miss Virginia Maxwell of Hibbing will be camp director with Quentin Jones, Thief River Falls, waterfront director; Kathleen Hanson, Pine Island, canoe and boating counselor; Ruth Carlstrom, Fosston, program specialist; Evelyn Fischer and Edna Sorgaard, Lengby, cooks; and Miss Yvonne Wells, Thief River Falls, camp nurse.

Other members of the camp staff will include a business manager, food supervisor, handyman and unit leaders and an assistant for each unit. Anyone interested in being on the camp staff is asked to contact Mrs. Ranum, camping chairman.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. CLARENCE GROSS

This week's recipe is a French cookie recipe which Mrs. Gross has translated into the English measurements and is called "Petites Gaufres Seches" or "Little Waffle Cookies." She says they are especially good the day after baking.

"PETITES GAUFRES SECHES" OR LITTLE WAFFLE COOKIES

1 cup soft butter or margarine	3 cups flour
1 cup powdered sugar	½ tsp. salt
3 eggs	1 tsp. of any kind of flavoring

Mix butter, powdered sugar and eggs, beat till creamy, add flavoring, flour and salt. Mix. Dough will be very soft. Turn out on lightly floured board into two long rolls. Cut in small pieces and roll into balls the size of a walnut. Bake in waffle iron till brown or about 5 to 7 minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gross and their family live at 336 Merriam Avenue North and he is employed as a bodyman for Northern Chevrolet. They have six children whose names and ages are as follows: Mary Jo, 13; Dominic, 12; Perry, 11; Jacqueline, 5; Annette, 4 and Daniel, 1½.

The Library Corner

The Norwegian displays assembled for the 17th of May will be kept for two weeks. Those wishing to view them are invited to vist the Library during this time. Many Norwegian books on history, travel art and novels have been grouped for the adult reader and a similar group arranged for children. These may circulate.

New books are daily arrivals at the Library. A partial list is given below:

"Hornstein's Boy," by Robert Traver: This is the first novel since "Anatomy of a Murder" by Mr. Traver. It is a story of dog-eat-dog-primary, in which the heroes tangle with a grotesque columnist whose newspaper is out to break them, and of the race against Martingale, in which they learn just how strong a good party machine can be.

"Beyond Your Doorstep", by Hal Borland: He calls this book "a handbook to the country for anyone who walks the woods and fields and wants to learn about the living things he has often looked at but never seen."

"The Northern Palmyra Affair", by Harrison Salisbury: Two main threads runs thru the fabric of this tale of intrigue, terror, love and lust in the later years of Stalin's rule.

"The Owl's Roost," by Helga Sandburg: The third novel by the daughter of Carl Sandburg labels her parmanently as a writer of genius for recording the sights and sounds, and colors of nature. The scene is a summer resort across Lake Michigan from Chicago.

"Who Destroyed the Hindenburg?," by A. Hoehling: The author has done an exhaustive chore of reporting on an international mystery and has done the job superbly, carrying the reader along a highway to a revealing destination.

"Let My People Go," by Albert Luthyli: a timely book on South Africa. One realizes that the writer was awarded the Nobel peace prize not for reasons of petty spite against the South African white regime, but in recognition of his personal courage and integrity in standing for human decency and rights of all men.

Others:
"Ship of Fools," by Porter
"A Bridge for Passing," Buck
"Scruffy," Gallico
"Why Not Victory?," Goldwater
"Six Crises," Nixon
"Start with $100," Brown
"The Man from Missouri," Steinberg
"West with the Sun," Cloete
"First Battle of the Marne," Asprey

Cadillac

How to pay for a Cadillac—and not get one!

There are several ways that a man can pay the price of a new Cadillac car—and find himself in possession of an automobile of far less stature.

Because there are many motorists currently considering the purchase of their next car, we would like to enumerate these ways of going astray.

1. Assume that the purchase price of a new Cadillac car is higher than it actually is. (There are eleven models of other makes that this year cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac model.)

2. Fail to appreciate that the basic price of a new Cadillac includes many important things that are extra on other cars. (Including automatic transmission, power steering and power braking.)

3. Neglect to find out from a Cadillac dealer what your present car is worth in trade. (He is especially anxious this spring to welcome new owners.)

And if you take one of these detours, think of all the unique pleasures you could be missing.

There is Cadillac's styling—so majestic that it attracts attention wherever it goes.

There is Cadillac's comfort—so wonderful that every journey becomes a brief vacation.

And there is Cadillac's performance—so great that it is without rival on the world's highways.

So we suggest that you play it safe—and get all the facts from your dealer soon.

You might be closer to a Cadillac than you think.

Aquatennial Queen and Governor Appear June 12

Minneapolis Aquatennial Queen of the Lakes Pamela Jo Albinson and Commodore and Mrs. Robert V. Gisselbeck will leave Minneapolis June 11 to take part in two civic celebrations on the West Coast. They will participate in "Minnesota Day" festivities at the Seattle World's Fair, June 12, and in the Portland, Ore., Rose Festival June 14.

Also appearing on the special day set aside in Minnesota's honor at the World's Fair will be Governor Elmer L. Andersen, King Boreas XXVI Bud Chandler, Queen of the Snows Penny Hicks, Prime Minister Gareth Hiebert and Walter Norris, president of the St. Paul Winter Carnival Association.

Performing groups representing a number of Minnesota communities will also be making the Seattle trip. They include: The Minnehaha Academy Band, Minneapolis; high school bands from Proctor and Fairmont; Owatonna High School Choir; the choir from the University of Minnesota branch school at Morris; and the "Over 60" Concert Band from Gaylord.

All the performing groups will entertain World's Fair visitors in the Century 21 stadium at Seattle June 21. The Minnehaha Academy and the Fairmont High School Bands will appear at both the World's Fair and the Portland Rose Festival.

Elementary Music Students To Give Concert Tuesday

Approximately 90 students from grades 5 and 6 of Thief River Falls elementary schools will present the annual grade school music concert on Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The students and concert are under the direction of James Solsten.

This is the only public presentation of the elementary musicians during the year since further performances detract from the study of music fundamentals which are of prime importance during early years of study, Solsten noted. Students from the schools will combine to form a band and orchestra, each of which will play a part of the program.

Also included will be a violin solo by Christine Kjensrud and cello duet by Daniel Olson and Harold Holum. It is hoped a large audience will attend to encourage the young musicians, the director said.

Open House Set by Highway Ofc.

Facilities of the Minnesota Highway department in St. Paul and the out-state offices will be open to the public on scheduled days between May 20 and 26 in observance of National Highway week. The Thief River Falls office will hold open house Thursday, May 24.

Open House at the central offices in the capitol approach area in St. Paul will be held Monday, May 21, and will include tours of the building in order to give interested citizens a chance to see and understand the work being done by their highway department.

Spindler Opens Pro Shop at Thief River Country Club

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

If golfers use it and it's manufactured, it can be purchased at the Thief River Falls Country Club Pro Shop opened this week by Keith Spindler, golf pro at the country club this season. Basement rooms in the clubhouse have been remodeled to provide facilities for the shop which caters to the needs of all golfers from beginner to expert.

"We will be open all day every day and stress service to customers," Spindler said of the new enterprise, the only one of its kind in the area. June 1 has been set as the starting date for the rigorous hours which will be from 8 a. m. until the last golfer leaves the links in the evening. Ron Kvikstad and Evan Anderson will assist in shop operation.

With an investment of about $2,000 in stock for golfing needs, Spindler is anxious to have his pro shop meet the approval of the public. Included in his plans is a driving range to be located to the right of the No. 1 tee. Ardent enthusiasts in the game of "cow pasture pool", who want to take the hooks and slices out of their drives, can buy a bag of about 40 golf balls for 50 cents, hit them as far as they are able and forget about them. Keith's crew does the rest.

As pro at the country club, Spindler will give lessons and handle all tournaments to be held during the summer. The kick-off tournament will be Sunday, May 27, with tee-off time at 9:30 a. m. All entry fees will be returned in prizes with a 27-hole medal championship flight and nine-hole match play in other flights. Lessons are scheduled by appointment at $3 per lesson or $15 for a series of six lessons.

Bemidji Native

A native of Bemidji, Spindler has two loves—playing golf and winning tournaments. He attended LaMar Tech in Beaumont, Tex., on a full golf scholarship. In 1956, 1957 and 1958, while Spindler was a member of the team, LaMar Tech won the national small college golf title in the NAIA for three years in succession. The team played in all south and southwest states.

In the past three years he has played in numerous Minnesota tournaments and estimates that he has won about six tournaments a year on the average for the past 10 years. Biggest tournament he won was the Jasper Open in Texas in 1957 at the age of 23.

Tough competition is not foreign to Spindler who played against such name golfers as Bobby Nichols, Bert Weaver, Jackie Cupid, Butch Baird and Eddie Langert. In pro-amateur tournaments he has met on the links with Dow Finsterwald and Tommy Bolt.

This year operation of the pro shop will likely put a crimp on his tournament action, but he still plans to enter as many events as he can. In the meantime, he will keep himself busy catering to the needs of golfers in the local sports area's latest facility.

Northern Chevrolet vs. Times
Ekeren Pharmacy vs. Ben Franklin
Coast-to-Coast vs. Bjorkman's

The high winds that prevailed on Thursday, with gusts that were registered at more than seventy miles per hours, forced the postponement of the league matches in the Trap Shoot league competition. The matches have been re-scheduled for this Thursday.

The feature match on Thursday's slate should be the contest between the Ekeren Pharmacy and the Ben Franklin squads. The Pharmacy squad won their opening match, while the defending league champion Ben Franklins dropped a one-bird decision to the Bjorkman's. Another loss for Gene Gaer's squad would dim the Franklins' hopes of making a successful defense of their title.

Teal and Prichard drew a bye, defeated Fargo Shanley and Grand Forks Central before losing to Fargo. Point toals included Fargo 23, Thief River Falls 10, Moorhead 7, Crookston 4, Grand Forks 3 and Bemidji 2.

R. Tollefson & Son Given Jury Awards

Jurors Dismissed after Giving Verdict Thursday

The petit jury in Pennington county district court was discharged by Judge Arnold C. Forbes of Bemidji last Thursday after returning a verdict for the plaintiffs in the case of Theodore T. Tollefson and his father, Ronald Tollefson, against the Garden Valley Telephone company and Gregory Poullot, the action involving a personal injury sustained by the son on his father's farm in the fall of 1960.

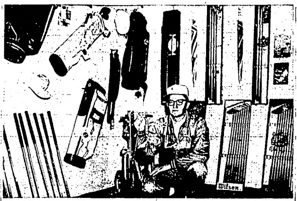
After deliberating five hours, the jury awarded a $2,750 judgment to Theodore against the defendants, and ordered $1,609.30 paid to Ronald Tollefson for medical expenses and loss of his son's services.

Judge Forbes will return to Thief River Falls next Thursday to dispose of several court cases.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium Tuesday, May 22, at 10 a. m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security or who wish to file claims may contact him on that date.

Economic strength is an important part of national security. Underwrite your country's might by buying U. S. Savings Bonds regularly. Your bank sells them.



PRO SHOP stock carried by Keith Spindler in a remodeled basement room of the clubhouse at Thief River Falls Country Club is pictured above. Spindler will serve as the golf pro at the club this summer, giving lessons and handling tournaments in addition to operating the completely-stocked shop. Assistants will be Ron Kvikstad and Evan Anderson. Included in the supplies carried to meet the needs of golfers from beginners to experts are everything from tees, balls and socks to carts, bags, sets of clubs and jackets.

ARRANGING merchandise in the newly-created pro shop at Thief River Falls Country Club is Keith Spindler, golf pro at the club who has invested about $2,000 in the stock on hand. A member of the local Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees, Spindler has taken an active interest in community activities. During the school year he is an English teacher at Lincoln high school in this city.

have had their last three games weathered out, are also hopeful of returning to competition. The Prowlers are slated to meet the Climax Vikings at Climax in a 4:30 p. m. game today, Monday. And on Wednesday night, with game time at 8:00 p. m., the Prowlers will meet the Vikings on the Fair Grounds diamond here in a return tilt. Climax, with lanky Dunne Palm pitching, has posted an impressive record to date.

The District 31 baseball tournament will begin on the week of May 25, with Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park being the site of the tournament games.

A Hazardous Profession

That a career in professional baseball is hazardous and insecure can be judged by this item, pertaining to Kenny Hunt, the former Grand Forks American Legion star, and which was culled from the "Sporting News," the baseball weekly: "Outfielder Ken Hunt of the Los Angeles Angels of the American league was sidelined for an estimated six weeks when he dislocated his right shoulder while batting against the Baltimore Orioles in Los Angeles, May 1. Hunt, who was recuperating from torn muscles in his right shoulder, went to the plate as a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning and fouled off the first pitch. As he put the bat behind his head holding it with both hands to stretch his muscles—his right shoulder slipped out of its socket. He was taken to Daniel Freeman Hospital, where, under an anesthetic, his shoulder was snapped into place. Hunt was placed on the disabled list by the Angels' general manager Fred Haney."

Considering the fact that Hunt had injured the shoulder before this latest mishap, it is problematical when the husky outfielder will return to action. Back in the early 1950's, when Hunt was playing with the Grand Forks Legion club, it was evident that he was a professional prospect. He had a big day against the Thief River Falls Legion team, poling out four or five hits in one game as the North Dakota team scored a lopsided win over the locals.

A Note from Sandy

Had a very welcome note from Sandy Wilson, who is attending the University of Texas. Sandy is the captain and coach of the Bjorkman's Clothing trapshooting team, and he was very pleased to hear that the youngsters had scored a 117 to 116 win over Gene Gaer's league-champion Ben Franklin squad in a match last week.

Sandy adds that the news of the "upset" has spread all over Texas, and it has been greeted with enthusiasm. It is vying with the Billie Sol Estes case for the headlines!

Returns to Radio

Doug Tegtmeier, who recently resigned his position as sportscaster for Grand Forks KNOX-TV, is returning to radio announcing.

Doug will join the staff of WDAY radio at Fargo this week, and his duties will be mainly as the sports voice for the radio branch of WDAY. The plans are for WDAY to increase its radio play-by-play of sports events in the area, and Doug will be giving these events his usual objective and detailed descriptions.

Inclement weather (if that is the term to use for this unseasonable weather) forced the postponement of the District 31 track and field tournament schedule for the Memorial stadium in Grand Forks on Saturday. The meet has been rebilled for this afternoon, Monday, with a starting time at 4:00 p. m.

Coach Rod Max's Prowlers are favored to win the team title, but the Crookston Pirates and the East Grand Forks Little Green Wave, and perhaps the Warren Ponies, are expected to be in contention.

And while the Prowler trackmen are hopeful of getting into action in the district tourney, coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers, who

High Winds Cause Minor Damage To Property Thursday

Consecutive Days of Rain Extended to 14 With Trace Yesterday

High winds which reached a peak of 72 miles per hour Thursday caused a considerable amount of minor damage throughout the area. More extensive damage was noted at other points throughout northwestern Minnesota, including the loss of a roof to a large furniture warehouse at Hallock and destruction of grain storage bins at March elevator between Warren and Alvarado on highway-1.

Damage locally was primarily confined to trees, signs and television antennae. It was reported that several hangar doors were damaged at the municipal airport several windows were broken in old Washington school and a large tree was broken off in the vicinity of Tenth street and Main avenue. Many television antennae were bent and lead-in wires were snapped in the wind.

The only personal injury reported due to the wind was noted by John McGinley who noted that his young son was "put in orbit" when he opend an outside door. Wind whipped the door open, throwing the youngster off the porch and inflicting a cut under the chin which required five stitches to close.

With a trace of precipitation recorded Sunday, the number of consecutive days on which rain has been received in traceable or greater amounts was extended to 14 days. Total rainfall in May has been 3.47 inches—compared to 2.25 inches in April, May and June of of 1961. Growing concern is being expressed by farmers who have been unable to get into their fields for needed spring work.

Forecasts today call for highs in the mid 60's with lows tonight of 48 to 58 degrees. Scattered showers are again predicted for today and tonight. High and low temperatures respectively on the past several days included 74 and 45 on Thursday, 66 and 44 on Friday, 61 and 49 on Saturday, 63 and 45 on Sunday and a low of 45 degrees last night.

Americans now own over $41 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds. That's 15 per cent of the public debt, and an important influence for economic stability. Join the thrifty bond-owners who are helping to keep America strong and building a brighter future for themselves.

Crookston Wins Dist. 31 Golf Tournament

The District 31 high school golf tournament was played over Crookston's Minakwa course on Thursday afternoon, and the Crookston Central Pirates, with a three-man total of 266 strokes, edged out coach Bob Gaarder's Prowlers, who carded a 268-stroke total, for the district title.

For the winning Pirate squad, Chuck Hiller had an 84, Keith Sanders a 90, and Jeff Hiller a 92. For the runner-up Prowlers, Ron Kvikstad had an 85, Larry Helgeland a 91, and Rick Thompson, 92. Church Hiller's 84, scored on a 44-40, earned medalist honors. Kvikstad's 85, with rounds of 41-44, was runner-up.

Four teams participated in the tourney, which was played as Thursday's gale-like winds swept the course. In addition to Crookston and Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and Warren had golfers participating in the tourney.

The winning Crookston squad, and the Prowler squad of Kvikstad, Helgeland, and Thompson, and Mike Spear of Red Lake Falls, gained berths in the Region Eight tourney slated for the Crookston course on Friday.

In an invitational meet held at Grand Forks on Friday, and with thirteen teams participating, the Prowlers, with a four-man team total of 328 strokes, tied for fourth place. Grand Forks Central carded a 303 to win first place. Fargo Central had a 317-stroke total for second place, and Valley City posted a 323 for third place. The Bemidji Lumberjacks had a 328 to tie the Prowlers for fourth place. Dick McConn of Valley City won medalist honors with a 33-39, for 72. Grand Forks' Ken Mellem 36-37, for a 73 and second place.

The Prowler scoring was as follows: Ron Kvikstad, 37-38—75; Evan Anderson, 41-41—82; Rick Thompson, 42-43—85; and Larry Helgeland, 42-44—86.

Doctors Warn of Food Poisoning in Summer

Don't let a case of food poisoning spoil your summertime eating enjoyment, was the warning issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association this week.

Food poisoning may occur at any time, says the Association, but the incidence is greatest in warm weather when refrigeration and food protection methods are inadequate. Whether the food is part of a family meal, a picnic or barbecue, or a hot dog and root beer at the nearby drive-in, caution must be the byword.

A number of foods are more vulnerable to food poisoning and should be avoided unless it can be positively proven that they are safe. Leading food poisoning troublemakers include: chicken, beef and ham salads; sea food salads; egg salad; potato salad; custard pastries, pies and puddings; creamed foods; and meats which have not been fully cooked.

Use common sense to avoid the possible danger of food poisoning. When traveling, select only reputable eating establishments. When preparing foods for the family dinner table or outdoor snack, make certain that all canned foods have been cooked for at least ten minutes before serving. Serve only pasturized milk.

Most community water supplies may be considered safe. However, bottled water supplies are recommended when private camp or picnic water sources are in question.

Avoid packing that picnic basket long hours before the food is to be eaten. It may be economical to save the noon meal left-overs for the evening meal, but it may not be wise. The foods usually found in the family picnic basket can also be a picnic for bacteria troublemakers. Keep unrefrigerated foods covered until they are to be served. Invest in a portable ice box if picnic lunches are your favorite sport.

Certain regional foods may appeal to the vacationer. Approach these food with caution unless you are certain that you will not suffer from an upset stomach, hives, or other allergic reactions.

Visitors will be shown through the new building by members of the college science club and the science faculty. The faculty social committee with James J. Castagna, chairman, is sponsoring the open house.

Judge C. Magney, Booster of State Parks, Succumbs

Judge Clarence R. Magney, retired Minnesota supreme court justice and a leading figure in conservation efforts for over 40 years, died of leukemia at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester on Monday, Mary 14.

Magney, who was 80 years old, had been on a world tour and returned home on the advice of a doctor in Johannesburg, South Africa.

He was chairman of the Minnesota council of state parks, a citizens group organized in 1954 to promote expansion and development of the state park system. However, his interest in Minnesota parks dates back many years.

Director of state parks U. W. Hella said that it was through Judge Magney's foresight that most of the park sites on the Lake Superior North Shore were acquired.

Magney was a long-time resident of the North Shore and had a summer home at the mouth of the Caribou river where it enters the lake.

Hella said the Minnesota Council of State Parks was planning to ask authority to rename the Bois Brule state park, north of Grand Marais, after the judge since he had once indicated a special affection for this area.

Grand Canyon Tops U.S. Attractions

Survey Shows It Leads Among 7 Tourist Spots

What are the seven "tourist wonders" of the U. S. A.? What is the favorite travel destination of Americans in the United States? Abroad?

These questions are answered in a booklet called "Profile of the American Tourist," published by the American Automobile association and just off the press. The book covers American travel habits from stem to stern and has up-to-date facts and figures concerning travel around the globe.

For example, in a poll of U. S. travel writers and travel page editors, the question was asked: "What do you consider the seven "tourist wonders" of the U. S. A.?" Heading the list of responses was Grand Canyon. Then came, in succession, New York City, Washington D. C., San Francisco, Yellowstone, Los Angeles and Niagara Falls. A few others mentioned included: the nation's highway system (which is something most foreign visitors want to see first), the Black Hills, New Orleans, Yosemite, Williamsburg and one reply said "the New York subway during rush hours."

Although the Seattle World's Fair is expected to draw 10 million vacationing Americans this year, Canada will continue to attract the most U. S. citizens venturing outside the U. S. borders. Last year, Americans spent more than $412 million touring Canada.

"Profile of the American Tourist" points out that 87 per cent of all trips over 100 miles in the U. S. are made by automobile. The most important trend in travel in recent years has been the camping boom and visits to national and state parks. There were 79 million visits to national parks last year. Great Smoky Mountains National Park was the most-visited with 4.8 million visits recorded.

Alaska Journey Ends After 1,200-mile Trek

CHAPTER TWELVE
CONCLUSION

March 24, 1960

We arose early with high hopes of finishing our trail trip to Fairbanks before dark. Leaving Nenana at 6:30 o'clock, we ran on the Tanana River ice, where the well packed snow afforded very good going for the first 10 miles.

From that point on, however, the snow on the river kept getting deeper and looser. We encountered a two-hour delay when we chose the wrong river channel and had to go back and try again. Twice on this detour we pushed into overflow ice with its menacing water.

Further along we came to open water and shaky ice, but we pulled over to safety on a sand bar and moved on from there.

Rudy Billberg went on ahead and discovered a big area of open water and an open hole that could well have swallowed up one of our sleds. To avoid the water, we retraced our route for a ways and went to the far side of an island, where the going was better in spite of the deeper snow.

As we moved closer to Fairbanks, however, the snow became deeper. The day was getting warmer, a factor which made the snow too sticky for fast travel.

Once more, near noon, we encountered threatening overflow and decided it would be safer to leave the river. About 15 miles outside Fairbanks we climbed up off the river and followed an old logging road and the Homestead Road.

We returned to the river where it joins Chena slough. We followed the Chena for about three miles before pulling out once more due to darkness and the increasing danger of getting onto thin ice.

At the river bank we were met by some Fairbanks friends who warned that the river ice was exceedingly treacherous from this point on.

Again we left the river and moved ahead until we reached a residential section in the outskirts of Fairbanks. We parked our vehicles at one of the homes and made our way to downtown Fribanks, where we were given an official welcome at the new Chamber of Commerce building.

Our overland journey from Bethel had covered a distance of 1,200 miles.

We had finished the trip in 21 days, 19 of which actually were spent on the trail. We had suffered no mechanical breakdowns and no serious mishaps and yet we had come through some incredibly rough country in light vehicles that offer a relatively new type of transportation for the northern latitudes.

Bond Sales Drive Now in Progress

Citizens Requested to Buy More Savings Bonds

The May and June Freedom Bond Drive is now well under way, Minnesota citizens have been answering their country's call to help preserve freedom by buying extra Savings Bonds.

To help increase Savings Bond sales during this important drive, Minnesota's Liberty Bell has been touring the state and a Freedom 7 Mercury spacecraft will be in the state May 30 through June 3. It will appear at Brainerd and Detroit Lakes, June 3.

Purchases of Series E and H bonds by Minnesota residents in April amounted to $5,080,702, according to J. M. Roche, county savings bonds chairman. Total sales in Minnesota to date are $22,341,691. This amounts to 28.3 per cent of the state quota.

"Pennington county's sales were only $4,800 for the month and brings sales for the first four months of 1962 to $35, 343," Roche said. "This is 13.3 per cent of the 1962 quota for the county."

Chairman Roche asked the cooperation of every family in the county to help make the Freedom Bond drive a success.

If each family could buy one extra $18.75 bond during the drive, the county and state will meet its quota, he said.

"Democracy extends the sphere of individual freedom; socialism restricts it. Democracy attaches all possible value to each man; socialism makes each man a mere agent, a mere number. Democracy and socialism have nothing in common but one word: Equality. But notice the difference: While democracy seeks equality in liberty, socialism seeks equality in restrait and servitude."

The Marines Have Landed

The situation in southeast Asia seems to have eased during the past week. Laos is still in a state of confusion but it is internal confusion which the natives may be able to solve for themselves. The landing of American Marines in neighboring Thailand appears to be restoring confidence and stability in that country.

Thailand is pro-Western politically and the country is under the shadow of fear of a Chinese invasion. The landing of the American forces was requested and other SEATO nations have volunteered to send in token forces if needed. This landing of American forces follows the pattern established by President Eisenhower in 1958 when he ordered the Marines to occupy Lebanon.

Just what such actions can lead to is always uncertain. They are dangerous, but they probably are justified as long as they have the backing of our allies. Brush fires that are not checked are dangerous too.

Bell Tower Must Go?

Cy Mattson, editor of the Warren Sheaf, regrets that it will be necessary to dismantle the bell tower on an elementary school in that city. Reminding his readers that the bell in this tower has beckoned children in Warren for 70 years, he is hopeful that a way may be found to strengthen the structurally unsound tower and preserve the ancient landmark at a reasonable cost.

There apparently is no movement under way in Warren to replace the old building with a new structure merely because of a minor defect that can be corrected. There are many school buildings in Minnesota that are more than 60 years old and that, with good maintenance, will provide many more years of useful service.

A Step Forward

Members of the city council are to be commended for their action in placing the operations of four departments under one head. The fact that we have had too many department heads, each one operating a little kingdom of his own, has long been recognized. Fortunately circumstances made possible the council's action in this instance with a minimum of friction.

In the management of our goverment activities at the local level we have been drifting for too many years. Local government eats up a big share of our tax dollars, and we should be more concerned than we are as to how these tax dollars are spent. It would be fortunate if the action by the council, in taking this first step, would encourage greater local interest, by individuals and civic organizations, in these important matters.

Hats Off

Hats off and a round of cheers for the Thief River Falls Twins, the team that distinguished iteslf in the four-game series — excuse us — we are talking about the Minnesota Twins, the team that distinguished itself in the four-game series with the New York Yanks that ended with a double-header Sunday night.

We think of the Twins as the Thief River Falls Twins, which is wrong. There are good people in St. Paul who think of them as the St. Paul Twins. And there are good people in Minneapolis who think of them as the Minneapolis Twins. It is a natural mistake.

So while we want to pay tribute to a great baseball team that is a credit to the state if Minnesota, we also want to compliment the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul for their achievement in getting together and promoting a baseball team that is a credit to all of the state at the top level of professional baseball.

Hats off and a round of cheers for the Minnesota Twins.

Drastic Action Justified

President Charles de Gaulle of France is turning the job of policing Algeria's two trouble spots over to the Moslems. Existing police forces in Algiers and Oran, consisting mostly of local Europeans, wil be purged on the grounds that they have been guilty of "passive complicity" with the terrorists.

The 6,000 additional auxiliary policemen will be recruited among the Algerian Moslems. There will be 15,000 Moslem troops in each of the large cities. This drastic action no doubt is justified. The Moslems have earned the confidence of the French government by the manner in which they have followed their cease-fire agreement under most provocative conditions. We are satisfied that the whites will be treated much more fairly by the Moslems than the Moslems were treated by the whites.

It is to be hoped that law and order will now be re-established and that a peaceful and friendly relationship between the new Algeria and France will be one of the good results.

Since 1842 Algeria has been governed by France and approximately one-tenth of its approximately ten million population is French. Peace in Algeria will be helpful in bringing about a better understanding between the Western powers and the Moslems.

Cattle Country

Roscoe Fleming, reporting in the Christian Science Monitor, tells us there are more than 100 million cattle in the United States, an all-time record high.

In 1942 there were slightly more milk cattle than beef cattle — 39,000,000 to 37,000,000. The trends crossed in 1943, and beef cattle have been gaining ever since. On Jan. 1, 1962, there were 69,695,000 beef cattle against 29,805,000 dairy cattle — or 70 percent to 30 per cent.

The big increase in beef numbers, says Fleming, contrasts with hog numbers that remain about the same or a few less; sheep numbers that have declined by more than one-third despite federal subsidiy, and horse-and-mule numbers that have dropped so low the Department of Agriculture has quit enumerating them.

Beef numbers have, however, only kept pace with the public's appetite — there are no huge stocks in storage, such as grains, eating up space and public dollars.

Fleming estimates the value of our 100 million cattle at $140 a head or a total of $14 billion. In 1961 Minnesota had 4,258,000, cattle, in seventh place nationally behind Texas, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Wisconson and Missouri. We are in "cattle country."

Sounds Good

Hoard's Dairyman is favorably impressed by a new proposal for production control of dairy porducts, suggested by A. L. McWilliams of the Chicago Pure Milk Association. He proposed that price support funds be used to buy base and retire base if the national program were adopted.

As Hoard's Dairyman explains it:

"The purpose of this suggestion, of course, was to permit dairy farmers to start out with a 100 per cent base rather than having to cut back on production on every farm. In addition, each farmer could buy base, if he so desired, from neighbors going out of business or cutting back on heir herds. But the government would stand to buy base on a bid basis to retire six to eight billion pounds of base from the national market.

"How much would it cost the government? This is highly speculative, of course, but it is interesting to note that if we use the price of base which recently prevailed in the Denver milk market, the government could buy up and retire eight billion pounds of base for about $110 million. Relate this figure, if you will, to President Kennedy's wish to reduce expenditures down to $300 milion in purchasing of dairy products to maintain the support price. Our total expenditure this year will approximate $627 million, of which $460 million will be spent by the Commondity Credit Corporation.

"Obviousy, Mr. McWilliams' proposal to buy base has a great deal of merit. Further, once the base is purchased, there is no recurrent annual cost such as now prevails in the price support program and which has been habitual under the Soil Bank or any land retirement program. Again, the discussion is largely academic, but is certainly obvious that the entire surplus problem could be licked and put behind us in a matter of months through the purchase and retirement of base."

According to economists for the National Cotton Council, taxes are costing the average American wage earner more than food.

"I used to be a professor—not only in Arkansas, but also in Washington, D.C. In Washington, D.C., I taught at the George Washington University Law School. Many of those who attended classes at the George Washington University Law School—which is not a bad law school—had two years of college education. But many of them were hardly literate, could barely understand what they were reading, and had difficulty writing a legible sentence. In short, there is a great difference of opinion as to whether a sixth-grade education makes one literate."

—Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D., Ark.), speaking in opposition to an Administration-supported bill that would make a sixth grade education proof of literacy for the purposes of voting eligibility:

Eye and Ear Tests for Pre-School Children

One of the finest volunteer efforts in Minnesota is that of the Pre-School Medical Survey of Vision and Hearing.

The background is simply this: Many children are born with hearing or seeing defects which if not treated early will become permanent and beyond recovery. The happy side is that with early detection and treatment cures can be achieved in many cases.

A committee of the Minnesota State Medical association is working with volunteer committees in a number of communities to get pre-school testing of eyesight and hearing.

So far Mahtomedi, New Ulm, St. Paul, Plainview, Sleepy Eye, Le Sueur, Moorhead, Stillwater, and North St. Paul-Maplewood are the only communities involved.

Such organizations as Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, PTA, Mrs. Jaycees, Hospital Auxiliary and the Junior League have been the local moving force.

From a beginning of only 125 children tested in 1959 the total for 1962 may exceed 5,000.

Early recognition of eye problems is vitally important as vision development ends at age 7!

Many a child thought to be a slow-learner simply can't hear all that is going on.

A child cannot know if his vision or hearing is sub-normal but "pre-school screening" will bring it out.

It is particularly important that treatment for such defects as crossed-eyes start early. Great benefits can be obtained if only there is an early start.

If you want detailed information on how to start a program in your community write Mrs. John R. Stoltze, Pre-School Medical Survey of Vision and Hearing, Route 5, Stillwater, Minnesota.

The Minnesota State Medical Association committeemen were among the first in the country to undertake this public health responsibility—to give volunteers the guidance and tools they need.

Our goal should be pre-school hearing and visual tests for every child in Minnesota.

ATTIC OR BASEMENT

Your attic or basement is full of unused items that are no longer of any use to you! But, to another family, they're just what they needed. For instance — While your children were small — they needed cribs, baby buggies, and small toys — a little later they required tricycles, wagons, etc. As they grew still older, they advanced to roller skates, bicycles, etc. Many of these items repose unused in your attic or basment. They are wanted and needed by growing families.

Young growing families are in constant need of new things — and because they are — they must buy as economical as possible. For many of them, buying used toys and equipment provides the answer.

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARV LUNDIN

EVERY SO NOW AND THEN IT'S TIME for a change of pace to a lighter vein and this seems like one of those times. What with the feudin' and fussin' and fightin' and all over schools and such things, here is a story which you might enjoy reading. It is attributed to the pen name of Petroleum V. Nasby and is titled "Lincoln's Jackass Story".

Wunce there was a king, who hired him a prophet to prophet him his weather. And one day the king notioned to go fishin' but the best fishin' place was nigh onto where his best gal lived. So he aimed to wear him his best clothes. So he called in his prophet and he says, "Prophet, is hit a comin' on to rain?" And the prophet says, "No, king, hit aint a comin' on to rain, not even a sizzle-sozzle.

So the king he put on his best clothes and he got his fishin' tackle, and he started down the road towards the fishin' place and he met a farmer ridin' a jackass. And the farmer says, "King, if ye aint aimin' to get yore clothes wetted, ye'd best turn back for hit's a comin' on to rain, a trash-mover and a gulley-washer."

But the king he drewed himself up and he says, "Farmer, I hired me a high-wage prophet to prophet me my weather and he 'lows how hit aint a comin' on to rain, not even a frog duster."

So the king he went a fishin' and hit come on to rain, a clod-buster and a chunk mover. And the king's clothes was wetted and they shrunked on him, and the king's best gal she seem him and laughed and the king was wroth and he went home and he throwed out his prophet and he says, "Farmer, I throwed out my other prophet and I aim to hire you to prophet me my weather from now on'ards."

And the farmer says, "King, I haint no prophet. All I done this evenin' was to look at my jackass' ears. For if hit's a comin' on to rain his ears lops down and the harder hit's a comin' on the lower they lays, and this evenin' they was a layin' and a loppin'." And the king says, "Go home, farmer, I'll hire me the jackass." And that's how it happened. And the Jackasses have been holdin' down all the high wage governmint jobs ever since!

A school boy came home and told his mother, "That old teacher asked us all a bunch of fool questions today about where everybody was born." "Well, you certainly knew the answer to that question—the Woman's Hospital," his mother said. "Betcha life I knew," was the instant reply. "But I didn't want all the kids to think I was a sissy so I told her Yankee Stadium."

Never mind the payroll," snapped the gunman at the paymaster's window. "Just hand over the welfare fund, group insurance premiums, pension fund and withholding taxes."

This column is being written on Thursday, May 17, and I'm going to make a guess on results of the Monday school bond election. In the first vote the total was 1,750 to 1,354 in opposition to the bond proposal. I predict a slightly smaller turnout this time with a larger percentage of voters opposing the plan—a guess of 1,600 against and 1,150 in favor of the issue. What's your guess before polls close tonight?

Today's poem is a free verse contribution by Roger Scilley, Lincoln high school senior, which won a merit award at competition held at Bemidji State college. It is titled:

SNOW

Snow is beautiful, luxurious
It can afford to be
It is death
Death in a form beautiful
Death in a form soft and lovely and lovely to behold
From inside
Lovely to look upon, from your refuge of warmth.

Luxurious, soft, cold and hard.
It will trap you, bend you to its will Slowly taking the life-giving warmth from you
Making you as itself cold.
Cold even as it is, colder than death.

Yes, snow is beautiful, even as death is.
Soft and luxurious, lovely to the eye, deadly to the living form.

Venture out into it and it surrounds you;
In a little time it will overwhelm you,
Forcing you to surrender, then taking from you
Your warmth, your life.
Stay inside, it becomes enticing.
Drawing you out,
Out where it can destroy you.
Fresh snowfall is like a blanket covering its sins.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson
Manager Chamber of Commerce

An economist once observed: "The American economy is the eighth wonder of the world; the ninth wonder is the economic ignorance of the American people."

The world is full of problems such as social and moral problems, farm problems, tax problems, unemployment problems, educational problems, labor problems, world trade problems and so on. To me these problems seem serious but I beleive they can all be solved if we solve a most serious problem first.

That problem, it seems to me, is that each of us need to reevaluate our goals and principles and decide exactly what we believe in, what we want, and decide just what is our reason for even being.

We live in an organized society that was meant to be a democratic republic. We are supposed to be living under a Christian set of principles and a few other points as set forth by our very constitution. Not until we each decide that we have the courage to be Americans and understand what that really means will we be able to do a proper job of solving our problems.

Locally we are a small area by comparison to our vast country. We are, however, significant and important. It is in the grassroots that the strength of America lies. You need not be an intellectual giant to understand that. So then it is important that we at least try to maintain a set of principles and try to conduct our affairs on that basis.

We have had several examples of community problems here in Thief River Falls over just the past year that have not been solved. I personally believe that the largest underlying factor causing these failures is one of people not having the proper perspective on what the world is, what the United States is, what Minnesota is, what Thief River Falls is, and even more, what John Q. Public is.

If we refuse to attempt comprehension of where we fit into this mechanism called America, then we are a corroding society. When I suspect that this is happening in the community that I'm supposed to be promoting, I get just a wee bit concerned.

I submit that the leadership of Thief River Falls has a challenge to do a better job of educating our public on economic understanding, the role of government, political participation, and the importance and responsibility of each individual.

I'm 24 years old so I should have 40 or 50 productive years ahead of me. I would like to believe that our society will be one of strength and growth rather than weak and corrosive. Life won't be worth much if there's no reason for being.

One good reason for being would be to dream great things for the community and another would be to actually do something for this community—Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Those who voted yes or no in the recent school bond election did so for many varied reasons but I would like to touch briefly on only one of the issues that affected the outcome of the election: namely, the subject of taxes. Those who voted against the bond have been called cheap and penny pinching and perhaps that is true. Certainly the increase in taxes necessary to finance the school bond would not be large. However, I think this increase in taxes must be taken into consideration along with the entire tax situation and then perhaps it will be easier to see why such a bond issue was defeated.

Of course, taxes are necessary. Actually they are a bargain when you consider all that we get in return such as schools, highways, police protection, playgrounds, mail service, etc. Yet, the fact remains that taxes are getting to be too great a burden for many people.

Let us take a brief look at the taxes that we pay in a year: Federal income taxes: The average citizen may work 1, 2, 3 or more months of the year to pay his federal income tax. This may be a small price to pay for the privilege of living in such a great nation but it can also be disheartening to pay taxes when you read in the papers as lately that $30,000.00 of the taxpayer's money was spent to install lights and safety devices at Vice President Lyndon Johnson's own private airfield.

State Income taxes: In comparison to other states Minnesota excels in many areas and for high standards we must expect to pay higher taxes. This is fine, but let us not forget that the income taxes in Minnesota are already one of the highest in the nation and that in 1962, this tax will be almost doubled from what it was in 1960.

Perhaps also in the near future Minnesota will have a sales tax. Local taxes: This includes real estate and personal property taxes. Here on the local level, we can see our taxes more closely at work, but it is not impossible for a person to spend 20 years paying on a house only to find that when he retires the taxes may be so high he can't afford his home and must sell it.

The foregoing taxes are combined with the taxes we so often overlook: car licenses, taxes on gas, telephone, luggage, cosmetics, entertainment, cigarettes, tires, oil, and the list goes on.

Certainly there is a most urgent need for improvement of the education system of T. R. F. Perhaps the solution for the present would be a bond issue for construction of a grade school only. But most certainly also, I hope the taxpayers will always be mindful of where their taxes are going and for what.

Respectfully yours,
Mrs. D. Clough.

Editor Times:

With all the current talk about "health care for the aged under the social security system", I feel compelled to give my views on why I believe that H. R. 4222 (The King-Anderson Bill which would provide certain health care benefits for those over 65 who are eligible for Social Security) would be a tragic mistake in Minnesota.

We citizens of Minnesota enjoy the finest health care—and one of the longest life expectancies—of any group of people anywhere. The fundamental reason for this is inherent in the system we enjoy—the absence of coercion by government.

The issue is not "health care" for the aged. Everyone agrees our elderly should receive all the health care they need. The issue is how health care for our aged can best be provided—whether the program should be voluntary or compulsory.

The big argument for the King Bill has been "most of our citizens over 65 are in need". In Minnesota, here are the facts:

1. According to the 1960 census, Minnesota has 354,351 persons who are 65 and over. This is 10.4 per cent of our total population.

2. Of this 10.4 per cent of our population, 13.7 per cent are indigent and on Old Age Assistance rolls (this is less than 1.3 per cent of our total populaton).

3. Interestingly enough, 34 per cent of our aged citizens are not receiving Social Security benefits. Most all of these would not be eligible for one single benefit under the King Bill.

In a study conducted at the University of Minnesota, one-half of the persons 65 and over who were interviewed had a net worth of over $10,000.

Only 16 per cent of those interviewed said their means were not enough to live on.

85 per cent said they had no unearned for needs and only 5 per cent said that their medical needs had not been met because of the expense involved. In fact, 95 per cent had spent less than $500 for medical care the preceding year and 25 per cent had spent less than $50.

I think these facts emphasize that there is no need for a compulsory federal health care program in Minnesota.

Sincerely yours,
George B. Martin, M.D.

The fellows that are hollering for more classroom should take a trip to Goodridge. We built six new classrooms and a work shop on the south side of the high school and altered the entrance so they enter the building on the ground floor so as to avoid accidents when it is slick, with an outside stairway, and had only a bond issue of $130,000. Why tax everyone out of the country just to put on the dog?

Yours truly,
Albert Wilkens

Editor Times:

With the results of Tuesday's election made public, one can just shake their head and wonder where our community is headed. I'm sure that even the winning candidates felt no personal gain. It obviously wouldn't have made much difference who had filed, as long as they were opposed to the bond issue, they would have won.

They say a doctor can do you no good if you don't have faith in him. I think the same applies to our school board and superintendent. There is no personal gain for any of them except to further our community and provide the best possible education for our children.

Where is our sense of values? Who are we following and why? Where will it get us? These are questions we should all ask ourselves.

Check into the integrity of your superintendent and school board and I'm sure you will feel as I do, that they are doing only what's right and practical for our community.

Mrs. James Nepper.

Direct Seeding in the Flower Garden

The most common method of planting annual flowers is to seed them directly into the garden. Because it will take considerable time before they bloom, it's a good idea to get the seed planted as early as is practicable.

Sweet peas are usually the first seeds to be planted out of doors in spring. The seeds may be planted as soon as the soil is workable. It isn't necessary to wait for the soil to warm up.

Often there is a place in the garden where the soil warms up early so it can be worked. Seeds can be sown in a small area about 5 by 5 feet. Cover the area with a black plastic until the seeds have germinated. Later they can be transplanted to their permanent location in the garden.

Another suggestion for direct seeding is to outline the planting areas for the various annuals with string. Then sow the seed thinly within the planting areas. If you wonder how you can tell flowers from weeds, planting two or three flower seeds together will help identify them as they come out of the soil. Growing samples of seeds in small pots is also helpful.

Flowers which are most commonly seeded directly into the garden are zinnia, bachelor button, marigold, stock, cleome, snapdragon and sweet alyssum.

Plant the CORN that made AN EXTRA LOAD from each bushel planted!

Thousands of corn growers, who have Weighed and Compared Funk's-G against the best of all comers for years, report Funk's G-Hybrids outperform all others by from 5 to 15 bushels an acre. Time after time. Field after field. Year after year.

Yield advantages like that can easily give you an extra wagonload of harvested corn, for each bushel of Funk's G-Hybrids you plant. A load of corn you would not have had, had you planted any other corn.

Which of these senior citizens needs help to pay for his Medical Care?

Citizen A is a well-to-do, retired executive. Citizen B is no longer employable . . . is not wealthy and is not protected by a private medical care plan. Both are over 65.

Obviously Citizen A should not receive federal medical aid. Citizen B, who needs this aid, should get it. Yet the King-Anderson Bill, now before Congress, would treat them as equally in need of help . . . would supply them both with medical care at your, the taxpayer's, expense.

We physicians believe that those in the over 65 age group who need financial help should get it, which is why we supported — and continue to support — the Kerr-Mills Law now on the books. We do not believe that 17,000,000 older Americans have identical needs or financial capabilities — any more than we believe that the needs of Citizens A and B are identical. That's why we urge you to oppose the King-Anderson Bill, and write your congressman and senators about it.

This measure is a compulsory national health plan for one segment of the population—the aged covered by Social Security. Its backers claim the bill is necessary because most of the aged are in poor health; most are verging on bankruptcy; and our present methods for helping those who need help are inadequate. But these are the facts:

Surveys show that relatively few of the aged are in poor health . . . that only 14 per cent experience any significant limitation of physical activity . . . that only 5 per cent have major limitations of activity . . . that most are in good health.

Surveys also show that those over 65 are in better financial circumstances than other age groups . . . that most, like the rest of us, are neither destitute nor rich, but somewhere in between. The King-Anderson Bill would create a compulsory government program covering millions financially able to take care of themselves. The cost of such a scheme would be staggering to the taxpayer. Its administration would require the creation of an enormous bureaucracy.

• Voluntary health insurance and prepayment plans now cover 132 million Americans — including more than 53 per cent of the aged — with coverage growing phenomenally year by year.

• The intensified efforts of individual citizens at the community level contribute increasingly to the solution of the overall problem.

• The new Kerr-Mills Law is being implemented rapidly. It provides for federal grants to the individual states, enabling them to provide health care to those who need help.

We believe that voluntary health insurance, private efforts, and the Kerr-Mills Law — together — assure the aged of first-class medical care.

Again, we urge you to write your congressman and senators. Ask them to vote against the proposed King-Anderson Bill and support the Kerr-Mills Law.

School Bond Issue Is Lost by Large Margin

Emphatic opposition to the issuance of $1,595,000 in bonds for new school construction was expressed by voters of School District 564 at the special election held Monday at Lincoln high school. Although the voting was about 550 votes lighter than the initial bond election on April 23, the margin of difference in "Yes" and "No" ballots was nearly doubled.

With a total of 2,792 ballots cast, there were 1,789 "No" votes and 1,003 "Yes" ballots counted, making a margin of 786 votes. In the previous special election on the same question, a record number of 3,104 ballots were cast with 1,750 against the issue and 1,354 in favor of the issue for a margin of 396 votes.

Serving as election judges were Robert Lund, Stuart McLeod, Wilbert Maves and Mrs. Richard Mabey. Polls were open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. with voting slow during the day, the judges reported. About 1,000 ballots were cast until 4 p. m. with a steady stream of voters noted from about 4:30 p. m. until the polls closed at 8 p. m.

The special election was on the question of whether School District 564 should issue $1,595,000 in bonds for the construction of a junior high school and elementary school as a combination unit on school-owned property on the east side of the city. The second election on the same question was ordered by the board of education upon petition for such an election signed by 306 district residents.

South Pacific Charity Ball Set Saturday

Proceeds To Assist Mentally Retarded In Pennington-Red Lake

Entertainment to the satisfaction of everyone attending is promised by the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees chapter for the Charity Ball to be held Saturday evening in the Elks club rooms. Tickets are currently on sale for $2 per couple with all proceeds going to the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Ralph Foster and Mrs. Maynard Troland are co-chairmen of the event which is being initiated with the hope that it will become an annual event. "South Pacific" is the theme of the ball with decorations, costuming for several variety acts and theme music following a Polynesian theme. Dancing will be to the music of Kelly's Combo.

At 10:15 p. m. a local talent variety show will be held with seven acts prepared to provide persons in attendance with rib-tickling humor. The type of acts are being kept secret but it is rummored that at least one hula number will be included in the pot-pourri of talent performances. Mrs. James Carlson and Mrs. Glenn Peterson are in charge of the program.

Decorations are in the process of being erected under the direction of Mrs. Larry Evenstad, decorations chairman. Much of the material for decorating is in the form of artifical plants and foliage made by members of the Mrs. Jaycees chapter. Jaycees are also assisting with putting up the decorations.

"Whether you dance or not, we urge you to purchase a ticket for the ball," Mrs. Foster said. "The mentally retarded in the area are in need of a day care recreation center. Your contribution to the association for the retarded, thru the purchase of a ticket, will assist deserving youngsters in becoming better adjusted and self-sufficient for the future."

Legion Auxiliary to Sell Poppies on Friday & Saturday

Flower Sale to Honor War Dead and Raise Funds for Aid of Needy Veterans

Street sale of memorial poppies by the American Legion auxiliary in Thief River Falls will be held Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday morning, according to Mrs. Roger Tunberg, poppy chairman for the local auxiliary unit. Members of the junior auxiliary will assist in conducting the sale.

"Remember the Dead by Helping the Living" is the theme of the Poppy Days campaign which has a two-fold purpose—to honor the men who gave their lives in the service of their country on the World's battlefields and to raise money to assist in the care of needy veterans and their families.

The American Legion auxiliary supplies veterans with free material needed for the making of poppies, purchases the poppies from the veterans and uses all profits from the sale on a local basis for rehabilitation and child welfare purposes. All poppies sold are made by bed and wheel chair patients in veterans hospitals or disabled veterans working in community centers as part of their occupational therapy.

"This year we have purchased 5,200 poppies for our street sale and 120 additional large poppies which will be used for display and decoration purposes," Mrs. Tunberg said. "There has never been a fixed price on poppies sold on the street sale. Donations of any amount are acceptable because the basic purpose of Poppy Day is to offer the American public an opportunity to honor the war dead and assist the living."

Distribution of the poppies is handled entirely by volunteer workers serving without pay.

Creamery equipment would be moved to the milk drying plant as soon as possible and the operation resumed there. The move would solve the crowded conditions of the creamery which now handles a volume of nearly 125,000 pounds of milk per day.

The riding course will be laid out on the school playground and youngsters will be required to complete it successfully.

As an added public service, the Jaycees will place reflectorized tape on the bicycles as a free safety measure. All young bicycle riders who did not attend last year's safety campaign are urged to attend. Both city and rural children are encouraged to take advantage of the safety check.

Social Security Benefits Increase 15% Over 1961

$78,073 Paid Monthly To Pennington County Recipients of Payment

Pennington county residents are paid $78,073 monthly in social security benefits, an increase of about 15 per cent above last year's figures, according to Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks office of the Social Security administration.

Kistler made the notation in stating that old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits "are becoming increasingly important as a community resource". While the benefits are intended primarily for the beneficiaries' economic security, they help business in the community generally, he said. Most of the money is spent immediately for food, clothing and other necessities.

The average old-age benefit nationally for December of 1961 was $75.65 for a retired worker. In Minnesota the average benefit was $74.11. Beneficiary groups, number of beneficiaries and total of payments in the Pennington county tabulation are as follows:

Retired worker, 864 beneficiaries, $54,737 payments; wife or husband, 244 and $8,159; widow or widower, 84 and $4,511; mothers and children, 175 and $7,755; and disabled workers and dependents, 59 and $2,798.

At the present time, social security benefits are being paid at a rate of over one billion dollars each month. "There are several reasons for the increase," Kistler said. "There are more aged people; benefits are now payable at age 62; and less social security credit is needed to meet the eligibility requirements for benefits."

New Law Allows for Additional Uses of Diverted Acreages

The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced program changes which permit farmers greater flexibility in using acreage diverted from wheat and feed grains under the 1962 programs. The changes are authorized by recently enacted Public Law 87-451 (approved May 15, 1962).

Flax, rapeseed and mustard seed have been added to the list of crops that may be grown on acres diverted from production of wheat and feed grains, following the required review of the current supply situation with respect to all of the crops eligible for consideration.

The new law amends the Agricultural Act of1961 by authorizing the secretary of agriculture to permit acreage diverted from wheat and feed grains to be utilized for annual non-supported field crops and flax when these crops are not in surplus supply and will not be in surplus supply if produced on the diverted acreage. No price support may be made available for production of any such designated crop on the diverted acreage.

The new law also empowers the secretary, if further justified by the supply situation of a permitted crop, to establish a partial payment for that crop up to one-half the rate which would otherwise be applicable if the acreage was devoted to conservation uses.

Accordingly, a determination has been made to provide partial payment for 1962 on diverted acres planted to sunflower and caster beans. These payments will be computed in the case of sunflowers by taking 20 per cent of the applicable commodity rate for minimum diversion for the farm.

The partial payment rates for castor beans will be computed by taking 30 per cent and 40 per cent respectively, of the minimum regular rate for the acreage involved.

Flax, rapeseed and mustard seed may be grown on diverted acres but no payment will be made. Flax produced on the diverted acres will not be eligible for price support, but any other flax on the farm may qualify for support.

The Department's revised regulations for administering the amended Agricultural Act of 1961 will include the following provisions:

Signup will not be reopened and previously stated intentions to divert may not now be increased.

Producers may redesignate diverted acreage only for the production of one or more of the permitted crops. This redesignated acreage may already be planted to the permitted crop. However, the producer will be required to pay the performance cost of any such redesignation.

Permitted crops disposed of as a green manure, or destroyed by natural causes by a deadline date —August 1, 1962 is the date set by the State committee, for final disposition date for flax and sunflower—may be considered as a conserving use provided other conservation measures are carried out if necessary, to protect the land throughout the 1962 crop season. The original program payment rate will be reestablished in such cases. If the permitted crop fails or is disposed of or not harvested after the disposal date, no upward adjustment will be made in the program rate.

If a producer elects to plant the entire diverted acreage to a permitted crop for which no payment will be made and an advance payment has been made, he will be required to refund the advance, but no interest would be charged.

Participation under the new provisions shall not serve to extend the compliance deadline date for wheat, barley, corn or grain sorghum.

Each producer who wishes to take advantage of these provisions should go to the ASCS county office and request a change in his intentions not later than June 29.

Seek Volunteers To Assist with History Museum

An appeal has been made by Joel Rosengren, president of the Pennington County Historical Society, for volunteers to assist in keeping the county historical museum open to the public during the afternoon for several days each week.

"We have many items on display in the museum which would be of interest to local residents and tourists," Rosengren said. "Directors of the society believe that the museum facilities in the basement of the Pennington county courthouse should be used to a greater extent to help increase the knowledge of our area and its heritage."

Persons who would be interested in contributing several hours of time during the course of a month to assist in supervising the museum are asked to call Rosengren, president; Millard Nelson, secretary; or Paul Roy, treasurer. If enough volunteers can be secured, a schedule of museum hours will be arranged.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times;

I have just been told that my pledge to the Old Folks Home is due. Do you think I should pay it when the very people that it will care for come out in droves to defeat an issue which deals directly with my school age children? I do not.

I know you are an ardent supporter of the aged just as I am of the young so I suggest tha. you pay the pledge and I will reimburse you when the school issue is settled in favor of the young and not the old.

John K. Moum

Editor Times;

The most significant domestic issue confronting the American people today is the adoption or rejection of a Federal government-controlled program of compulsory health care for the aged. Similar schemes were before Congress in 1948, 1950 and again in 1960, but each time they were blocked by an upsurge of public protest. The proponents of these proposals can lose and come back agin. The American people can lose but once.

The real issue is not health care for the aged—which everyone agrees the elderly should receive. The issue is how this health care can best be provided—whether the program should be voluntary or compulsory.

The King-Anderson Bill would establish a compulsory plan for everyone covered by social security—regardless of need. This means its benefits would be available indiscriminately to millions of the well-to-do and wealthy. The working people would be compelled to pay the bill through a substantial increase in payroll taxes. (34 per cent of Minnesota's aged are not receiving Social Security benefits. Many of these, although among the most needy, would not be eligible for one single benefit under the King Bill.)

One of the amazing features of the King Bill is that a wage-earner making $5,200 a year would pay as much toward the compulsory earning $100,000! Thousands of workers who don't earn enough to pay Federal income tax would still be forced to pay this increased payroll tax. In fact, the King Bill calls for a double increase on payroll taxes—a tax increase of one-fourth of one per cent for employees and employers alike, three-eighths of one per cent for the self-employed—Plus an increase in the tax base from $4,800 to $5,200.

In plain language, this means that in 1963, when the tax for King-Anderson would first be deducted from our paychecks, we would be paying 40 per cent more Social Security tax than we paid in 1961. By 1968—assuming there would be no further increases in Social Security tax—a worker earning $4,200 would pay 76 per cent more taxes than he paid in 1961.

In other words, this bill will tax the wage-earner to provide care for millions who can, and are, taking care of themselves.

Please, let's help those who need help—and let those who can help themselves do so.

Falls Building Improvement Is New TRF Business

Arnie Christensen to Operate New Firm at 315 Horace Avenue No.

Announcement was made today of the opening of Falls Building Improvement company by Arnie Christensen at 315 Horace av. N. in Thief River Falls. Christensen was formerly employed for two and one-half years by Forbes Building Improvement company of Detroit Lakes.

The new business will handle sale and installation of roofing, siding, fiberglass insulation, aluminum and steel self-storing combination windows and doors, three major lines of aluminum and vinyl awnings, a top line of canvas awnings and water conditioning equipment for residential and industrial use.

Christensen stated that Mrs. Jerry Noel has been hired as an office girl and two local men will be employed at present to handle installation, exterior remodeling and light construction. Additional local labor will be employed when business volume makes the addition of other personnel necessary.

"We are FHA approved and offer goods and services on the basis of no money down and up to five years to pay," Christensen said. "We also carry liability insurance and workmen's compensation to protect the property owner during the time we are working on his home or business."

Penalty on Excess Wheat $1.59 Bushel

Shows Increase from $1.08 Per Bushel in '61

The marketing quota penalty rate on 1962-crop "excess" wheat production has been set at $1.59 per bushel, Edward A. Johnson, chairman, Marshall County Stabilization and Conservation committee, has announced. This compares with a 1961-crop wheat penalty rate of $1.08 per bushel.

Under the 1962 wheat quota program, the marketing quota penalty on excess wheat is required by law to be set at 65 per cent of parity as of May 1 of the crop year. In previous years, the penalty rate was 45 per cent of parity. This rate—$1.59 per bushel for 1962—times a farm's wheat excess—expressed in bushels—determines the actual amount of penalty.

For 1962, the chairman explained, the law also directs that the amount of wheat subject to penalty shall be figured at twice the farm's normal yield on all the excess acres unless the 1962 actual yield is proved to be less and the producer files a request for an adjustment.

Mr. Johnson stressed the fact that some farms with 15 acres or less of wheat may be subject to quota penalties on their wheat production this year as a result of changes made in the law for 1962. Before this year, producers on farms harvesting less than 15 acres of wheat were not subject to penalties. Now, however, quotas apply to all farms on which the 1962 wheat acreage exceeds the smaller of (a) 13.5 acres or (b) the highest acreage in any of the 3 years 1959, 1960 or 1961.

Producers who have excess wheat acreage still have time to reduce their acreage in order to avoid a marketing quota penalty. The Marshall county deadline for adjusting wheat acreage in accordance with program regulations is June 30, 1962, or such later date if provided in the notice issued for the farm. When the penalty is satisfied, the remaining wheat may be marketed free of penalty. If the penalty is not satisfied, any wheat marketed has an automatic lien against it.

area who are unable to farm to the best of their ability due to a variety of restrictions. There are also farms where existing operators are carrying a heavy work load which they would like to reduce and which lend themselves to a partnership operation of some type.

As a first step, the committee will prepare and circulate questionnaires to farmers in the area as part of a "Farm Opportunities Survey". From these returns the committee will be able to determine to some extent what farms would be available and what arrangements would be desired.

Sorensen was instructed to prepare the survey form and arrange a mailing list of farmers to whom it would be sent. When survey forms are returned in sufficient number for a tabulation, the committee will meet again to review the results.

Thief River Falls is one of seven communities in Minnesota selected for the pilot study. Others in this area of the state are Strandquist, Oklee and Moorhead. The plan is being tried in communities of various size and with varying agricultural conditions. After a trial period, results will be evaluated to determine the success of the program.

Railway Trainmen Ask Substantial Pay Hike

The nation's railroads, stalemated in negotiations with operating unions in overhauling work rules, were faced Monday with what they termed an inflationary demand by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The 105,000-member brotherhood was asking a 25-cent hourly pay raise.

A spokesman for the brotherhood, largest of the five operating unions representing 210,000 employes in the United States, said its general chairmen were presenting the bargaining position to the 110 Class I railroads.

Also sought will be fully paid health and welfare plans providing life insurance for each employe with a year's earnings to survivors upon death, also hospital medical and surgical expenses for employes and dependents. The union did not specify how much this would add to its package. The plan would go into effect June 21, the union said.

"We view it as being entirely inflationary and contrary to public policy," said James A. Wolfe, a chief railroad management spokesman in Chicago. A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said in Washington that the demands were not unexpected.

Basic hourly wage scales for trainmen range from $2.85 to $3.12 according to the union.

Spokesmen for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, both with headquarters in Cleveland, agreed that they all felt an increase is needed, but they said they had no immediate plans to follow the lead of the trainmen on wage and welfare demands.

55 County Farmers To Plant 32,000 Trees This Year

Kloubec Urges Farmers To Prepare Ground For Next Year's Planting

Fifty-five Pennington county farmers will be planting trees this spring as soon as weather conditions permit, according to Robert Kloubec, work unit conservationist for the Pennington county soil conservation district. The 55 farmers will plant a total of 32,000 trees, most of them for farmstead windbreaks.

Fifteen of the farmers received their trees through the county extension office and the balance were supplied through the soil conservation district office, Kloubec said. Raymond S. Olson of Numedal township and Raymond Mosbeck of Sanders township planted their trees for field shelterbelt purposes.

Kloubec noted that 13 farmers will be using the district's tree planter, a piece of eqipment which takes the hard work out of tree planting. Most popular trees this year were Dropmore elm, honeysuckle and evergreens. The elm is a fast-growing, bush tree and the honeysuckle is termed as a shrub.

"Now is the time to start thinking about planting trees for next year," Kloubec noted. "Ground preparation is very important and tree ground should be fallowed during the summer to kill weeds and grasses. Eleven orders for trees to be planted in 1963 have already been taken by the district office. If you plan to plant trees next year, contact the soil conservation district office or the county extension service.

Level of Water in River Pool Reduced

Huge Quantities of Water Being Released at Dam

Water level in the pool above the dam on the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls is being reduced a foot through opening of gates at the dam by the power plant, according to Morris Owen, superintendent of the newly-created department of utilities for the city of Thief River Falls.

The water released is leaving the pool above the dam at a rate of 3,800 cubic feet per second, Owen said. This is equivalent to 28,500 gallons per second or 1,710,000 gallons per minute. And if a person wants to get into the astronomical figures, that means 102,600,000 gallons per hour or 2,462,400,000 gallons a day at the maximum discharge rate.

Three inches of rain received at Red Lake Tuesday night will result in additional water being released through the dam there. The U. S. Corps of Engineers which controls the lake outlet is required to release surplus water when the lake reaches the pre-determined level. This level has been reached and the engineers may release as much water as the Red Lake river channel will handle.

Norman-Polk Loop Tilts Rescheduled

Thieves to Play Halstad Here Sunday Afternoon

Last Sunday's games postponed.

Schedule, Sunday, May 27.
Halstad at Thief River Falls.
Ada at Twin Valley.
Fosston at Crookston.
Erskine at Fertile.

Wet ground and threatening weather forced the postponement of last Sunday's schedule-opening games in the Norman-Polk league. All games had been slated as afternoon games.

Another four-game set of afternoon games is billed for this Sunday in the Norman-Polk league, but drying weather is required to make the rain-soaked playing fields in condition for Sunday's slate of games.

The Halstad Red Sox, managed by Irv Warner, will invade the Fair Grounds diamond for a game against manager Joey Poole's Thieves.

Warden Finds Old License for 1902

Recently game warden Lloyd Lindvall of the conservation department unearthed an ancient book of licenses in the office of a county auditor. After reading one of them (they looked more like college diplomas) Lindvall took one and had it framed.

For the staggering sum of 25 cents, the license holder was entitled "to hunt, catch and kill deer, elk, caribou and moose in the state of Minnesota".

Other sections of the license provided that "pickerel, red horse and suckers may be speared or caught with hook and in any manner at any time".

Bag limits in the "good old days" were also fairly liberal, the license stating only that, "No one person shall take or kill to exceed 25 birds or more than 50 fish in any one day.

The year? 1902.

Prowlers Win Dist. 31 Track Title on Monday

Winning first place medals in seven of the fourteen events on the program, and tying for first in two other events, coach Rod Max's Prowler track squad won the District 31 title on Monday afternoon when they rolled up 72 points in the tournament held in the North Dakota U's Memorial stadium.

The Crookston Pirates gained runnerup honors with 58¼ points; East Grand Forks was third with 40 points; Warren fourth with 29 points; Plummer fifth with 5¼ points; and Red Lake Falls tallied 3 points.

Three records were set in spite of the heavy track and murkey weather that prevailed. Paul Klungness, who scored four firsts for the Prowlers, bettered his own 220-yard dash mark with a time of 22:9. Ray Gibbons of East Grand Forks set a new shot put mark with a heave of 50 feet 9 inches, bettering the old mark of 47 feet 11¼ inches set by East Side's Pat Holmes in 1956. And the Crookston mile relay team of Mark Stephens, Roger Moe, Chuck Hannah and Ron Carpenter, set a mark of 3:39.1 as they barely edged out the Prowler relay team in the best race on the program.

In addition to Paul Klungness' firsts in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump, Prowler firsts were won by Rolf Wangberg in the mile run, Brian Lofberg in the discus throw, and the Prowler 880-yard team. And sharing in first place honors were Steve Mittelstadt in the high jump event, and Arvid and Eli Lee in the pole vault.

The first and second place winners in the district tournament are eligible to participate in the Region Eight track and field meet that will be held in Bemidji on Saturday, May 26.

Count Being Made of State Grouse

Game Department Counts Number of Drummings

Conservation department field men are winding up their annual spring ruffed grouse census, it was announced today by area game manager Milt Stenlund, project coordinator.

Each spring the grouse counters take advantage of the sporty game bird's strange habit of standing atop a log and beating or drumming his wings to attract females.

Game managers, game wardens and refuge personnel drive over 48 selected census routes to determine the size of the breeding population. Results are considered when making recommendations for the fall hunting season.

The method used is to drive through certain known grouse areas during the early morning, make the first stop five minutes after sunrise and schedule stops every so many miles thereafter. The number of grouse drummings heard during each four minute stop is noted. Census routes are run more than once during the breeding season and results compared with previous years.

Instructions from department headquarters to field men state that drumming counts should be concluded before the aspen leaves are one inch long. Apparently, for some reason, at about the time the aspen leaves get bigger, grouse drumming activity dies down.

Grouse counters are also ordered to wait until the temperature is at least 35 degrees before going out on the routes. If it is any lower, Mr. Grouse just loses interest in drumming.

PUSHED by Bob Peterson of Warren (right) at this stage of the 180-yard low hurdle, Paul Klungness of the Prowlers flashed to a first place finish in the event at the District 31 track meet Monday. The junior speedster, who has been scorching the cinders during the entire season and now holds a number of records at various meets, tallied first places in the hurdles, broad jump, 100 and 220 yard dashes to net 20 points. Coach Rod Max' thinclads swept the meet and placed 10 men in Region 8 competition this week. Peterson finished second in the low hurdles but won the 120-yard high hurdle event.

A Busy Afternoon

The district's track athletes had themselves a busy couple of hours on Monday afternoon when, from 4:00 P. M. to 6:30 P. M., the fourteen events of the district track and field tournament were run off in North Dakota U's Memorial stadium. The original date for the tournament was Saturday, May 19, but weather and track conditions forced a postponement.

Monday's tournament, which was conducted with dispatch, was quite a physical test for those athletes, and there were a number, who were multiple performers. As an example, and his case was not exceptional, Paul Klungness, who participated in the 100-yard, 220-yard, and 180-yard low hurdle running events, and the broad jump, engaged in six running races in the space of two hours. Paul ran preliminary heats in the dashes, and the low hurdles, and then came back to win the finals in these events. And while he was enjoying a "breathing spell", Paul was engaging in the broad jump event, which he also won. It was a busy afternoon for the Prowlers' blond junior.

Mile Relay Was Exciting

The most exciting event on the afternoon's program proved to be the mile relay, the final event on the schedule. The race developed into a stride-by-stride duel between the Crookston Pirates' anchor man, Ron Carpenter, and the Prowlers' smooth-running anchor man, Orrin Joppru, and it was a win for Crookston in the record-making time of 3:39.1. The Pirates have a fine mile relay squad, with Mark Stephens, the district's 440-yard champion, running the lead leg, and he gave Crookston a five-yard lead. The second leg was run by Roger Moe, who was held even by the Prowlers' Roger DeLap. In the third leg, the Prowlers' Rolf Wangberg, who retained his district mile run title, picked up a couple of yards on Crookston's Chuck Hannah; and in the thrilling final leg, the Prowlers' Orrin Joppru nearly caught the Pirates' Ron Carpenter.

As a result of their performances at Grand Forks, coach Rod Max's Prowlers will have ten athletes participating in the Region Eight tourney at Bemidji on Saturday. The boys who will be competing for regional honors, and a chance to enter the state tournament in Minneapolis on June 5 are: Paul and Gary Klungness, Rolf Wangberg, Rick Wold, Don Nicholson, Orrin Joppru, Brian Lofberg, Steve Mittelstadt, Arvid Lee and Art Koglin.

For the Golfers

The local golf club's tournament season will be opened on Sunday, May 27, when a shortstop golf tournament will be played.

Tee-off time is at 9:30 A. M. (and golfers should note that daylight saving time will take effect on Sunday morning).

The championship flight, with an entry fee of $5.00, will be based on a 27-hole medal play arrangement. The remaining flights, with the entry fee at $4.00, will be 9-hole match play competition. And it has been announced by the tournament committee that golfers of high school age will be limited to the championship flight. For youthful golfers, below the championship flight caliber, it is probable that a junior flight will be arranged.

It is expected that Fosston's Jim Haugstul, who has made a monopoly of winning golf tournaments on the local course, will be on hand. The nine-hole lay-out here, which is not too long, is made-to-order for Haugstul's game. Jim is the possessor of a very deft short game, being especially keen on the greens. And it will be recalled that he set a course record here last year. But with the heavy rains of the past couple of weeks, proving a boon to the fairways, the course will be playing somewhat longer than usual.

Active in Little League Ball

Received a "flyer" from the Newark Star-Ledger, pertaining to Little League baseball in that New Jersey area, and given prominent mention in the paper is Robert Monroe. Bob, who is a son of the Fred Monroe's of this city, is president of Washington Township's Little League organization.

A proud creed guides the backers of the Little League, and among some of provisions are the safeguarding of the Little League as national asset and help endow it with the highest possible standards; respect the individual boy, and try to understand his capabilities, limitations, and problems of growing up; recognize the obligations in training boys and teaching them lessons in fair play, discipline, and teamwork, and protect the Little League francies against exploitation and use of Little League players for purposes of personal profit or commercialization.

Bob Monroe cames by his interest in baseball quite naturally for his father, Fred, a retired Soo Line conductor, is an enthusiastic baseball fan. Some years ago Bob's brother, Monk, was a catcher for the senior baseball Thieves, and he was a good one.

Schedule, Sunday, May 27
Badger at Thief River Falls
Grygla at Plummer
Middle River at Greenbush

Wet grounds forced the postponement of two of three games on last Sunday's Pen-Ro-Shall baseball league. In the lone game played, that a tilt between the Plummer Red Sox and Badger, and which was played at Badger, was won by Badger, 3-1.

The game was a low-hit affair, with each team getting three hits. Lloyd Noreen, on the mound for the Plummer club, limited the heavy-hitting Badger club to three safeties.

This week's Sunday slate, which is dependent upon the weather and the playing conditions, will have Badger meeting the Bums at Thief River Falls, Middle River playing at Greenbush, and Grygla playing at Plummer.

Prowler Nine Trims Climax Monday 7 to 1

Weather conditions permitting, coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers will conclude their pre-tournament schedule on Friday night when they meet the Warren Ponies on the Fair Grounds diamond, with game time slated for 8 p. m.

The 31st district's baseball tournament will be played at Red Lake Falls, with first-round games being slated for Monday, May 28.

The Prowlers continued unbeaten in district conference play when, on Monday afternoon, coach Skay's club defeated the highly-regarded Climax Vikings, 7-1, on the Climax diamond.

The Prowlers picked up a pair of runs in the third inning when Dick Johnson opened with a walk, advanced to second on Rick Jensen's sacrifice, moved to third when Duane Palm fumbled Gerry Erickson's bid for hit, and then scored on Mike Aune's double. Gerry Erickson also tallied on Mike's hit.

In the fourth, Larry Poole's triple, walks to Dave Ellingson and Dick Johnson, a sacrifice fly, and Gerry Erickson's single, accounted for three Prowler runs, and drove Climax's starting pitcher, Palm, off the mound. Allen Peterson hurled the final three innings of the game.

For the Prowlers, sophomore right-hander Rick Jensen pitched the seven innings, and it marked the second time in this rain-plagued season that the youthful hurler has gone the route.

Shades of Rip Van Winkle

Early Resident Returns To Area After Sixty Years

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

"I'm Rip Van Winkle," announced the deeply tanned gentleman as he settled himself in a chair and peered across my desk from under a wide-brimmed straw hat, perched far back on his head. His face was created by heavy lines of age and there was a neatly trimmed but somewhat unruly gray mustache on his upper lip.

"I used to live here when this was nothing but a mud hole," he said, his grey eyes half closing as a smile deepened the wrinkles at the corners of his eyes and the ends of his mustache arched upward. His face had the appearance of fine leather that had darkened with age but would not reveal just how long it had been in use.

This was W. O. R. Kratka, soon to be 81 years young, nephew of Frank Kratka, one of the early settlers of the area. It was in 1898 that the office visitor first came to this area, staying with his uncle Frank and working at the newspaper office as a compositor. This wasn't much of a community at that time but it was a good place for a young man to get a start.

In the space of a short time, Kratka worked at newspapers in Crookston, Grand Forks and Fargo, then, about the turn of the century, forsook northern Minnesota and headed for the sunny climate of California. There he followed the newspaper trade for awhile, purchased some property and life burst into fullness.

With Kratka on his visit were his two sons, Miles and Bruce, both larger in stature than their father and apparently the pinnacle of the old man's pride. Miles is employed by the Riverside Cement company in Riverside, Calif., and Bruce operates "Casa Kratka", a farm which his father started in Palo Verde Valley near Blythe, Calif.

When I pointed out Kratka township in the Pennington county atlas my visitor beamed and called his sons to see how the family name had been preserved in local history. He asked about the development of land along the Red Lake river in this community, noting that at one time his family had owned a considerable amount of what is now residential area.

"Casa Kratka", the farm or ranch which Bruce now operates in California, is a farming enterprise on irrigated land in the rich Palo Verde Valley. The operation consists of about 1,000 acres, owned by the Kratkas or leased from others, and producing cotton, barley and alfalfa hay as the main products. It is to be assumed, since land in that area is selling for $400 to $500 per acre (if it is selling), that the farm is a sizeable operation.

Kratka wasn't sure just how many acres the family owned. "Bruce runs the place now and I'm not one of those fathers that is always hanging over his son's shoulder to check on things. He does a good job." His eyes twinkled. "I always said, what's the use of having boys if you don't do some braggin' on 'em."

"I suppose we started planning this trip about 20 years ago," Bruce said as his father made a tour of the Times print shop. "Last year Dad was sick and couldn't travel. We have about two weeks of traveling planned around this area and to Dad's home town in Illinois." Much of Kratka's visit here was with Gordon LaBree, local attorney, whose father, Jesse LaBree, was one of the community's earliest settlers.

Mrs. Kratka stayed home in California while her husband and sons made the trip. "The wife and I have had 41 wonderful years of mortgaged life," Kratka said, "and she still says, 'Who in the hell do you think you are—get out of my kitchen'."

And I would imagine, after an absence of 60 years from the area, a man would be entitled to feel like Rip Van Winle awakening from a 100-year siesta.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE

VISITOR to Thief River Falls last week for the first time after leaving here about 60 years ago was W. O. R. Kratka of California. Kratka came here in 1898 and lived with his uncle, Frank Kratka, worked at the newspaper office as a compositor and also at newspapers in Crookston, Grand Forks and Fargo before moving to California.

'62 June Dairy Month Farm Family Chosen

A hard-working family with a reputation for self reliance and perseverance was named Minnesota's 1962 June Dairy Month Farm Family May 21.

The honor in the second annual selection fell to the Lincoln Schroeders of Knollside Farm, located four miles northwest of Rochester on U. S. Highway 52.

The Schroeders were chosen by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee to represent and symbolize the 81,000 dairy farm families of Minnesota during the state's 26th annual observance of June Dairy Month.

"Our criteria this year were the same as those used in the first selection," according to MDIC Manager L. H. (Lew) Conlon. "Our committee looked for—and certainly found—a family which has made dairy farming a way as a means of making a living. In the fullest sense, the Schroeders typify the kind of people who have built dairying into a great industry both here in Minnesota and in the nation."

Announcement of the Schroeders' selection was made on the eve of the dairy industry's annual June Dairy Month Kickoff Luncheon, May 22, at which the Schroeders were to be honored guests and featured speakers.

Known and respected in dairy circles throughout Minnesota, the "at-home" members of the family are Lincoln, his wife, Marcella, and their two youngest sons, Jim, 18, and Henry 21. A third son, David, 26, currently with the Army at Fort Lewis, Wash., will return to the farm with his wife when released from service this summer.

The Schroeder's only daughter, Mary, now Mrs. Maynard Holliday, lives in Rochester with her husband and two daughters.

The farm on which the Schroeders live and work is an attractive model of a modern Grade "A" dairy operation. Children from Rochester elementary school classes have made field day excursions to Knollside Farm each spring for the past six years. It is located just north of the recently-built IBM plant which now is an area landmark.

The Schroeders moved to their present 440-acre farm "20 years ago next fall." For the 10 years prior to that time, and after their marriage in 1930, they farmed rented land and kept dairy cattle on a share basis on farms near Eyota and Elgin.

Currently the Knollside herd is maintained at 36 Holstein cows on the milking line, 30 heifers and 30 calves. The Schroeders sell their surplus animals for breeding stock.

The herd has earned the stamp of success both in breeding and production, as the Schroeder's well-kept records attest. In production, the herd stands third highest in the state with an average of 16,839 pounds of milk and 635 pounds of butterfat per cow on 39 head, according to DHIA and HIR records.

State Seeks Bids on Area Road Jobs

Work Planned in Kittson, Marshall and Roseau Cos.

The Minnesota highway department has announced a call for bids to be opened on June 8 at its central offices in St. Paul on nineteen projects located in 16 counties with an estimated total cost of $3,600,000. Two of the projects are in this area.

The letting of work on the piers for the new Washington avenue bridge, marks the beginning of the construction of one of the major bridge projects in Minneapolis. It will be of the steel deck plate girder type and consist of two levels. The lower level will provide a four-lane, divided highway across the Mississippi river only a short distance downstream from the present Washington avenue structure. The upper level will be for pedestrians only. University of Minnesota students will probably make the greatest use of this walkway which will connect the East and West campuses.

Other projects include, in this are:

Kittson and Marshall Counties. T. H. 220 — Soil cement and plant-mixed bituminous base on eleven miles between junction T. H. 317 to junction T. H. 11.

Roseau County, T. H. 313 —Gravel base, road-mixed bituminous surfacing on 6.3 miles between junction T. H. 11 in Warroad and the international boundary.

GRYGLA . . .

Rev. Arthur F. Ortmann from Warroad will show the gospel film "The Family That Changed the World" in the Grygla school auditorium next Sunday, May 27 at 2:30 p. m. Everybody is welcome.

Editorials . . .

"The professed Internationalist usually sneers at nationalism, at patriotism, at what we call "Americanism." He bids us forswear our love of country in the name of love of the world at large. We nationalists answer that he has begun at the wrong end; we say that as the world now is, it is only the man who ardently loves his country first who in actual practice can help any other country at all."

—Theodore Roosevelt

Does it Make Sense?

We are a little confused by a new "hurry-up" farm bill that encourages the growing of flax, and other crops for which no price supports are available, on land that has been diverted from wheat and feed grain production. Farmers taking advantage of the program would still receive half of the normal government payments for not growing wheat or feed grains.

It would seem that while such a program might reduce the acreage of wheat and feed grains it would encourage surpluses of the crops that would be substituted, and depress their market value. And would not the farmers who normally grow flax and the other unprotected crops be justified in asking the government to compensate them for the losses sustained by the markets that had been disrupted by government tinkering?

Does this make sense?

Henry Wallace Speaks.

In a recent address at Cornell University, former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, passed along some good advice to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. Speaking of farm products prices he pointed up the fact the law of supply and demand is generally effective in maintaining a fair price level for the perishables. He urged:

> "Avoid as much as possible getting involved with perishable food products.
> "In many of the perishables temporary low prices will damp down production quite rapidly. Control of marketing is always a headache because there is always the question of the fairness of the bases.
> "Supply management may be the heart of equality of bargaining power in many commodities. Just the same I say that unless great conservatism is employed in setting prices and great reciprocal understanding established between all segments of producers, handlers and government, the result can be the most serious trouble, especially if government is bogged down under myriads of contracts operating under variable conditions."

That is one of the most sensible statements dealing with the government's price support program that we have heard in a long time.

A Social Fraud

The American Medical Association is fighting the King-Anderson bill, supported by President Kennedy, that would extend the present social security program to include medical care for the aged as one of the benefits. The Medical association deserves the support of all who oppose expansion of our growing government bureacracy that already has gotten out of hand.

Social Security came to us as a semi-relief program that might be helpful but would not cost much. That was the beginning. It has been expanded several times and the costs are going up rapidly. Under the present program the payroll tax will be nine per cent by 1969. Include socialized medicine in the program and these rapidly rising costs will skyrocket. Social Security has become a political football and now politician Kennedy, in this campaign year, is pumping more politics into the already over-expanded program.

There are so many things wrong with our social security program in its present form that the whole operation should have a thorough re-examination before any further expansion is given serious consideration. For the millions of young workers who are just getting into the program, and who will be forced to contribute to that program over a period of many years, the plan is a fraud. We are satisfied that not many of the present generation of old people, who would enjoy some benefits at practically no cost, would want to perpetrate that fraud upon their children and grandchildren if they knew the facts.

Most young people can buy much better insurance at a much lower cost than what they will have to pay, over a period of many years, for Social Security. It will do no harm to slow down and give this whole program a second look.

There Still is Confusion

The Ledger Dispatch of Norfolk, Virginia, gets credit for the following report on check-writing confusion. The confused check-writer was a lady who lives in Norfolk but who still does business occasionally with a store in her home town. She had bought a $4.64 cake as a gift to a friend while on a visit to the city of her origin and the cake was duly delivered and the buyer duly paid for it when the bill came.

Then, as reported by the Ledger Dispatch, complications developed. Each month her bill mysteriously increased and she wrote to the department store's accounting department to clear up the mystery of the "One Square Silver Cake" she had bought in September. The store's reply was as follows:

"Dear Madam:

"Your bill problem originated with a cake bought in September (1961) as per itemized statement attached. Then came our new billing system which doesn't identify credit balances clearly enough.

"It appears that in October you inadvertently paid the bill for cake twice —$4.64 each time. This caused us to owe you $4.64.

"Then in January you mistook the credit balance for an amount you owed us and paid it. This doubled our debt to you—$9.28.

"Then when our next statement reached you, you paid us the $9.28 we really owed you, thus producing the present balance we owe you of $18.56.

It appears that these new automatic bookkeeping machines that are replacing the old fashioned methods and personnel have some shortcomings. But, according to the Ledger Dispatch, the confused check-writer had accumulated enough of a credit balance to pay for a new dress.

Why?

(Morris Tribune)

At one time a bill introduced in Congress proposed that the Tennessee Valley Authority pay taxes equal to those of comparable investor-owned electric utilities. During the debate, this remark was made: "If we go to that extreme, Senators can see that the TVA would be out of business in three months."

That astute observation did not come from an opponent of public power. Quite the opposite—it was said by the late Senator, George Norris, who has been described, and accurately, as the "father of TVA."

And you don't have to look to the opponents of public power to learn that, by any reasonable standard of business practice, the TVA is a pampered stepchild of all the nation's taxpayers. For instance, in 1956, Chairman Herbert D. Vogel of the Tennessee Valley Authority said:

"I cannot ignore the very real advantages accruing to any system which operates for minimum earning rather than a normal profit and which is not required by law to pay interest on its obligations or income taxes to the Federal government. In all fairness, it must be admitted that these result in consumer advantages not enjoyed by the customers of private power companies. Any talk about establishing a measure for the cost of power without reference to these factors is, of course, absurd."

This very frank statement demonstrates that the claim that the TVA establishes a "yardstick" by which the propriety of power rates in general can be accurately measured is as phony as a three-dollar bill.

Finally, another authority has said: "Since the Federal government uses investor-owned companies as a means of collecting taxes from people, why does it not also use TVA for this purpose? Why should the people of Tennessee be deprived of the privilege of paying Federal income taxes in their electricity bill as do other citizens?

Impressive Tributes

(Murray County Herald)

A man who wants to retire from public office is being forced by public opinion—by people from both of the major parties—to reverse his decision and run again. Congressman Walter Judd is being swamped with mail from all parts of the country urging him to run again. The avalanche has reached such proportions that it is next to impossible for his office staff to handle it.

While the Democrats will naturally not take the stump for Judd, many top officials in the Kennedy administration are urging him to return to congress. These include secretary of state Dean Rusk and secretary of labor Arthur Goldberg. They are doing so because they recognize and respect the tremendous ability of this man, and his ability to judge and vote strictly on merit rather than on party line.

In the field of foreign affairs, Judd is a recognized expert—possibly the top man in the congress today. He has helped develop the Kennedy program in this regard, and his influence has kept partisan opposition at a minimum in many instances.

Dr. Judd has earned a rest, but the people of America are not going to allow him to take it. He is reconsidering his earlier decision to retire and it now appears that he will again be a candidate.

Drunks Build Airport

(New Hampshire Issue)

Helsinki, Finland, roughly one-fourth the size of Washington, D. C., has a beautiful jet airport, made almost entirely by prisoners serving time for drunk driving. Nobody —absolutely nobody—can escape severe sentencing if caught driving while inebriated. Some of the prisoners who built the airport as part of their "penal servitude at hard labor" included bank officials, merchants, and government workers. Two were members of the parliament. Although they had much political "pull," the premier refused to get the Finnish congressmen "off the hook" for drunk driving. So they put in six months with sledge hammers.

A Tour of the East

On Apr. 14 Delaine Wigen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Wigen and a group of 37 high school students from Carl Sandberg Jr. high school of Minneapolis, plus four teachers, left for a weeks trip to the east. They left the Twin Cities at 8 a. m. on the 14th, traveled by train to Aurora, Ill. where they took a chartered bus to Washington D. C. arriving at noon April 15, and checking into the Lafayette hotel, just across from the White House. During the afternoon the group toured the city by bus and in the evening they visited the archives, the National Gallery of Art and the Washington Memorial. The next day they watched the printing of money at the Mint, toured the FBI building, observed Lincoln Memorial and the changing of the guards at the tomb of the unknown soldier. A tour of the Capitol included meeting and speaking with one of the Minnesota senators. At the Smithsonian Museum they saw the space capsule Friendship 7. That evening they left by bus for New York and stayed at the Taft hotel. The next day they went to the RCA building and later attended the musical hit, "Sounds of Music". The 18th they visited the U. N. and saw the Shaw of Iran. In the afternoon they saw Pass Word and the evening was spent attending an Easter show at Radio City music hall where they saw Walt Disney. The Empire State building, a tour of China Town, the Fulton fish market, and a subway ride to the ferry which brought them to the Statue of Liberty was also included. On the trip home they stopped at Philadelphia to see Independence Hall and view the Liberty Bell. All reported a very enjoyable and worthwhile trip.

College Graduates' Starting Pay Rises

A rise twice as great as earlier predictions is showing up in the starting salaries currently being offered this year's June college graduates, reports the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Main reason: A further step-up in employment demand has encountered a "cagey shopper" attitude on the part of seniors entertaining numerous job offers.

The upsurge in U. S. space and missile activity is the hottest spark plug in the accelerated demand for graduates, but college recruiting is liveller across the entire spectrum of American business this spring.

Preliminary reports from leading universities covered in Northwestern National Life's 27th annual college placement survey reveal increases from last year's salary levels averaging $20 to $30 a month instead of the nominal $10 to $15 indicated by surveys made last fall and winter. Both recruiting activity and salary figures are generally running a little higher in the east and far west, but noteworthy gains are being chalked up also in central and southern areas.

Current offers for bachelors in engineering yield an average of $565 to $580. Majors in math and physical sciences command close to the same pay levels.

Accountants, in shorter supply than ever, may top a median of $500 this year. Business administration grads as a group are averaging around $475, with offers for management and sales trainees, whether from liberal arts or business school, generally ranging from $450 to $500.

Final averages for the class of '62 may turn out even better than present figures, some placement officials feel. They point to the fact that with numerous jobs to choose from this spring, many seniors are delaying acceptance of current offers while they shop for better ones, which they may get due to the developing 1962 employment situation.

Although the total number of bachelor degree graduates is larger, eager recruiters must compete against a shrinkage in the number of engineering graduates, increased military demands, and the marked trend in recent years for more and more top graduates in liberal arts, business, engineering and the sciences to remain in school seeking PhD and Master degrees.

With demand farther than ever beyond the available supply, this year's PhD's and Masters in engineering and science are currently offered starting salaries of $750 to $1,000 a month, and some outstanding men are doing even better. For the types of positions open to advanced degree men, salaries have risen as much in some instances as $75 to $100 a month since 1961.

It is the prevailing opinion of placement officials already consulted in the survey, that all engineering and physical science bachelors who want jobs can have them by graduation; that 75 per cent of business and liberal arts job-seekers will be placed by commencement time and the remainder during the summer, with a much larger choice of desirable jobs available than in 1961, which itself turned out to be an excellent placement year.

Governor Urges, 'Drive Carefully on Memorial Day'

Mr. Andersen Requests State Motorists to Keep Lights on All During Day

Expressing appreciation to the news media for help in cutting the traffic death toll, Governor Elmer L. Andersen today asked for continued assistance with the "Lights on for Safety" campaign for key holidays as "an invaluable tool to save human lives."

The Governor also asked all motorists to turn on their headlights, low-beam, for the Memorial Day holiday which begins after work on Tuesday, May 29, and extends thru Wednesday, May 30.

Under the plan, headlights would be on throughout the day as well as night "to remind all motorists of their obligation to drive safely and save human lives," said Governor Andersen. He pointed out the following "favorable indications in the traffic safety picture which prove that 'it can be done' ":

Fatalities January through April were 187 in 1961 and 150 in 1962, or 37 traffic deaths fewer, representing a 20 per cent decrease.

The Governor pointed out that with constant vigilance, the Memorial Day traffic death pattern has been growing lighter, as shown by the following statistics:

During the Memorial Day holiday in 1961, (Memorial Day fell on Tuesday) 1.5 Minnesotans were killed per day.

During the Memorial Day holiday in 1960 (Memorial Day fell on Monday) 2.5 Minnesotans were killed per day.

From 1957 through 1961, an average of 1.7 Minnesotans were killed per day. In 1961, alone, there was an average of 1.5 fatalities per day.

$17,881 Judgement Is Given Against 2 Crookston Men

A Ninth judicial distric court jury in Crookston returned a verdict Thursday evening in favor of Lloyd Elsert, Crookston, in his civil suit, against Herschel H. and Herschel A. Lysaker of that city for alleged injuries and damages following an August 1961 collision in Crookston.

The jury awarded Elsert $17,881, the office of the clerk of district court reported.

Elsert asked for a judgment of $40,000 against the Lysakers and claimed negligence on the part of Herschel A. who was driving an automobile owned by Herschel H. Lysaker.

High winds swept the ice onto the shore, piling it to a depth of nine feet in some places. Date of the picture was given as April 26.

Middle River Girl Named Marshall Co. '62 Dairy Princess

Arlene Niemela Is Winner; Strathcona and Argyle Girls Also Are Selected

Miss Arlene Niemela of Middle River will reign as the 1962-63 Marshall county Dairy Princess. Miss Kathy Hjelle of Argyle, Miss Shirley Kruta of Strathcona and Miss Niemela will represent Marshall county at the Dairy Day contest at Thief River Falls on June 12. They will be competing for the regional Dairy Princess title.

The judges do not select one girl to be the county dairy princess, so a drawing is held to determine which of the three girls will serve in that capacity for the coming year. Miss Niemela was crowned county Dairy Princess by Miss Rena Griffin, 1961-62 county princess.

Nine girls participated in the contest held at Middle River on Saturday, May 19. Other contestants were: Josephine Kuznia, Argyle; Donna Lee, Newfolden; Sylvia Sorter, Elora Anderson and Julie Halme, all of Middle River and Carol Ostby of Gatzke.

Traffic Increase Is 25 Per Cent on New Duluth Span

About 25 per cent more cars cross St. Louis Bay between Duluth and Superior, since the opening of the area's new $20 million Interstate bridge than crossed before.

The Minnesota Highway department reports that in November 1961, the last month before the new bridge opened, an average of 6,335 vehicles a day crossed the old Interstate bridge adjacent to the new span. In April 1962 the daily average on the new bridge was 10,800.

The nearby Arrowhead bridge had an average daily traffic load of 2,564 vehicles last November but only 1,404 in April.

The difference in the Interstate increase and the Arrowhead drop is what the Highway Department calls "generated traffic." This represents travel inspired entirely by the added convenience of the new bridge.

November and April are regarded by traffic analysts as months in which the traffic counts normally are about the same.

The increased traffic is in line with department predictions made before the bridge was built.

Mayor Supports Jaycees Vehicle Safety Campaign

Voluntary Vehicle Check To Be staged Friday at First and Main Corner

Support of the vehicle safety check to be sponsored Friday by the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce was expressed today by Mayor Orin Green. The voluntary check will be held from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. near the intersection of First Street and Main avenue, according to Jerry Lydeen, committee chairman.

"Traffic accidents cause a staggering waste of life and property and it is the individual responsibility of every citizen to help prevent traffic accidents," the mayor said. He called upon every citizen to "Join the Circle of Safety—Check Your Car—Check Your Driving—Check Accidents".

In cooperation with the Thief River Falls Automobile Dealers association, voluntary check lanes will be set up to give motorists an opportunity to take advantage of the free and voluntary 10-point check. The 10 items include brakes, front and rear lights, steering, exhaust system, tires, glass, windshiled wipers, rear view mirror and horn.

"Many motorists are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families and their communities because they are unaware of safety hazards," the chairman said. "A safety-checked windshild sticker reassures owners their vehicles were checked and found in safe operating condition. Vehicles found unsafe permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident."

State Department to Seek New Industries

The Minnesota department of business development is about to embark on a new industrial development advertising campaign that will feature Minnesota's "brain power" as a key factor in the state's business and industrial opportunities.

A series of advertisements is being prepared to give Minnesota an image as a "brainpower state", according to a joint announcement today from Clifford Sommer, Owatonna, chairman of the Governor's Business Advisory Commission and business development commissioner Tom Swain.

Sommer reported the 15-man commission recently endorsed the plan and recommended it be implemented. Strategy for the campaign is based on a 294-page report from Campbell, Mithun, Inc., Minneapolis, advertising agency for the department. The report makes 6 major recommendations, condensed from the findings of an extensive marketing study conducted by the agency for the department. Swain said the agency is working on the initial ads for the campaign to appear in national magazines, commencing in June.

Commenting on the Campbell-Mithun report, Sommer pointed out that in the decade from 1950 to 1960 the state lost a net of 97,000 of its most productive young people (18-34) to other states. "This is the equivalent to losing an entire city about the size of Duluth, with nearly every individual being in the most productive age group—and represents a loss to Minnesota of more than $1¼ billion in tax money invested in their education"

Sommer said it is expected other Minnesota industrial advertisers will incorporate the "brainpower" theme in their ads.

Swain said he anticipates approximately $15,000 in state money will be invested in the initial advertisements of the campaign before the end of the current fiscal year on June 30.

He pointed out that the basic contract with Campbell-Mithun, providing $75,000 for state advertising designates $25,000 for industrial development and $50,000 for the tourist-travel industry.

However, as a result of savings effected in other divisions of the department, the advertising budget for the current fiscal year is being increased to $90,000, Swain said.

DAD'S GRADUATION

NATIONAL BANK

It wasn't Dad who burned the midnight oil . . . or crammed for exams . . . or struggled with term papers . . . or won a letter in baseball . . . or a prize in home economics.

Dad just wrote the checks . . . and the encouraging letters . . . and boasted to the office force about his "kids" in school.

But this is really Dad's graduation. For he planned this day many years ago. And all these years he has struggled to give his boy and girl the kind of an education he never had.

Something else he has given them—something he did have: a sound Christian faith, manifested in loyal devotion to his Church's worship and work.

Better than a diploma is Dad's reward today; the reverent, joyous certainty that, not only in their education, but equally in their spiritual development, he has recognized the needs of his children . . . and has seen them through.

Are you planning your children's future—every Sunday?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

If Your Farm Burned During A Windstorm, Who Would Pay?

Many windstorm policies don't cover losses from a fire which starts as the result of a windstorm. This is one example of some of the big differences between insurance policies that look alike. I sell coverage by St. Paul Mutual — the company that gives the farmer extra protection at regular rates. Let me show you how this coverage can mean a lot to you and your family.

Business-Clergy Conference Held

Membership in TRF Churches Reported to Aggregate 8,000

Discussion of items of mutual interest to pastors and businessmen was held Thursday noon when the Chamber of Commerce sponsored its second annual Business-Clergy Day at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls. Donald M. Olson served as chairman for the discussion meeting.

Statistics compiled from questionnaires sent to churches were reviewed by chairman Olson at the session. With 14 of 16 pastors reporting, the report showed that total membership of all ages in community congregations was about 8,000. Total annual budget for the combined churches is approximately $343,225 with the religious bodies employing 30 full-time and seven part-time workers. Inventory value of all property owned by the congregations was listed at a total of $1,608,660.

Discussion was held relative to Good Friday closing of city stores to permit attendance of all management and employees at church services. Several merchants noted that they must remain competitive with other business communities which do not have Good Friday closing. It was also mentioned that the trade territory of the city is beyond the local church membership area and the people coming here to shop expect to find the stores open during an entire day.

Members of the clergy noted that they have appreciated store closing from noon to 3 p. m. on Good Friday in the past and feel that the public generally respects the stores for observance of the religious significance of the day.

Also discussed was the extent to which the Chamber of Commerce and church organizations and clergy should take stands on controversial issues. It was noted that the ministerial association does not make a practice of going on record in controversial matters and likely would not do so unless in unanimous agreement.

Rev. R. A. Wangberg, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church and president of the ministerial association, thanked the Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring the event and providing the opportunity to discuss matters of mutual concern.

NAVY Commander Adrian Lorentson, whose destroyer retrived the space capsule on which Lt. Commr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter orbited the earth three times, is pictured above with Mrs. Lorentson and their two children, Adrian Jr. and Barbara. Lorentson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lorentson of Thief River Falls.

Commr. Adrian V. Lorentson's Ship Recovers Capsule

Commander Adrian V. Lorentson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lorentson of this city, was in command of the U. S. Destroyer John R. Pierce which picked up the space capsule Thursday in which Lieutenant Commander Malcolm Scott Carpenter had orbited the world three times.

Commander Lorentson graduated from Lincoln high school with the class of 1936 and from St. Olaf College in 1942, when he enlisted in the Navy. During the course of his Navy career he has attended officer training schools on several occasions.

The space ship overshot the target area by about 200 miles, landing 135 miles northeast of Puerto Rico, where it was spotted by search planes about a half-hour after falling into the ocean.

Lorentson and his ship had returned in April after an extended tour of duty in the Mediterranean area. He had also served in World War II, having been an officer on the U. S. Destroyer Evans, which was put out of commission in the Okinawa campaign by Japanese Kamikaze suicide planes after having shot down a large number of Japanese planes.

Goodridge Lions Study Direct Dial Service to TRF

Extended area service to Goodridge telephone subscribers was discussed Wednesday at the regular meeting of the Goodridge Lions club. Letters from H. W. Peterson, manager of Garden Valley Telephone company, were read to the members prior to the discussion.

Peterson's letter to Dr. David M. Brown, superintendent of schools, and Ernest L. Swanson, Lions club secretary, were in reply to inquiries about direct distance dialing. Such a service would permit Goodridge subscribers to dial Thief River Falls directly without toll charge, similar to the service now offered subscribers at Holt, Viking and Newfolden.

There would likely be an extra charge for such a service but the amount is not known at this time, Peterson's letters indicated. Before this could become a reality, it would be necessary to hold hearings before the state railroad and warehouse commission. Gathering of information for these hearings would take time and money but could be done if there is sufficient interest for the service from patrons of the Goodridge exchange.

Persons interested in securing extended area service for Goodridge are asked to contact either Ernest L. Swanson or Dr. Brown. If enough local interest is received, it is probable that Garden Valley Telephone company will be required to consider hearings on the proposal.

It was also reported that proceeds from the dance sponsored by the club as a baseball fund benefit totaled $409.55 with a net profit of about $273. Baseball suits have been ordered for the Midget team and jerseys and caps for the Peewee team.

Next meeting of the club will be held at 9 p. m. on Wednesday, June 27, due to the summer vacation period.

Deadline Set July 4

Plan City Fair Drive

Sale of membership in the Pennington County Fair association, Inc., in the city of Thief River Falls was reviewed at a meeting of organization representatives Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce office. A goal of 500 memberships in the city was set and July 4 was slated as the deadline for completing the campaign.

According to the campaign organized Thursday, the business district will be canvassed by the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Lions organizations. Residential sales will be as follows: Eagles, first ward; Veterans of Foreign Wars, second ward; American Legion, third ward; Jaycees, fourth ward; and Elks, fifth ward.

Sales material will be distributed to heads of the respective organizations in the immediate future and each group will conduct its own campaign. Persons not contacted but wishing to purchase membership in the organization may do so at the motor vehicle license bureau located on Second street east.

Membership in the association will permit the purchaser to vote and hold office in the organization and take part in setting policy for future county fair operation. Certificates are not transferrable and bear no interest but are life memberships in the association.

In presenting the situation at the organizational meeting, Silas Hanson, county drive chairman, noted that about 250 memberships had been sold in the rural area. The association has been organized to take over the operation of the county fair in Thief River Falls from the Pennington County Agricultural Society, Inc.

Also appearing at the meeting Thursday were Ray Oen, chairman, and C. W. Rodekuhr, secretary, of the reorganization committee. This committee was formed to work out details for formation of a new fair group. Both stressed at the meeting that the $5 memberships should be sold to both the husband and wife in as many cases as possible to provide working capital for the new group.

"We believe that farmers in the area have shown sufficient interest in the continuance of the fair to make the continuance of the annual fair worthwhile," Hanson said. "If residents of Thief River Falls will purchase membership accordingly, we can be assured that the fair will continue to be held here."

Kemmer Named President of Northern Blood Bank

Membership Drive Is Planned for This Fall; Members Total 1,006

Douglas Kemmer was elected president of the Northern Blood Bank association to succeed Ed Hamerski at a meeting of the board of directors on Friday evening at Northwestern Hospital cafeteria in Thief River Falls. Kemmer has served as acting president since Hamerski moved from the city last year.

Tentative plans were formulated for a membership drive which will be held this fall. The organization has been functioning through the Northwestern hospital laboratory and currently has 1,006 members on the list. It was noted by the board that a number of persons have moved to the city since the last membership campaign and likely have not been contacted in regard to blood bank membership and the coverage it offers.

Miss Judith Wolf, medical technologist in charge of the program at the hospital, reviewed how the local blood bank works through the Minneapolis War Memorial Blood Bank to provide blood to members and their families throughout the United States. This is accomplished by the shipment of blood drawn here to Minneapolis in exchange for credits which can be used to "purchase" blood on demand anywhere in the nation.

Appointed as new board members were Mrs. Lillian Ose, Jon Metusalem, Mrs. Alan Adams and Miss Wolf of Thief River Falls and Lester Ellis of Midle River. Tentative date for the annual meeting was set for early in November. Mrs. Robert Robarge is secretary-treasurer of the association.

Persons who are not now members of the association may become members if they are between the ages of 18 and 60 years and do not have a medical history which would prevent their being donors. Application may be made to the Northern Blood Bank association or by contacting Northwestern Hospital. Membership fee in the blood bank is one dollar, Kemmer said.

Under normal conditions, blood bank members will not be expected to donate blood more than once every two years. Protection will be afforded to immediate family members of the person who hold association membership. A local donor, for instance, who has a mother or father in another state and requires blood because of an operation or accident, will receive the blood free of charge at the place where it is needed.

Public relations advisors will be appointed in the area to assist with the membership campaign. Persons who would like to become members of the blood bank may do so before the membership drive by contacting the association or Northwestern Hospital.

WATER in varying amounts in different areas of Pennington and Marshall counties was noted on a flying tour of the territory north and east of Thief River Falls on Friday. The above view shows the swollen Thief river and water which has been standing on fields for some time, unable to drain until the river level subsides. Field and road ditches leading to the river are filled and a considerable amount of farmland is either under water or too wet to permit farm field work.

Cash Prizes Offered for Kiddies Parade

Shiny silver dollars and ribbons indicating first, second and third placing in various divisions will be offered to youngsters participating in the kiddies parade to be held Saturday morning, according to John K. Moum, parade chairman. The event is sponsored by the retail trade committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Four divisions will be available for entry in the parade. These include bicycles, wagons, doll buggies and pets. Parade formation will be in the city parking lot south of the post office with youngsters asked to report at 9 a. m. to their respective sections.

To assist in formation of the parade so that divisions will be separated into distinct groups, sections will be marked at the formation area. Assistants will be present to attach identification numbers to the entries and the parade is scheduled to start promptly at 10 a. m. No advance registration will be required and entries need not report to the parking lot area before 9 a. m.

Cash prizes to first, second and third place winners will be awarded in the amounts of $5, $4 and $3 respectively. Free soft drinks and ice cream will be provided following the parade to all entries through the courtesy of Kiewel Products company and Bridgeman Creameries. Judging will be done by a panel of four judges.

Parade route will be from the parking lot north on LaBree to Second street, east on Second street to Horace avenue, north on Horace avenue to Third street, west on Third street to Main avenue, south on Main avenue to Second street and east on Second street to the alley which leads to the parking lot disassembly area.

No age limit has been set for the parade entries. Prizes are on display in one of the display windows at S&L department store.

Memorial Day Services Slated Here Wednesday

Memorial Day services, under the co-sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion in Thief River Falls, will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. at Riverside Park in this city. Rep. Ben Wichterman of Plummer will be the guest speaker. In the event of rain the program will be held at the National Guard armory.

A parade will be held at 10:30 a. m. with formation at the city auditorium. The public is encouraged to honor the nation's war dead by attending the special Memorial Day services.

174 Seniors Hear Rev. Dalzell Speak at Baccalaureate

Speaker Tells Graduates There Is No Compromise with Lifes Principles

Garbed in somber cap and gown, members of the Lincoln high school graduating class of 1962, numbering 174 seniors, attended baccalaureate services Sunday evening in the school auditorium, and heard a sermon delivered by the Rev. Ronald W. Dalzell, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The services opened with the processional march played by a string quartet, followed by the invocation by the Rev. Joseph Swan, pastor of the Evangelical Free church, who also gave the benediction.

Mr. Dalzell cautioned his young hearers against taking too broad a view of moral and spiritual values, stating that there is no compromise with the principles of honesty, purity and other factors.

The speaker took occasion to praise the dedicated spirit shown by Dr. Joseph Norquist, former local physician now serving as a medical missionary in Tanganyika, East Africa.

Sharon Breznay, who is employed in Minneapolis, spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Breznay.

Margaret Steitz Weds Frank Ehling Jr. May 12

St. John's Lutheran church of Red Lake Falls was the scene of the wedding of Margaret Louise Steitz of Chicago, Ill., formerly of Red Lake Falls, to Frank Allen Ehling Jr. of Chicago at 7:30 Saturday evening, May 12. Before an altar graced with bouquets of pink carnations and green leaves, lighted candelabra and tall baskets of deep pink gladioli, white snap dragons and pink carnations, Rev. John D. Rolf performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 130 relatives and friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Steitz of Red Lake Falls and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ehling Sr. of Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Harold Busse of Crookston was organist and played "Let Us Ever Walk With Jesus" as the maid of honor, bridesmaid and bride approached the altar. Before the ceremony, Mrs. John Ulrich, aunt of the bride, sang "Today We At Thine Altar Stand." The recessional was "Take Thou My Hand and Lead Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the dress that her sister, Mrs. Merlin Carlson, had worn. It was of white nylon tulle and lace over taffeta and its simple lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline, long sleeves coming to points at the wrists, with a bouffant skirt of tiers of lace and tulle ruffles. Her illusion veil, falling from a cap of white seed pearls, velvet and lace was her "something borrowed" also, having been worn by a friend. Her only jewelry was a strand of fresh water pearls and she carried white feathered carnations centered with a lavendar orchid.

Delores Ulrich and Cathline Steitz, sister of the bride, both of Red Lake Falls, were maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They were attired in identical dresses of mint green pima cotton styled with scoop necked bodices, tiny sleeves and deep pleated ful skirts with self belts and bows. Their hatlets were green halos atop circles of white nylon tulle. They wore white gloves and their white earring and necklace sets of fresh water pearls and crystals were gifts of the bride. Their cascade bouquets of pink carnations were touched with lavendar tulle and ribbon.

Attending the groom as best man was Robert Steitz, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Ulrich, cousin of the bride, was groomsman. Both gentlemen are of Red Lake Falls and they received gifts of tie clasp and cuff link sets. David Ulrich, cousin of the bride, of Red Lake Falls and Ronnie Konickson of St. Hilaire were ushers. Their gifts were tie clasps. All gentlemen of the bridal party wore dark suits and dark ties and the ushers wore light suit coats with dark trousers and bow ties. They all wore white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Steitz wore a silk print sheath dress in lavendar, blue and turquoise with bone accessories and Mrs. Ehling chose a beige sheath dress with beige and green accessories. Their identical corsages were of white feathered carnations and deep pink roses accented with lavendar ribbon.

The grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. John Berry of Chicago, attended the wedding and were presented a corsage of white and pink feathered carnations and a white carnation boutonniere. Also in attendance from Chicago were three nurses, classmates of the bride.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents gave a reception in the church parlors. Centering the serving table with tall lighted candles was a white five tiered wedding cake decorated with light pink roses, mint green leaves and white sugar bells topped with pink tulle encircling a large white sugar bell, cupid and birds and pink roses. The cake was baked by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Gust Konickson. A pink rose and white bell theme was carried out throughout the reception.

Mrs. Hans Drotts of this city and Mrs. Fred Ulrich of Red Lake Falls poured, Mrs. Merlin Carlson of Red Lake Falls, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Burton Carlson of Plummer cut the cake.

Scharline Carlson of Plummer was at the guest book while Ginger Rose and Sharon Lehrer, both of Red Lake Falls, were at the gift table. Waitresses were Pamela Flage, Joan Martin and Sharon Luxenberg, all of Red Lake Falls, and Corrine Naas of Mentor. Helping in the kitchen were Mmes. Melvin Kalbakdalen, Albert Harbott, Ralph Luxenberg, Vay Rawerts, Earl Rose and Ernest Ulrich.

The bride chose a brown and white checked linen suit with beige and brown accessories for her traveling costume and her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a short wedding trip the couple is now at home at 1429 North Avers avenue, Chicago 51, Ill.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of Lincoln high school in this city and is a senior nurse at the Walther Memorial school of nursing in Chicago, to graduate August 26th of this year. Cankerworms Infest Trees in Minnesota

Cankerworms continue to strip the leaves from many Minnesota shade trees. John Lofgren, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota, says the present attack appears to be the heaviest in several years.

Although the pests prefer leaves of elm, basswood and apple, Lofgren reports heavy cankerworm feeding on maple, boxelder, oak and other trees. Some trees are almost completely defoliated.

In Minnesota two kinds of cankerworms may be present at the same time. The fall cankerworm is green or striped; the spring cankerworm is light to dark brown with a yellow stripe along each side.

Generally, a new set of leaves is put out by a badly defoliated tree about three weeks after cankerworms finish feeding.

For cankerworm control, spray the trees with DDT or methoxychlor. Use two tablespoons of 50 per cent wettable powder per gallon of water or two pounds in 100 gallons of water. Or use equivalent amounts of actual chemical using emulsifiable formulations.

For most effective control on tall trees, use a power sprayer which develops enough pressure to cover the entire tree.

Future infestations may be reduced somewhat by applying a preventive spray of 5 per cent DDT emulsion to the trunks only in late September or early October, and early in the spring. This will kill some of the moths before they are able to lay eggs.

Don't Follow Car Ahead Too Closely

Is Chief Accident Cause, Insurance Men Report

When you're loading your car for a vacation trip, or plotting your holiday route on a map, keep this in mind, says the Minnesota Insurance Information Center.

Once on the road, the distance you keep between your car and the car ahead may be the margin between life and death, or between an enjoyable trip and one marred by tragedy and heavy expenses.

The too-common practice of following the vehicle ahead too closely is the major cause of accidents on highways and freeways thruout the country, surveys have shown.

On freeways within Detroit, Michigan, for instance, eight out of every ten accidents last year were caused by one vehicle following another too closely. On freeways within Los Angeles County, this was the cause of 48 per cent of accidents, and on the Illinois Turnpike, it was blamed for almost 25 per cent of accidents.

In Minnesota last year, "tailgating" or "bumper chasing" was listed as the cause of 12,897 accidents, or 18 per cent of our total. And on a stretch of Highway 100 within Edina, Minnesota, the Edina police found that 70 per cent of all vehicle accidents were caused by following too closely.

What can the driver to to prevent such accidents?

He can remember statistics, such as this, that a car going at 60 miles per hour travels 88 feet per second. Therefore, if you are going at this speed and following a car by less than 88 feet, a collision is almost certain if the vehicle ahead stops suddenly or slows down for a turn.

He can also remember this rule of thumb suggested by driver educators and enforcement officials: allow one car length for each 10 miles per hour of speed to maintain safe following distances.

He can remember the law, which requires that a driver shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is "reasonably prudent, having due regard for the speed of such vehicles and the traffic upon and condition of highways".

BY MARY LUNDIN

THERE IS A TOUCH OF DRAMA in high school graduation no matter how casually a person views commencement exercises. When a person recalls his own high school days, it is strange how he remembers only the good things that made the process of education endurable if not enjoyable. And there is, admittedly, something which reaches down deep inside and tugs at a person's heart strings when the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" fill an auditorium packed with pride-reflecting faces.

Last week it was my priviledge to attend the first annual senior banquet and I was much impressed. I have called Thief River Falls home for just a little over a year, but I felt for this class a kindred spirit which cannot accurately be described. As each student, many of whom I have come to know personally, came forward to receive awards for extra-curricular work, I believe my pride in that student was almost as great as the student's pride in his own achievement.

This class of 174 students may well view its record with pride. Some outstanding individuals are included in the ranks and their accomplishments prove their ability to meet problems at hand, and formulate proper action. Musicians, scholars, athletes, artists, speakers and many other talents are included in the list of the 1962 class.

It is not without a trouch of remorse that I bid a collective farewell to this class from both a personal and journalistic standpoint. They have created a great deal of news which I have been happy to cover. Just as every other class in history, I presume the class of 1962 believes it is the best ever. It certainly is far from the worst.

To you, LHS graduates of 1962, my hat is raised in admiration. May your future be as bright as your horizon. May your problem bubbles burst in rays of splendor. May your fonest dreams become reality and may you give to society in increasing abundance the fruits of your knowledge, your talents and your abilities.

The gentleman apparently was uneasy about the dog frisking about his feet as he stood at a department store counter. "Don't be afraid of Felix," came the feminine voice from the other end of the leash, "he won't bite." "Madam," the man replied, "I'm not afraid that he'll bite. Today's poem was contributed by Mrs. Flora Allison of this city. Mrs. Allison has written a number of poems on a wide variety of subjects and is also working on a novel. Her daughter, Diane, is a member of this year's graduating class at Lincoln high school and has been awarded the Pennington County 40 et 8 nursing scholarship. The poem is especially timely today.

COMMENCEMENT

How brief was childhood's yesterday
When, small heart filled with nameless fear,
You clutched my hand for courage,
Reassured to find me there.
Tonight, a full-blown rose in gown of steely-blue,
Poised on slender, three-inch heels, it seems
Your eyes are fixed on some still-distant goal,
Shining with the grandeur of your dreams!
You take a firm, unwavering step,
And in your confidence seem scarce aware
That, somewhere in that sea of faces,
I, as in that yesteryear, still am there!
Your eyes don't seek me out tonight;
You do not need my hand
As, securely on the threshold
Of the beckoning world you stand . . .
This is in life's order, and yet something here inside
Knows one swift, lonely moment fraught with pain.
I smile, and give you to the world with pride—
The pain of loss forgotten, I am myself again.

Crow Wing State Park Is Now Open

Newest in System Is Ten Miles South of Brainerd

Crow Wing, one of the newest of Minnesota's 44 state parks, has one of the oldest historic backgrounds.

Located 10 miles south of Brainerd and one and a half miles west of Hwy. 371 where the Mississippi and Crow rivers converge, the 1,255 acre park was opened in 1961 and now is available for camping and picnicking. It is an excellent canoe area and muskellunge, northern small mouth bass and other fish are found in the river sytem.

In 1768 it was the site of the last major bid of the Sioux Indians to regain their prime hunting grounds in the Minnesota northwoods from the Chippewa. Eighteen years earlier the Sioux had been driven from the territory in the Battle of Kathio at Mille Lacs Lake. The counter attack by a force of about 500 Sioux failed at Crow Wing and left the Mississippi headwaters under Chippewa control.

A trading post was established in 1823 and the river there was the crossing point for the Red River ox carts. In 1852 the Rev. Francis X. Pierz established the first church in Minnesota north of St. Paul at the site. By 1866 Crow Wing was a going town with a population estimated at 600. With the coming of the railroad most of the townspeople moved to Brainerd, taking many of their buildings with them. Two cemeteries still remain.

Located in three counties—Cass, Crow Wing and Morrison—the park is wooded with jack pine and burr oak with a scattering of Norway and white pine. It includes a large island in the river.

The Minnesota division of state parks has constructed primitive sanitary facilities, roads and a well, U. W. Hella, state parks director, said.

April Traffic up Five Pct. in State

After a severe seven per cent drop in February of this year below the count made a year ago due to the unseasonal cold and snow, Minnesota's traffic volume for March rose to equal that of the previous year. Since then the count has risen sharply in April to five percent above that of last year.

Notable areas of increase are shown on U. S. 169, northeast of Chaska, due to the opening of Interstate highway 494; U. S. 53, south of Eveleth, the main artery from the iron range to the Port of Duluth; U. S. 52, north of Rochester and U. S. 14, west of Rochester, due to the expansion of the Rochester urban area. U. S. 10, north of Anoka, also shows a marked spring pickup which could be expected on one of the heavier traveled highways in the state. Likewise, on U. S. 75, south of Warren toward Moorhead.

Traffic data are furnished thru the operation of 31 automatic traffic recorders located at strategic points throughout the state under the supervision of the planning and programming division of the state highway department.

WHO NEEDS HAIL INSURANCE?

You do! There's no such thing as a "hail-free" area. That's why we're here . . . to provide dependable profit-protection for your crop. Dependable is a big word -- and $8-½ MILLION in hail losses paid by Dawson Hail Insurance in the past 5 years show what it means.

The figures prove protection, but what they CAN'T show is the prompt service we give if hail should strike your crop.

Capital Investments Boost Value of Farms

It's not just inflation.

A big reason average Minnesota farm real estate prices have risen 169 per cent since 1945 is that the land is actually worth more today than it was 16 years ago, according to Jerome E. Johnson and Philip M. Raup, University of Minnesota agricultural economists.

The economists point out that in appraising the long upward trend in farm real estate prices, it is important to recognize that significant capital investments have been made in rural lands.

Some of these investments have been made directly in the land, in the form of better drainage, leveling, improved cultivating practices coupled with various forms of contour farming, plus increased attention to fertility maintenance and improvement.

A major capital investment in the form of soil conservation activities has taken place under formally organized programs of the Soil Conservation Service, various agricultural price support and production control programs, and through increased managerial attention to better land management.

Other major capital investments supporting higher land prices can be found in the gradual improvement of rural road networks and in rural electrification.

In 1940, only 34 per cent of the farmers in Minnesota had electric power. By 1959, this figure was 98 per cent. The availability of electric power has triggered major capital investments in rural real estate. It has typically led to a rapid improvement in farm water supplies, with most of this investment taking the form of fixed improvements in the land and buildings.

Large sums have been invested in electric wiring and in the installation of plumbing systems and electrical fixtures, many of which are permanent improvements that contribute directly to an appreciated value of the rural property, say Johnson and Raup.

Less tangible investments in agriculture which have affected land prices are development of hybrid seeds, improved varieties, better concepts of plant and animal nutrition and improved skills in land management.

Johnson and Raup also point out that the presence or absence of good roads is a major force affecting long-term trends in the price of farm lands.

With the exception of the East Central and Northeast districts, the pattern in the state has been remarkably uniform: from 70 to 80 per cent of all farms have access to market on gravel or similar surfaced roads.

River Level Hits Peak in Crookston

City Apparently Safe from Serious Flooding

Crookston volunteers turned out en masse Thursday night and worked until past midnight sand bagging the Red Lake River, averting serious flooding in Sampson's addition.

The river, swelling rapidly for two days, showed signs of reaching an apparent crest of 20.21 feet at 11 a. m. Friday. Official readings of the river indicated the river's depth remained steady at 20.21 feet, the highest the river has reached this year.

More than 100 volunteers answered the call made by city officials about 6 p. m. Thursday. Construction of the sand bag dike in Sampson's addition along Pleasant avenue by city workers began Thursday morning in an effort to keep ahead of the flooding river.

The Red River shot up three feet in 24 hours to a gauge reading of 26.74 feet at Grand Forks Friday morning. The Thursday figure was 23.64.

River observers, however, stuck to their previous estimate that the new crest will approximately equal the April 21 peak of 30.99 feet. Flood stage is 28 feet, but no appreciable damage would be anticipated from a river level a few feet higher than that mark.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

I would like to share with you some of the common questions asked of a home agent.

"What is the difference in the nutritive values of ice cream and sherbert?"

Ice cream is prepared mainly with milk and sweetening agents and contains these nutrients. Sherbert is made from fruit or fruit juices, sweeteneing ingredients and usually small amounts of milk and egg white.

"Does the thawing juice from frozen meat have any nutritive value?"

Yes, because it contains small amounts of water-soluble nutrients.

"With melons now returning to the market, how can you determine a ripe one?"

Ripeness in most kinds of melons is indicated by the softening of the fruit. The odor of the melons becomes stronger and is most perceptible when it has reached full stage of ripeness. In some melsons a change in color is seen - a lighter to somewhat yellowish color.

With several families thinking about camping trips the question of ways to use dried eggs comes up. Dried egg may be used instead of fresh shell eggs in all baked foods and any egg product.

Two and one-half tablespoons of sifted dried egg powder plus an equal amount of water takes the place of one egg. In some recipes the dried egg can be sifted in with the other dry ingredients and the water is then added with the other liquid. It is also recommended to blend the dried egg with the water first and use it as an ordinary egg.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times;

Recently, I spent a leave in Berlin and thought it would be noteworthy to write to the "Time." Being a re-called reservist during the Berlin crisis I was discouraged at being recalled to active duty again, but having acquired a sketch of why we were recalled, I can see the purpose behind why we are in Berlin. It was a worthwhile experience viewing the differences between the two sectors.

The difference between East and West is unbelievable. I can well understand why the people of East Berlin desperately want to flee to the West.

I was fortunate to get on a bus tour of East Berlin. We started from "Checkpoint Charlie", the only access route to the East. There I noticed the irony of the wall. The wall and barricades looked foolish and awkward. It certainly shows how a communist city functions under stress, trying to aggravate the situation as much as possible. Yet, the wall is a very serious symbol and we all know what it represents. Both sides of the wall were well guarded and machine guns were placed at different buildings on the East side.

We were unable to take pictures during the tour with the exception of the Soviet Garden of Remembrance, which is a park built by Stalin after WW II in memory of the Soviet soldiers who died in Berlin. I might add that the garden is the only place in communist country that bears the name of Stalin.

The rest of the unfree city was pathetically behind in post-war reconstruction, with most of the buildings still showing the horrors of the war. In comparison to the West, the difference is like black and white. It looked like the war was still at a high peak. Considerable construction was in progress but most of the buildings were still half finished and some not completed after years. Bombed out buildings were visible everywhere. I know it gave me a feeling of sympathy for the people and contempt for the government responsible.

West Berlin is an altogether different city. It is a typical German city which looks ambitious and full of life. Many new buildings are an example of how a free nation can respond under an unusual situation.

The people are concerned over the Berlin situation but the concern reflects more of pity for the East Berliners, than of the square miles the communists control. So in my opinion we can say we are in Berlin for a much larger purpose than people realize. We can only be happy we are there in a "Cold War" and this situation is only an example of the Communists cold outlook on just life itself. I know being there has changed my mind on why we are in Berlin!

Editor Times;

The letter by John Moum suggesting that you pay his R. R. V. Home pledge and that he reimburse you when the school issue is settled reflects an understandable spirit of retaliation. I don't think you will pay it and I don't think you should but I do agree with John 100 per cent on one count.

There has been a lot written about the issue and I don't pretend to know all the answers. It seems to me, however, that with the defeat of the bond issue we are, in effect, going to a small loan company when we could just as well go to a bank for our needs.

Two wrongs do not make a right. To suggest a penalty of any worthwhile project such as the Red River Valley Home because of a school bond election is a mistake Ithink. I don't think John intended it that way but he did make his point.

An alternative proposal is the next step. Let's see how they compare and how the benefits balance.

Cordially,

Wesley Johnson

The Minnesota conservation department, division of state parks, announced today that the Lee plumbing and Heating Company of T. R. Falls is the low bidder on a job calling for replacement of the steel tank in the water and observation tower at Lake Bronson State Park.

Bid specifications call for removing the brick wall surrounding the present tank, installing the new tank and rebuilding the wall.

Two Out of Three Dogs Prefer City Pound To Freedom

Two out of three dogs prefer the city dog pound to home. This is the conclusion which can be drawn from an incident about noon Friday at the city dog pound located near the dump ground south of the city.

An unknown person used a 2x4 board to attempt to open the door, and when that broke used a piece of metal to break off the top of the door above the lock. Three dogs were impounded at the time and two refused to participate in the jail break. They were still there when city police checked the pound later in the day. The case is under investigation.

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson

Manager Chamber of Commerce

There is an island off the coast of California on which there is a Federal Penetentiary. It is known by everyone as Alcatraz and no man wants to go there.

The inmates who reside there are furnished all of the necessities of life at no cost to them. They have food, clothing, shelter, medical care, etc. They pay no taxes. Seemingly they have everything of major importance. But there is one thing they do not have and that is—freedom.

For many years now Congress has been forced to argue the pros and cons of social legislation including medical care plans. Recently the King-Anderson bill has received Madison Square Garden mob approval and also simultaneous, nationwide disapproval by the American Medical Association and many other groups including the United States Chamber of Commerce.

To say that all sincere and thinking people approve of such social measures would be the height of stupidity and naive. To say that politicians wishing only to perpetuate themselves in well-salaried, influential offices favor the measures perhaps would not be far wrong. We as individuals must decide what we are really for before these propositions will cease to threaten the very meaning of America.

If we expect our government to guarantee us security, subsistence, stabilization or what have you from the cradle to the grave and want our government to regulate our economy and our very lives—then we will be no better off than the inmates of Alcatraz because we will no longer have freedom either.

This is a crucial time in our history here in America because at this moment we have people who would flagrantly discard the very thing that our own grandfathers, fathers, husbands, sons, and brothers died to preserve. That is freedom.

Perhaps on Memorial Day we should each think twice about what we really believe in and take stock in just what is happening in this country. Maybe if we do that, more of us will find motivation enough to do something about it.

It's easy to be a toadstool, leaching from a log, but it takes courage to be an American and stand up for what it means. It shouldn't be difficult to decide which is right.

Let's remember that what we think and do is significant and important Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Thieves Tip Halstad Here on Sunday 13-5

Raking Halstad's youthful Nathan (Cactus) Warner for twelve hits, and scoring nine runs, in the first four innings of play, manager Joey Poole's senior baseball Thieves opened their 1962 Norman-Polk league play with a 13-5 win over Halstad in game played here Sunday afternoon.

The Thieves will meet the Crookston Pirates on Crookston's Highland Park diamond at 6:00 p. m. next Sunday, June 3rd.

Singles by Marv Lundin and Joey Poole, an error, and a single by Larry Gilbertson gave the Thieves a pair of runs in the first inning of Sunday's tilt here.

The locals added single tallies in the second and third, and then came up with a five-run cluster in the fourth. Larry (Buzz) Ward capped the Thieves' fourth inning rally with a double to the fence in right-center.

Righthander Jerry Mehlisch took over the Halstad pitching duties in the fifth, and he hurled a pair of runless and hitless innings before being tagged for five hits and two runs in the seventh and eighth innings.

Lefty Fred Jensen went the route for the locals, and the slick southpaw racked up thirteen strikeouts, gave up but three walks, and was rapped for but seven hits. One of these hits, though, was a home run by Mehlisch in the seventh.

Aquatennial Canoe Derby Starts July 7

Explorer Boy Scouts to Start Race at Bemidji

The scenic shores of the mighty Mississippi will pay an important role in the festive 1962 Minneapolis Aquatennial.

On July 7, seven days before the summer festival begins, hundreds of Explorer Scouts from throughout the Upper Midwest will launch their canoes in the headwaters of the Mississippi river at Bemidji for a grueling 285-mile journey to the finish line in Minneapolis.

First canoe to cross the line at Gray's Landing will mark the official beginning of ten days of Aquatennial fun and festivity in the City of Lakes.

Less than 24 hours after the Explorer Scouts have completed their journey, 100 cruisers will set out from Lake City and Stillwater (Minn.) for Minneapolis in the first Mississippi River Aquatennial Regatta.

Cruisers from Stillwater will come down the St. Croix River and meet the Lake City contingent for dinner at the Hastings (Minn.) armory Saturday night, July 14.

Skippers and crews will man their cruisers early Sunday morning for the final leg of their journey to Minneapolis. They will be met by Aquatennial Royalty at the University of Minnesota docks at 4 p. m. Sunday, July 15, and will join in the remainder of Aquatennial festivities that night.

Persons interested in participating in the Mississippi River Regatta should send their request to Anthony Lane, Regatta Commodore 7401 Wayzata Blvd., Minneapolis. Explorer Scout troops interested in the Aquatennial Canoe Derby may send their inquiries to Viking Council, Boy Scouts of America, Minneapolis 3, Minnesota.

FLOODED conditions from surplus water which spilled over river and ditch banks is shown in this areial photo taken near Grygla late last week. The picture is taken from northeast of the village and shows some of the flooded farmland which has resulted from steady spring rains. The water was noted to have crept into the north edge of the village and covered part of the baseball field north of the school.

9 POUNDS of walleye was a birthday present for M. L. Karlstad of 1007 Dewey av. N. when he went fishing Saturday at Baudette on Lake of the Woods. Karlstad was fishing from the bridge with a minnow for bait when the big fish hit. It was the angler's 78th birthday anniversary and the biggest fish he has caught in his many years of angling.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

You now can buy maps of your favorite fishing and hunting lakes at a price of $1 each—the only exceptions being Lake Vermillion in St. Louis County which is $6, and Long Lake in Hubbard County and Pelican Lake in St. Louis County which are $2. A 10 per cent discount is given for 10 or more maps of the same lake.

We should also mention that your credit is no good with the State of Minnesota, so you must pay in advance. Orders should be placed with the Documents Section, Department of Administration, 140 Centennial Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota. Be sure to list the name of the lake, the county, any additional information about the location, the number of copies you want, and include your name, address and check.

These maps are about 21" x 36" in size and show lake depth, inlets, outlets, bars, points of access, shore line developments and adjacent roads. The depth markings are not accurate enough for navigation so do not blame us if you hit a rock that was not shown on the map. As a matter of fact, this happened to me and I could get no sympathy around here.

Lake mapping started in Minnesota back in the thirties. In those days, and up until 1949, it was a winter job with men cutting holes in the ice and dropping lines down to get depth. In those days it would take a 10 or 12 man crew four days to map a 1,000 acre lake. Supplied with $1,000 worth of modern equipment, the job now is done in one-half day by two men. This equipment consists of a boat, motor, and echo sounder.

The echo sounder is a sonar type of gear which bounces sound waves off the bottom of the lake and records the time it takes them to get back. We have two two-man crews on this work now. They collect the field data for 150 lakes in one summer and spend the winter working up the maps and compiling the biological report. To date, over 2,300 fish lakes and 1,200 game lakes have been mapped.

This is one of the jobs carried on by our section of Research and Planning which is not research. Under the direction of Jerry Kuehn, these biologists not only map the lakes but prepare biological reports which include water chemistry, water temperatures, aquatic vegetation, bottom soils, kinds, numbers and sizes of fish, and, in the case of game lakes, wildlife food plants and wildlife use.

The purpose of this entire program is to improve fish management and game management. When completed these maps, along with the detailed reports, are submitted to the management people. Also included are recommendations for management such as stocking, rough fish removal, carp barriers, special regulations, water level controls, etc.

It might be nice to tell you sportsmen that these maps have been made just for your use, but this is not the case. Maps, along with the biological reports, are a means of improving lake management. However, we are very pleased that we have been able to work out an arrangement with the Documents Section in order that you can obtain the maps for your enjoyment and to improve your fishing.

Fargo Man Tops in Shortstop Tourney

Bob Dohm Wins Sunday in Championship Flight

Bob Dohm of Fargo won the championship flight honors in the shortstop golf tournament played here Sunday, but he required a pair of extra holes in order to edge out Mark Mathiason, also of Fargo, by one stroke. The first extra hole was halved with bogey 5's, but on the second hole, Dohm rammed in a twenty-foot putt for a four while Mathiason took a five.

Larry Perkins and Jim Haugstul were tied for third place honors, with each golfer having a 114-stroke total. And in the playoff, Perkins carded a four on the first hole while Haugstul scored a five.

SCIENCE TOPICS

EXPLODING STAR DWARFS H—BOMB

Exploding stars — called novae — are obscure stars which suddenly flash in the sky with a burst of light many millions of times as bright as the sun, reports Dr. Robert P. Kraft of the Mount Wilson Observatory in California. These phenomena, which have been observed for centuries, emit as much power in one burst as trillions of the most powerful hydrogen bombs the scientist says. Most novae flash only once, but there are recurrent types which flare up periodically at intervals of from 10 to 100 years.

A microcalorimeter is awaited anxiously by chemists at the University of Colorado. The device, a 50-pound block of copper, measures tiny amounts of heat radiated over a long period. The chemists hope to import it from France duty-free. If Congress waives the duty, the microcalorimeter will be put to work in the study of the heat effect of chemical interaction in large biological molecules.

Prowler Track Men 1st in Region 8 Meet

Paced by the twenty-point performance of Paul Klungness, and adding first-place points on Brian Lofberg's winning toss in the discus; on Rolf Wangberg's record-breaking effort in the mile run; and the record-breaking by the 80-yard relay foursome, coach Rod Max's Prowlers scored a decisive win in the Region Eight track and field tournament held at Bemidji State College on Saturday. The Prowlers amassed a total of 53 points to easily outdistance the runner-up Crookston Pirates, who had total of 20¾ points. The Bemidji Lumberjacks scored 18½ points; Roseau tallied 14¼ points; Littlefork scored 13 points; Park Rapids had 9¾ points; East Grand Forks and Bagley, 8 points apiece; and Warren and Twin Valley, 7 points each.

Three records were broken during the meet. The Prowlers' 880-yard relay team of Don Nicholson, Arvid Lee, Orrin Joppru, and Gary Klungness turned in a time of 1:35.7, bettering the old mark of 1:36 set by Bemidji in 1958. Rolf Wangberg pared three seconds off Larry Krohn's mile run record, setting a mark of 4:40.4. Krohn, a Prowler squad member back in 1958, ran the mile in 4:43.3.

The Crookston mile relay team of Mark Stephens, Roger Moe Chuck Hannah, and Ron Carpenter set a mark of 3:38.6 to better the old mark of 3:39.8 set by the Roseau foursome of Jim Johnson, Rod Nelson, Gary Sonsteguard, and Ed Balauca in 1958.

Paul Klungness, duplicating his performance in the district tourney won firsts in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump.

Shot put-won by Ray Gibbons (EGF); 2nd, Swenson (Ros.); 3rd, Lysaker (Crox.); 4th, Lee (Hendrum) 5th, Baker (Hallock). Distance—5 feet, ¾ inch.

Warren Bows to Prowler Nine 17-6

In an erratic and high-scoring game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Friday night, coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers defeated the Warren Ponies, 17-6. On Monday afternoon, with game time slated for 4:30 p. m., the Prowlers will meet the Crookston Central team on the Fair Grounds diamond. The game will conclude the 1962 schedule for the locals, and on Wednesday night in an 8:30 p. m., game, the Prowlers will face Warren in District 31 first round game at Red Lake Falls.

In Friday night's game, loose pitching and unsteady fielding marred the play of the two teams. The hurlers, Tony Poole for the Prowlers and Tom Ward and Jerry Cook for Warren, gave up total of 25 bases on balls, hit seven batsmen, and uncorked seven wild pitches. The Prowlers made four errors afield, while the Ponies committed eight miscues.

Warren gained a 4-1 lead in the top half of the second inning when, with three men on bases, Cook lined a home run over the left-field fence. The Prowlers came back in the last half of the inning to plate eight runs, with Mike Aune's triple to the fence in right-center with the bases loaded, being the "big" hit of the rally.

Pheasant Count Now in Progress

The annual roadside pheasant count is now underway in 60 counties, the Conservation Department reports.

The spring count is taken each year to estimate the number of birds available during the breeding season and to form an idea of mortality over the winter.

On to the State Meet

Coach Rod Max and his assistant Quent Jones will take a nine-man Prowler contingent to the state high school track and field tournament in Minneapolis Tuesday, June 5.

The nine Prowlers, who well-earned their right to participate in the state tournament by their performances in the Region Eight meet on Saturday, are Paul Klungness in the dashes, the low hurdles, and the broad jump; Gary Klungness in the broad jump and the 880-yard relay; Rolf Wangberg in the mile run; Steve Mittelstadt in the high jump; Brian Lofberg in the discus throw; Rick Wold in the 440-yard dash; and Don Nicholson, Arvid Lee, and Orrin Joppru in the 880-yard relay.

There were a number of thrilling and exciting performances in the regional meet on Saturday. From a Prowler point of view the most exciting was the 880-yard relay, with Gary Klungness, who ran the anchor leg, coming from five yards behind to nip the Bagley relay anchor by a yard at the tape. Gary was really pumping those sturdy legs of his as he came around the far turn.

And the final event on the fourteen-event program, the mile relay, was a crowd-pleaser. The Crookston mile relay squad was pushed to a new Region Eight mark in order to defeat the Bemidji foursome. And the result of the race hinged on the duel between Crookston's Ron Carpenter and Bemidji's Dennis Aguiar, who won the 440-yard dash, gained a stride lead with fifty yards to go, but Crookston's Carpenter, who has a fine "kick", came bak to pull ahead of the Lumberjack runner and win by a yard.

And the Prowlers' Rolf Wangberg was impressive as he set a new record in the mile run, breaking Larry Krohn's old record. Rolf, who ran the mile in 4:40.4, was pushed all the way by Greenbush's Mikash, the District 32 mile champion. Rolf's pace throughout the four laps sapped considerable strength from Mikash's finishing "kick", and the Prowler runner had a comfortable margin of five yards as he crossed the finish line.

Softball League Notes

Gene Sack, supervisor of the city softball league, announced that the 1962 league schedule will open on Monday, June 4.

Six teams—Thief River Grain, Hamm's Beer, Hartz Stores, Holsum Bread, Bridgeman's, and the V. F. W.—will engage in a double round-robin schedule. The games, which will be played on the East Side diamond, will begin at 6:30 p. m. Games that are postponed because of rain or wet grounds, or other reasons, will be played on the Wednesday following the postponement.

The regular schedule will be completed on Thursday, August 9, and the four top teams in the league standings will then engage in a playoff. The playoffs are slated to start on August 13.

Prospective players who have not been contacted by the team managers, and who are anxious for a tryout with a team, should call Gene at MU1-1188. All players who bat over .400, and who can make running backhanded catches, and who can throw a softball more than a block, are requested to call Bobby Carlson of the Bridgeman's. According to Bob, that's the only kind of players who can break into the Bridgeman's lineup

Miscellany

John Lysaker, the hard-running backfielder on the Crookston Pirates' football squad the past couple of seasons, will enroll at the University of Wisconsin next fall. John, who had just returned from a visit to the Madison campus, stated that he had signed a "tender" at Wisconsin . . . Lee Fawbush, all-state selection in football and basketball while a member of the Bemidji high school Lumberjacks a year ago, is completing his freshman year at Wisconsin. The reports are that Fawbush may gain a starting berth in the Badgers' defensive unit next fall. The Badger coaching staff has been impressed by Lee's defensive ability during the spring practice sessions. . . It is rumored that Jack Nielson, the former Baudette high school all-round athlete, has become disillusioned with Minnesota football, and that he has quit the Gopher football squad. Nielson, the holder of three Region Eight conference track records, which he set last year, is a freshman at Minnesota this season. It is probable that the Minnesota coaching staff handles the "star" athletes quite roughly, and for the purposes of removing all the prima donna tendencies of the athletes. . . . Arlan Hjelle, smooth-throwing righthander for the Prowlers and the Thieves the past several seasons, will be pitching for the Bemidji Chiefs of the Paul Bunyan league this year. Arlen is attending Bemidji State College. . . . Quent Jones, who has been giving invaluable assistance to Prowler track coach Rod Max, received a reminder on Saturday that the years are fleeting by quite quickly. Some years ago, when Quent was coaching track at Park Rapids, one of his star performers was Gary Shuckhart. Gary was Region Eight winner in the high jump event, and participated in the state tournament. And on Saturday in the Region Eight meet at Bemidji, Gary's son participated in high jump event. As Quent said, "The years surely race by.". . . The Ada Vikings, defending district 30 baseball champions, were shorn of their title last week when, in a sub-district game, they dropped a 5-1 decision to the Fertile Falcons and righthander Rod Olson. Olson gave up but three hits to the Ada club.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume Fifty-one Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, May 28, 1962 Number Forty-three

Analysis of Highway Mishaps in Past Year

Thirteen per cent or 9,624 of the 71,646 motor vehicle traffic accidents which occurred on Minnesota roadways during 1961; occurred on the 10,000 mile rural trunk highway network. In these 9,624 accidents, 321 persons were killed and 6,841 were injured. The number of persons killed decreased 2 per cent and the number of persons injured increased 5 per cent when comparing 1961 to 1960. The total of 9,624 accidents was composed of 268 fatal accidents, 3,541 personal injury accidents and 5,815 property damage accidents.

An indication of the higher severity associated with rural trunk highway accidents can be seen in the following figures: three of every 100 accidents resulted in a fatality, and 37 of every 100 accidents resulted in a personal injury so that 40 per cent of the accidents resulted in either death or injury. However, in the all-accident picture for the state of Minnesota, one in each 100 accidents resulted in a fatality while 30 in every 100 accidents resulted in a personal injury. In other words, 31 per cent of all accidents resulted in either death or injury.

Speed was cited as a contributing circumstance in 12.7 per cent of all 1961 traffic accidents, but in 21.7 per cent of the accidents reported as occurring on the rural trunk highway system. In 31 per cent of the fatal accidents occurring on the rural trunks, speed was cited as a major factor contributing to the accident. "A Study of the Relationship of Drinking and Speeding to Accident Severity", published by this department in 1959, has previously demonstrated that a relationship exists between these factors and the severity of accidents. The information in this year's tabulation continues to amplify the results of the 1959 study.

Sixty-two per cent of all rural trunk highway accidents and 51 per cent of the fatal accidents involved crashes between two or more motor vehicles. Twenty-nine per cent of the fatal accidents occurred when a vehicle rann off the roadway.

Driver drinking is treated as a driver condition, a separate subject, from contributing circumstances. Reports on 1961 rural trunk highway accidents indicated that 16 per cent involved one or more drinking drivers, but that 41 per cent of the fatal accidents involved one or more drinking drivers while 22 per cent of the personal injury accidents involved one or more drivers who had been drinking.

In 11 per cent of all the accidents occurring on all streets and roadways in Minnesota during 1961 one or more drivers had been drinking, but in 30 per cent of the fatal accidents and in 16 per cent of the personal injury accidents one or more drivers had been drinking. This would indicate that drinking is involved in rural trunk highway accidents nearly 1½ times as often as it is in accidents occurring on all road systems of this state.

The death rate, 6.1, per 100 million vehicle miles on the rural trunk highways was six per cent lower than the death rate, 6.5, for 1960, and the fatal accident rate was two per cent less than in 1960.

PUBLIC OPINION

Dear Editor:

There are several factors which need our attention: We are in agreement with one thing. Something should be done about the Valley Christian Home. However, there is no emergency as far as we can see. There is reasonable doubt that a two story structure is suitable as we have reason to believe a one story plan is cheaper. We do not like the location, since these people do not drive, it's such a distance to come in to cash our soil bank checks and vote. Can't we add a few more rooms to the present home? Our pocketbook justifies a practical approach. This whole program should have a re-examination before expansion is given serious consideration.

I think fluoridation program is also an added expense to the taxpayer. We old folks who are in a majority have false teeth and the young people can buy tooth paste and supply their need. It is questionable whether this has done much good.

I also question the airport, the expense to the taxpayer. This has not encouraged industry. It is my opinion that we need labor unions and less personal property tax to take care of this matter. Furthmore the Soo Line Railroad has contributed much to the community and what has the airport contributed?

They are tearing up perfectly good roads in town. In Rome they use roads approximately 2000 years old. I believe we should install parking meters to pay for this extravagance.

I see the editor does not agree with me on the King Anderson Bill. Our older generation does not want to be a burden on the young and under this plan we would not. We old people must support this, and I'm sure the younger people will agree with us since they look to the future.

Its my opinion that we hire efficiency experts to get our city out of the present condition and also get a city manager.

Harry A. Meyers

Editor Times:

As county office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office I must take exception to your editorial of May 24 which is headed, "Does It Make Sense?"

Your editorial indicated that you were somewhat confused relative to the act.

Now let's take a realistic look at the legislation. This law was sponsored by Senator Young of North Dakota and passed by the Congress almost unanimously, and was signed by the President on May 15. The law provided that the Secretary of Agriculture could permit the seeding of flax on diverted acres removed from production under the Feed Grain and Wheat Stabilization Program.

It further provided that the Secretary could permit the seeding of flax on the diverted acreage and still compensate the producer on the acreage from zero to 50 per cent of the payment that he would receive.

On May 18 the Secretary announced that no compensation would be paid the producer if flax was seeded on the diverted acreage.

Mr. Editor, it appears that you called a strike before the pitcher released the ball.

Patrick W. Culkins, Office Mgr.
Penn. County ASCS Office

Editor's Note:

Sorry, Pat, I was not aware that the secretary of Agriculture had acted as you say he did. I believe, however, that question should not be discretionary with him. The law still does not make sense. —Editor

"We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."
— Abraham Lincoln

The Chinese Need Help

We wish satisfactory arrangements could be made to rovide a measure of famine relief for the people of China. There are diplomatic complications that make it difficult but perhaps a way can be found to surmount the difficulties.

Our difficulties are with the Communist government of China, not with the Chinese people. We have fought bitter wars with the governments of Germany and Japan. Our relations with the people of Germany and Japan are now good. There will come a time, all hope, when our relations with the people of China will be friendly and peaceful.

The Chinese are a great people with a cultural background that is not only interesting but in some respects is remarkable. The Chinese people need help. Maybe food would be more effective ammunition in gaining their confidence and friendship than bullets and bombs.

An Hour of Doubt

For a while it seemed that well-wishers had started cheering astronaut Scott Carpenter's space flight prematurely Thursday. Success seemed assured. He was returning to Earth on schedule. Then trouble developed and the ground crews lost contact with him. The place of landing was not known and he was not spotted until 35 minutes after his Aurora 7 spacecraft had set down on the Atlantic 200 miles beyond its target. After nearly three hours in a life raft he was picked up by a helicopter.

Carpenter, a 37-year-old Navy Lieutenant Commander, became the 4th American to travel in space and the second to orbit the earth. If we may judge the reaction of others by our own, there was little cheering when the news finally was flashed around the world revealing the fact that he was safe. We are sure the news prompted more sighs of relief than cheers.

He deserves a lot of cheers in an official testimonial welcome.

Father and Son

Ten years ago President Kennedy's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, made the following statement as quoted by Roger Spear in the San Francisco Examiner. Discussing the problems of business he said.

> "You can know trends and the principles of the Stock Market, you can work out charts and tables, and in five minutes someone in Washington is going to knock you into a cocked hat."

It seems that the old gentleman didn't think much of politicians either.

In the Meantime

European countries are enjoying unprecedented prosperity. Much of this prosperity no doubt is due to mechanization and mass production. In back of this however, one of the things that encourages mass production, is the common market and the lowering of trade barriers.

President Kennedy is hopeful that the European common market will be extended to a North-Atlantic-organization and that our country will be included. That would be desirable from the standpoint of both economic and political considerations. It could be a most effective union as a defense against Communism.

But we have no assurance that the present leaders of the European common market want us to join their company. Some of them are thinking in terms of greater political unity among their present members, forming a United States of Europe. They have indicated that they would welcome Britain to membership under certain conditions. President de Gaulle of France has expressed opposition to any inclusion of the British Commonwealth. Commenting on this, the Manchester (England) Guardian says.

> "The evidence at present is that President de Gaulle would welcome a Britain which was in his eyes truly European. A country which has such extensive ties of politics, commerce, and defence outside Europe is suspect, and there has been little evidence from Paris that Britain's connections are considered a European asset. This will be an important issue for Mr. Macmillan to explore when the two leaders meet next month."

The Guardian points out that the situation is made no easier by the suggestions that the primary object of unity in Europe should be self-sufficiency. President de Gaulle still favors NATO but he has been vague about its functions. On this point the Guardian states:

> "Obviously he has no thought of leaving Western Europe without the protection of the United States, but the whole trend of his thought is towards independence. In what he has to say about Berlin he makes this particularly clear. Nothing can be done about Berlin, he says, until there is an equilibrium between East and West in Europe. If this means anything at all, it is that Western Europe must have strength enough to treat with the Russians on its own."

The present uncertainty probably will become more uncertain because of the inevitability of change in the leadership of European nations. Most of the present leaders are well along in years and probably will not be present when these matters are acted upon. There will be many meetings and much discussion before agreement on the important issues is reached.

In the meantime better we start doing a better job in the management of our own affairs. We have drifted too long with the crazy idea that we should be paid more for doing less work, and our present wage and salary scales are far out of balance with those of other industrial countries. We have made little progress in solving our unemployment problem mainly because we have become less competitive. At one time our dollar was as good as gold and was acceptable on that basis thruout the wrold. Now it is suspect.

Our problem is serious and it is not going to be solved by fancy speeches an fuzzy thinking. If we are to survive as a free nation we will have to get down to some serious belt-tightening and a lot of straight thinking.

Learning the Facts

Labor leaders no doubt have their problems, as we all do. They must retain the confidence of the rank and file members of their organizations. In order to retain that confidence they probably have to resort to considerable shadow boxing to make it appear that they are fighting a terrific battle. That, of course, is understandable.

But the leaders of the well-organized unions are getting good advice on important economic problems. We are sure they hear both sides of the arguments from their own advisers. As an example of this is the following statement made by Stanley Ruttenberg, director of research for the AFL-CIO. Talking about Common Market problems he stated:

> ". . . Can we create more employment and higher levels of living by refusing to accept the products of other countries in the United States? . . . We cannot reduce our imports unless we are also willing to reduce our exports . . . we cannot reduce our exports without suffering catastrophic effects on our economy.
> "About 4.5 million American jobs are either directly or indirectly dependent upon exports . . . approximately one-tenth of this number of jobs would be threatened by a complete liberalization of trade.
> "In these terms we can see where the real opportunity for American industry—and American workers—lies. It lies in continuing to develop our trade with the world. We have much more to gain by expanding our exports than by restricting our imports.
> "This does not mean that we should neglect or ignore the workers who are hurt—through no fault of their own—by a liberalized trade policy. But there are ways of taking care of their needs without damaging the whole economy"

That brief statement sets forth the facts very clearly. He apparently is not one of the front men for the organization but it is comforting to know that when the front men are making their decisions he is being heard.

Ruttenberg knows that our nation must have trade with foreign nations; that in order to sell to them we must also buy from them, and that we must remain competitive. American labor has just as great an interest in being industrially competitive as has industry itself.

More Withholding?

The administration is asking congress to pass a withhoding tax on interest and dividends. President Kennedy says it will effect adversely only "those individuals who are not paying the taxes they owe on this income, either through neglect or for some other reasons."

But the commissioner of internal revenue has stated that it is estimated that more than $200 million will be "over-withheld" under this plan and that these people would have to appy to the government for quarterly refunds.

We are not informed on the mechanics of the proposed law but we presume that if there is to be withholding for some there will have to be withholding for all and that's going to involve a lot of reporting by individual citizens as well as businesses of all types.

The person who owes a charge account at a store presumaby would have to report to the federal government the number of pennies paid in interest each month on such an account and how much had been withheld, the fraction of a cent "enclosed herewith." A lot of good Democrats would get jobs keeping the government's records of these nickel and dime transactions.

Would the government collect as much extra as the colletcing would cost?

Interesting Opinions

"Fear of hell or the hangman has doubtless kept many a distracted soul from crime, but it will take much more than fear of these to build the good society. Virtue must grow inwardly. To impose it from without may gain temporary success but almost always ends in final failure."

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

The Calix Society

A week ago last Sunday I attended the concluding breakfast program of the International Assembly of the Calix Society and the Calix auxiliary.

This is an organization of Catholic Recovered Alcoholics. About 95 per cent of the members obtained sobriety through Alcoholics Anonymous, and are therefore also active members of AA.

It was a thrilling experience to see several hundred men and women, most of whom had lost complete control of their lives due to addiction to alcohol but had found their way back to sobriety and well managed lives, now dedicated and consecrated.

Except for drug addiction, I believe that alcohol addiction is the worst thing that can happen to a person. It utterly destroys the individual, brings havoc to a family, is costly to society, and is most difficult of correction.

Dr. Claude J. Ehrenberg of the University of Minnesota gave a talk on alcoholism addiction. He ranked alcoholism with cancer and heart disease as the three great destroyers of human life. He indicated that 5 per cent of all of the drinking population become addicts. The reason why some people become uncontrollable drinkers and alcoholics while others can remain as heavy drinkers, is not known.

The difference is one of management and control of the habit or addiction. Mention was made of some of the signposts along the road to alcoholism. It starts with drinking as a social adjunct. Gradually the amount consumed increases and a person becomes dependent upon liquor, looking for the effect of the drinking, and consuming drinks more rapidly than earlier.

In the third stage there is not absolute dependence on liquor of reaction beyond control, but the drinker is beginning to be concerned about his drinking realizing that it has grown in amount, and that he is becoming to rely on it very much.

The fourth stage is when the person has actually lost control, but resists any attempt to interfere with his drinking. Intoxication then becomes a way of life, all sorts of devices are used to hide the complete surrender to drink, the problem is either denied or justified, the drinker becomes defiant and family problems of the most serious nature develop.

When the person realizes that his life has become unmanageable and a drinking addiction is beyond all control he is a good prospect for Alcoholics Anonymous.

One of the first things a new member of Alcoholics Anonymous is led to understand, is that he must look to God, however he interprets God, for help. He comes to realize the need for spiritual guidance and assistance. Alcoholics Anonymous has 12 steps along the road to sobriety and its program has been the most successful in rehabilitating individuals.

Upon attaining sobriety, a person does not cease to be an alcoholic. Once a person has traveled the road down to alcoholism, he can never return to any kind of drinking whatever. There must be total and absolute abstinence.

The Calix Society builds on the spiritual experience that the Catholic alcoholic has had through Alcoholics Anonymous and leads the alcoholic to a full and complete experience with his Catholic church.

I know of no counterpart of Calix among the Protestant churches, but I think it would be a wonderful thing if it were to develop.

Anyone reading this column who feels a concern about drinking or has a loved one caught in the net of addiction, should make contact with Alcoholics Anonymous and for the Catholic this could lead through the Calix Society, to a new, rich, and meaningful life.

Who says the aged are all alike?
we oppose "pea-pod" legislation drafting our senior citizens into a federally-controlled system of standardized medical care
But that's what the proposed King-Anderson Bill would do. It forgets that some of the aged are rich, most are self-sufficient, and some are poor . . . that most are healthy, some are not.
We physicians believe that those in the over 65 age group who need financial help should get it, which is why we supported — and continue to support — the Kerr-Mills Law now on the books. We do not believe that 17,000,000 older Americans are identical in terms of medical need and financial capability. That's why we urge you to oppose the King-Anderson Bill, and tell your congressman and senators so.
The "pea-pod" measure now before Congress is a compulsory national health plan for one segment of the population — the aged covered by Social Security. Its backers claim the bill is necessary because most of the aged are in poor health; most are verging on bankruptcy; and our present methods for helping those who need help are inadequate. But these are the facts:
Surveys show that relatively few of the aged are in poor health . . . that only 14 per cent experience any significant limitation of physical activity . . . that only 5 per cent have major limitations of activity . . . that most are in good health.
Surveys also show that those over 65 are in better financial circumstances than other age groups . . . that most, like the rest of us, are neither destitute nor rich, but somewhere in between. The King-Anderson Bill would create a compulsory government program covering millions financially able to take care of themselves. The cost of such a scheme would be staggering to the taxpayer. Its administration would require the creation of an enormous bureaucracy.
- Voluntary health insurance and prepayment plans now cover 132 million Americans — including more than 53 per cent of the aged — with coverage growing phenomenally year by year.
- The intensified efforts of individual citizens at the community level contribute increasingly to the solution of the overall problem.
- The new Kerr-Mills Law is being implemented rapidly. It provides for federal grants to the individual states, enabling them to provide health care to those who need help.
We believe that voluntary health insurance, private efforts, and the Kerr-Mills Law — together — assure the aged of first-class medical care.
Again, we urge you to write your congressman and senators. Ask them to vote against the proposed King-Anderson Bill and support the Kerr-Mills Law.

Physicians Tell How to Combat Poison Ivy

Non one is immune to the painful skin reaction caused by the milky, oily substance found on poison ivy, oak or sumac, says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

The oily poisonous substance can even be transmitted by handling golf balls, shoes, boots or other sporting equipment which has come in contact with the plant.

Poisoning by accidently burning these plants along with grass, leaves, or brush, is possible because the minute poisonous oil vapors vapors are carried through the air by the smoke and are deposited on the clothes and skin.

Poison ivy is the most common offender in Minnesota and may be identified by its cluster of three leaflets, each about three inches in length. Usually the leaflet edges have several teeth or notches. The leaves, which are green in summer change to hues of red in the fall. In most cases, the poison ivy plant does not grow taller than twelve inches. However, it will climb taller trees and plants.

Poison oak like poison ivy, is a member of the sumac family. Its characteristics are very similar to those of poison ivy. The distinguishing difference lies in the deeper notches of the leaves.

Poison sumac may, at times, reach a height of twenty feet. It can be distinguished from other members of the sumac family by its drooping cluster of white berries.

To prevent posoning, persons who must work near or with these plants are advised to apply an ointment containing ten per cent sodium perborate to the exposed areas of the body. They should wash thoroughly to remove all ointment within three or four hours following exposure. It is also advisable to remove and wash or dry clean clothes which have come in contact with the plants.

Patches or red, slightly swollen skin accompanied by severe itching and burning sensations are early symptoms. These symptoms may appear, within a period of six hours to a week after contact with the plant.

When you suspect you have been exposed to poison ivy, oak or sumac, wash the affected area with hot water and laundry soap or a detergent, apply rubbing alcohol. When blisters have already appeared, apply calamine lotion rather than rubbing alcohol. Don't scratch. Scratching will cause the condition to spread. Consult a physician if healing does not begin within two weeks.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862—the same year that

IN MINNESOTA, the St. Paul and Pacific, the first railroad to move a wheel in the state, began regular passenger service on July 2. Proud Minnesotans toasted the new railroad with foaming steins of beer.

For then as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The Brewing Industry contributes more than 4 million tax dollars to Minnesota each year, money that helps support our parks, hospitals and schools.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Plans For Dairy Day Near Completion Here

Final arrangements are being made this week for the 13th annual Northwest Dairy Day to be held Tuesday, June 12, in Thief River Falls. Approximately 300 dairy calves of six major breeds are expected to be entered in the event from an 11 county area and 33 girls, previously screened at county contests, will vie for the title of Northwest Dairy Princess and a trip to the state fair to compete for the title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Entry blanks for calves to be entered in the dairy event are now past due, according to Roland K. Larson, secretary of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day. Cattle judges will be Henry Bartel of the Beau Vache farm at Hastings and Olaf Kjomme of Spring Grove.

County contests are virtually completed in the princess competition and three winners from each county are preparing for regional competition. Miss Betty Johnson, Badger, will crown her successor at the contest.

A registered, purebred Guernsey heifer has been selected by the Dairy Day committee to be awarded to last year's exhibitor of the grand champion grade dairy animal. Grand champion grade animal exhibitor this year will again receive a purebred dairy calf of his choice and the grand champion purebred winner will receive a trip to the Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Congress.

The local committee feels that a multi-county prison work farm could best be started in the area as a state pilot project.

Turkey Referendum Topic of Meeting in TRF Next Wednesday

Beginning Thursday this week, nine educational meetings will be held in Minnesota to explain the proposed turkey marketing order which will be voted on in a national referendum June 18-22. One of the series will be held in the Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening, June 6 at 8 o'clock.

Another will be held Thursday, June 7 at 8 p. m. in the Roseau municipal auditoirum.

ASCS and agricultural extension service representatives will be present to explain the proposed marketing order and the referendum.

Developed at the request of the turkey industry, the proposed program is designed to provide for the orderly marketing of turkeys as a means of achieving fair prices for growers and consumers. The order's provisions would be put into operaton only when needed, as determined by representatives of the industry.

Eligible turkey producers will vote on the marketing order at ASCS county and state offices during the period June 18 through 22. Before it can be put into effect, the order must be approved by at least two-thirds of the producers voting, by number or by volume of their production.

Growers must have marketed more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys during the marketing year February 1, 1961, through January 31, 1962, in order to be eligible to cast ballots in referendum.

Additional information concerning the marketing order and the series of educational meetings may be obtained in county ASCS and agricultural extension offices.

The Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, which is opposing national marketing orders, including the one proposed for the turkey industry, will present its views at a meeting in the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls Monday evening, June 11, at 9 p. m.

Cancel District Scout Camporee

Excessive Rains Blamed for Postponing Event

The Pen-Ro-Shall District Boy Scout Camporee which was scheduled to be held this weekend, June 1-2-3, for Scout Troops in Pennington, and Roseau counties, and the east half of Marshall County, has been cancelled, according to N. Quentin Jones, district camping and activities chairman.

Excessive rains have caused the camporee site at the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge to be unusable, necessitating the cancellation.

Instead of the camporee, and to make practical use of the time spent by Troops in preparation, Jones is recommending that each Troop hold a Troop Camporee in or near their local community, conducting it on an inter-Patrol basis around activities, events and program which was developed for the district camporee.

The District Camporee, Jones said, will be held early in September shortly after the start of school.

DFL Endorses Karl Rolvaag for Governor

State Convention Acts as Expected at Duluth Sunday

As had been expected, Lieutenant Governor Karl Rolvaag of Northfield easily won endorsement as the DFL candidate for governor of Minnesota at the party's state convention in Duluth Sunday.

Endorsed as Rolvaag's running mate for the office of lieutenant governor was State Senator A. M. Keith of Rochester, who won on the second ballot, defeating Gerald Dillon, Minneapolis businessman, and Paul Skjervold, Minneapolis attorney.

Veteran railroad and warehouse commissioner Paul Rasmussen survived an attempt to refuse him endorsement to win a thumping victory over a political newcomer.

Delegates gave rousing endorsements opposing the Northern Pacific-Great Northern railrad merger and another urging that legislation rather than constitutional amendments to be used to help the iron mining industry — the latter an obvious reference to the controversial taconite ammendment.

Rasmussen, a veteran of 10 years on the commission and of more than 30 years in DFL politics, won an uphill fight that broke into the open when none of the eight district conventions gave him endorsement.

He lost another round in the convention's endorsing committee, where Minneapolis lawyer Lee Corcoran got the nod, 9-7.

On the convention floor, Rasmussen, 66, made a personal appeal and called himself a "victim of innuendo." And he got the backing of such veterans as House Speaker Ed Chilgren, Rep. Francis LaBrosse of Duluth and railroad labor leader Elmer Berglund.

Corcoran got 409 votes to 587 for Rasmussen but the 31-year-old Minneapolis man immediately moved to make it unanimous for Rasmussen, and the fight was over.

In party business, Arthur Carlson of Lake Park was elected state DFL treasurer. George Farr was re-elected state chairman Saturday.

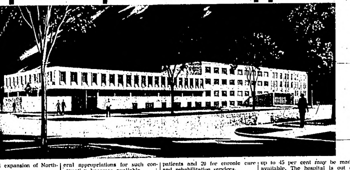
Hospital Expansion Is Approved



A proposed expansion of Northwestern Hospital has been approved by the state advisory council on hospital construction and by the State Board of Health, Norman Peterson, hospital administrator, was informed this week. This means that the project is eligible for Hill-Burton assistance as federal appropriations for such construction becomes available.

The expansion will consist of an addition northward to First St. on the present site of the Christian Science church which is being acquired. Along with other facilities, the addition will make available 36 more beds, 16 of which will be for convalescent and nursing care patients and 20 for chronic care and rehabilitation services.

The present utilities such as the heating plant, kitchen and laundry are adequate, according to the architect firm of Bettenburg, Stolte, Townsend and Comb, which designed the first addition. The cost is estimated at approximately $700,000 for which Hill Burton funds up to 45 per cent may be made available. The hospital is out of debt, according to Mr. Peterson, who states that the board of trustees is satisfied that the expansion program can be carried out without any solicitation of funds.

Construction of the addition would not be started until 1963 at the earliest.

Ask Turkey Growers to Learn If Eligible to Vote June 18 to 22

Turkey producer-growers and contract-producers who have not already done so should contact their ASCS county offices immediately to determine their eligibility to vote on the proposed national turkey marketing order and to certify the quantity of turkeys they marketed in 1961, Winton Knutson, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Those eligible to vote in the referendum will include "producer-growers" who marketed more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys in 1961, and "contract-producers" who in 1961 had a risk-of-loss contract in turkeys produced by a producer-grower.

The chairman explained that the general voting on the turkey marketing order will extend from June 18 through 22, at the ASCS county office where the producer's certifications are filed. However, cooperatives desiring to vote for their members and contract-producers must file certifications by June 8 with the State ASCS office for the State in which their principal place of business is located; if they operate only in one county, they would file their certifications in that county.

To become effective, the turkey marketing order must be approved by at least two-thirds of the producers voting, by number or by volume of their production. If the order is approved, growers would then have two market supply-management measures available to them whenever needed as determined and operated by an Industry Administrative Committee.

Under one method, the quantity of turkeys handlers could acquire from producers would be limited to producer "allotments." The other method would require handlers to set aside quantities of turkeys considered surplus for a marketing year or period. Such turkeys could not be marketed in normal channels. The set-asides would be disposed of by the Industry Administrative Committee, and net proceeds from the eventual sale of the set-aside pool would be distributed to producers.

Only the second-described method could be used for 1962 should producers approve the turkey marketing order in the June referendum.

'62-crop Oats Price Support Set at 52c

Same Rate as Last Year Fixed for Marshall Co.

The price support rate for 1962-crop oats in Marshall county will be 52 cents per bushel for Grade No. 3 oats, Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, has announced. This is the same rate that was in effect for the 1961 oats crop.

Oats eligible for support must grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only. Premiums and discounts which are applied for grade and quality to determine individual producer support rates are unchanged from the 1961 program.

Johnson pointed out that participation in the 1962 feed grain program for corn, grain sorghum or barley will not be a condition of eligibility for price support on 1962 crop oats. Participation in the 1961 feed grain program was required for 1961 crop oats price-support eligibility.

As in previous years, price support on 1962 crop oats will be carried out through farm and warehouse stored loans and purchase agreements. Oats produced in violation of leases restricting production of surplus crops on federally-leased lands will not be eligible for price support in 1962.

Highway Dept. to Delay Mowing to Save Pheasants

Pheasants throughout the state's prime range will get an assist again this year from the state highway department.

Roadside mowing in these areas will be delayed until July 1, or later to prevent destruction of nests and the injuring or killing of the hen pheasant, who often will not leave the nest at the approach of the mower.

District maintenance engineers at Morris, Marshall, Windom, Mankato, Willmar and Owatonna have been instructed to delay mowing operations in their areas in a determined effort to aid nesting pheasants.

"This marks the fourth consecutive year the highway department has taken this truly cooperative action," explained James Kimball, conservation department game and fish director. "Our game managers have reported that delaying mowing operations in past years has saved many birds and nests from destruction."

FEATURED entertainers at the Miss Minnesota pageant to be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Mayo Civic Auditorium will be the Debutantes, a trio of 17-year-old girls from West St. Paul who have appeared recently with the Lawrence Welk orchestra. Susanne Pitblado, representing the Thief River Falls Jaycees as Miss Thief River Falls, will be among 14 families competing for Miss Minnesota honors.

An excellent program of demonstrations, handicraft work, speakers, and recreation has been arranged for the camp period.

Tuesday, June 12, the opening day, will have registration beginning at 3 p. m. followed by a coffee hour. Featured on the evening program will be Dr. Helen Fukushima, of Crookston, who will speak on "Family Life in Japan." Also, there will be a "get-acquainted" party.

On Wednesday, June 13, a lecture-demonstration on "Beauty for Your Table" will be presented by Mrs. Warren Bowe of the Crookston Floral Shop.

The Minnesota Heart association will have a representative of their association speak on "Know Your Heart." Also a feature of Wednesday's program will be the annual Women's Camp banquet in the evening. Miss Retta Bede of Duluth, former Women's Camp leader and retired Northwest School staff member, will speak at the banquet.

Thursday, June 14, is designated as "Day Camping" day for those who cannot attend the entire period of the camp but wish to attend at least one day's program. In the forenoon at 10:30 o'clock, a lecture-demonstration on "Meal-time Entertaining" will be given by Mrs. Harlene Overgaard, home economist of Grand Forks, N. Dak. At 1:45 p. m., "Hair Styles for You" will be presented by Mr. Anthony of Salon Josef, Fargo, N. Dak. There will be freshmen initiation in the evening. Christianson Writes of Life in Pakistan

Editor's Note: Dell Christianson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tormod Christianson of rural Thief River Falls, is serving with the U. S. Peace Corps in West Pakistan. Some of his experiences are contained in the following letter received by the Times this week.

Dear Friends;

The weeks fly by and suddenly I realize that it is high time to write to you.

After joining the Peace Corps for the West Pakistan project and leaving Thief River Falls last November, my wife and I along with the other 26 volunteers went to Puerto Rico. There we were given advanced training in the language and customs of the people of Pakistan and also a physical fitness program of hiking, mountain climbing and survival swimming. During four days of our stay there we took part in a community development program where we stayed with families in the rural areas and studied their community development program. It was of great interest to see people whose only means of communications is to walk the miles through the hills to one anothers shack, working together to improve living conditions in their small communities. Some of them, through their combined effort, have obtained electrical power, better roads and a good water supply to their homes. I feel that this was the most rewarding experience of our stay in Puerto Rico.

We bade a sad farewell to Puerto Rico but also with an eagerness from anticipation of a new experience in far off West Pakistan. Flying via New York, London, Frankfurt, Vienna, Istanbul and Beirut, we arrived at our destination on the morning of Dec. 9. It was disappointing that we couldn't stop for more than a few minutes at any of our stops but even these few minutes were very interesting. Throughout the next three weeks, we underwent our final training at Peshawar before going to our permanent assignments.

Peshawar lies in the foothills of the Himalayas and each morning as we got up we could see the snow covered peaks and the sun glistening on them.

We took a few field trips to the surrounding villages to give us a little better idea of the ways, customs and problems of the people with whom we were to live for the next year and a half. One Sunday we took an exciting trip thru tribal territory, where the famous Phatans live, and up to the Khyber Pass, the gateway between Pakistan and Afghanistan. According to legend, Alexander the Great came across the Himalayas and through this pass in 326 B. C. to conquer the people of India.

From Peshawar we travelled to Lyallpur where we were to work, my wife Charlette at the District Hospital and myself at the West Pakistan Agricultural University. When I first came over I thought I would be working in Agriculture extension work but when I arrived at the University they informed me that they felt I could make more of a contribution in the accounts section. I actually like this better as it is easier to see changes taking place in the office than in the field where you have to wait at least one growing season and most likely longer to see the results. I am greatly encouraged by the receptiveness they show towards new ideas. Whether they will be willing to put into practice some of these ideas remains to be seen. As of now there is a lengthy procedure which we have to go through to pay a bill. It is almost as difficult to get a bill paid here as it is to get a loan at the bank.

There are many interesting sights to see as one tours the city of Lyallpur. Our only mode of transportation being a bicycle, we see a lot more of it than with a car. A short way from our house is the local laundry which is a bit different from the ones in T. R. F. The clothes are washed in a muddy canal with a little beating on the rocks to facilitate removal of the real stubborn dirt. Consequently, the clothes do not last too long but I am surprised that they get as clean as they do. Some of the more modern ones have a steaming unit which does a little better job. Another fascinating sight to see is 20th century autos driving alongside camel caravans and bullock carts of the same type that were used thousands of years ago.

Lyallpur, near the center of West Pakistan, is a city of narrow streets and many people. The city has an area about the size of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks combined and a population somewhere between 300,000 and 600,000. I still don't know for sure as I haven't heard the same figure twice in my inquiries.

The climate here is quite pleasant in winter with warm days and very cool nights. In the summer however, the story changes and the temperature ranges from hot to hotter. Since the 21st of April we have had about three weeks of temperature over 100 degrees with the high so far of 109. Combine this with a good dust storm and you have a situation which is quite frequent. This will last until about the end of September with 60 to 70 days of over 100 and the maximum about 120 degrees. In July the monsoon season hits and the temperature is lowered some but there is little relief because of the high humidity. The annual rainfall is 12 to 15" with 8 to 10" coming during July and August.

Space does not permit description of all the sights here in one letter. Once in awhile, throughout the year, I will try to let you in on some of the goings on in our work here. So, until we can get together through our letters again, we will say goodbye, or in the Urdu language, Kudda Hafiz.

Sincerely yours,
Dell Christianson

P. S. We would enjoy very much hearing from anyone in the hometown area and will do our best to answer any letters we receive. Our address is: Mr. and Mrs. Dell Christianson, Peace Corps, c-o Lyallpur Dist. Hospital, Lyallpur, West Pakistan.

Graduates Hear Noted Speaker at Commencement

Value of the American heritage and priceless values of citizenship were expressed to Lincoln high school graduates of 1962 at commencement exercises Tuesday by Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi of Bradley University. A crowd estimated in excess of 2,000 persons packed the school gymnasium for the program.

The speaker called on the nation to stand firm in its international dealings, maintain a strong agricultural economy and cling to neutral regard for extremists. Individuals must evaluate the thinking of others on its own merits and respect the rights of an individual to think as he does. He reviewed his situation during the Hungarian revolt a few years ago.

Certificates of graduation were distributed to the class members by Lloyd Howick, president of the board of education, following presentation of the class by Richard Edlund, senior high school principal.
